HIS PRAYER WARNING.

Wilson to Women in Khaki.

National Spirit of America Reawakened by Lessons of the Great War.

President Confident that Citizens of Foreign Birth are Loyal to the Flag.

Girls Lined up in Military Order to Hear Address of the Chief Executive.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—America reawakened in national spirit through lessons of the war in Europe, was the theme of an address by President Wilson today at the opening of the National Service School military encampment for young women. In concluding the President voiced a warning that the honor and integrity of the United States cannot be tampered with. He prayed that the country should not be drawn into war, but declared that if it should be "in the great voice of national enthusiasm which would be raised, all the world would stand once more thrilled to hear the voice of the new world asserting the standards of justice and liberty."

The President expressed confidence that in time of trouble the great mass of foreign-born citizens of the United States would be loyal. "I never had the slightest doubt of what would happen when America called upon those of her citizens born in other countries to come to the support of the flag," he said. "Why, they will come with cheers; they will come with a momentum which will make us realize that America has once more been cried awake out of every sort of distemper and dream and distraction, and that any man who dares tamper with the spirit of America will be cast out of the confidence of a great nation upon the instant."

WILSON'S ADDRESS.

The address follows:

"It is with unaffected pleasure that I come to greet you as you have assembled for the interesting things you are going to do. I have always felt that there was very much more inspiration in things that were voluntarily done than in things that were done under official direction and by official summons. You have volunteered to come together without official suggestion in order to study some things which, while they are characteristic of the sort of comfort and assistance which women have been accustomed to offer, are nevertheless in this instance associated with a GREAT TRADE IN MUNITIONS.

Millions of Dollars Spent with Us for War Material.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Europe's purchases of war materials in the United States totaled $340,000,000 at the end of the first twenty months of the war. Figures assembled today in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce show the heaviest month was March last, when more than $50,000,000 worth of munitions left American ports. April totals have not yet been compiled. Shipments of high-explosive shells and shrapnel are crossing the Atlantic now at the rate of a million dollars worth daily, and vessels are carrying half a million dollars worth of powder a day. Fire-arms and cartridges valued at more than five millions went to Europe during March.

CLARKE AMENDMENT DEFEATED IN HOUSE.

Heart is Torn Out of Administration's Philippine Independence Bill.

Measure as it now Stands is Said to be Entirely Innocuous, Merely Authorizing the President to Arrange for Autonomy in the Archipelago When the Natives are Ready for Self-government.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—The very heart was torn out of the administration's Philippine independence bill tonight, the eighteenth anniversary of the battle of Manila Bay, when the House, by a majority of forty-two votes defeated the Clarke amendment, which would have granted complete freedom to the Islands within the next four years.

Without this amendment, the Philippine bill will be an innocuous measure, merely granting the President the right to arrange for the independence of the Islands whenever he feels that the Filipinos are fitted for self government.

The Clarke amendment was largely responsible for the resignation of Lindley M. Garrison, as Secretary of War, several months ago. Mr. Garrison, in addition to complaining about the lack of support from the President on the continental army scheme, also felt aggrieved because the President did not come out openly and oppose the Clarke amendment.

Although the House was sitting merely as a committee of the whole, the vote of 193 to 151 to eliminate the Clarke amendment foreshadows its final destruction. It means that the United States government will not throw the Philippines overboard within the next four years.

The Philippine bill probably will pass, but it will not be the vigorous measure that it was when it came from the Senate.

Representatives Kahn, Nolan, Curry, Hayes, Stephens, Elston and Kent, Republicans, voted as a unit against the Clarke amendment. The Democrats, Kettner and Randall, voted for the amendment. Representative Raker, who is ill, was absent.

THE DEBATE.

Defending the Clarke amendment, Representative Jones, author of the bill, declared that the choice presented to the Senate was "between a vague, indefinite, meaningless and almost inconceivable proposition and an honest effort to redeem the solemn promises of the Democratic party."

"There are now 12,000 soldiers in the islands," he said. "Who believes that 200,000 would be sufficient to garrison the forts that must be constructed and to defend the islands in the event of an attack by some strong nation? I do not hesitate to express the opinion that it would be impossible successfully to defend

Lord and Lady Wimborne.

At the outset of the Sinn Fein fiasco in Dublin dispatches stated that Lord Lieutenant Wimborne was held as a hostage by the rebels. This proved to be untrue. At no time was he at the mercy of the rebels, but on the other hand, as the official dispatches from time to time revealed, he had the situation in hand.

Little Danger of a Break as De Facto Government in Mexico Can't Afford It.

EL PASO (Tex.) May 1.—Information from Washington that Secretary Baker had instructed Gen. Scott and Gen. Funston to make it plain to Gen. Obregon that any agreement reached at their conference here must not be based on any plan for immediate withdrawal was received with gravity in Juarez tonight.

Gen. Obregon refused to comment, saying he would await developments at his next conference with the Americans. This, it was expected tonight, will take place tomorrow, although it was thought possible that it might be delayed until after the regular Tuesday Cabinet meeting at Washington. Among other Mexican officials gloom was openly expressed. It was pointed out that Gen. Obregon had come to the border confident that he could persuade Gens. Scott and Funston that the American expeditionary forces should be withdrawn at once. Secretary Baker's instructions to the American conferees were regarded as completely blocking the hopes of the Mexican Minister of War.

Speculation in El Paso tonight deals with the reply that Gen. Obregon will make to the proposals Gens. Scott and Funston will present at the next conference.

In some quarters it was declared that the only course he could take would be to accept the plan of the United States government to cooperate in the complete dispersal of the Villista bands still operating in Southern and Western Chihuahua and Durango.

CAN'T AFFORD A BREAK.

It was argued that the de facto government could not afford any break with the United States, whose recognition had given it stability. Any open disagreement must result in intervention, it was asserted, and it was further declared that those persons responsible for such an occurrence would scarcely be given any share in the rehabilitation of the Mexican republic.

The American plan for co-operation need not entail any particular hardships on the de facto government, it was further pointed out, since the sons of American occupation could be limited to the extreme northern portion of Mexico, and since withdrawal could be reached at a period not very far distant.

There was a marked disposition to attach some significance to the fact that Secretary Baker's instructions to Gens. Scott and Funston referred only to the Washington government's intention not to agree to an "immediate" withdrawal. This did not indicate, it was asserted, any objection to withdrawal after a reasonable period.

Mexican officials said today they were anxious to have the conference expedited. They asserted that every additional day of uncertainty regarding the disposition of the American columns increases the danger of outbreaks south of the border.

Little credence was attached, however, to reports that Gen. Obregon might decide to end the conference unless some agreement was soon reached.

While matters were at a standstill today, no reports of a reliable nature came indicating that the American army is preparing for at least a temporary stay on Mexican soil. These said that the Sixth, Sixteenth and Seventeenth infantry regiments, which formerly were at Casas Grandes and Colonia Dublan, now are at Namiquipa, Gen. Pershing's base, and that the Twenty-fourth infantry is guarding the line of communications from Columbus.

The Thirteenth and Eleventh regiments of cavalry, and part of the Tenth and Seventh, also are reported at Namiquipa with the Sixth on its way to that point.

With this large force at his command and with the customary defense preparations made, it was indicated that Gen. Pershing was ready for any eventuality.

Only a few scattered columns of the expeditionary force are reported south of Namiquipa. The great bulk of Gen. Pershing's men is now well within 200 miles of the border.

NEW INSTRUCTIONS FROM WASHINGTON.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—President Wilson has not altered his purpose to keep American troops in the border region of Mexico until brigandage has come to an end.

After a brief conference at the White House today, Secretary Baker prepared further instructions for Gens. Scott and Funston, sought by the officers as a result of their conference with Gen. Obregon, Carranza's War Minister. The message

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

The repulse by the French of powerful German attacks around Dead Man's Hill and counter-attacks to the north of Cumieres, again has been followed by heavy German bombardment of these sectors and a continuation of the shelling of Cote du Poivre and Douaumont, northeast of the fortress. No fresh infantry attacks have been launched by the Germans. In sapping operations in the Argonne forest the French were enabled by the explosion of a mine to take a portion of the crater. Nothing of importance has occurred along the northern section of the battle front in Russia, according to Berlin, but in the south the Austro-Hungarians have been forced to withdraw before a counter-attack by the Russians from trenches north of Mlyinov, which they had previously captured.

The conference of the American and Carranza generals is to be resumed on the border today. The Washington administration professes to believe that the de facto government of Mexico cannot afford a break with the United States and that no break is likely to occur. A somewhat different opinion is held in other quarters. The administration's attitude is this: "Help us get Villa and then talk with us about withdrawal."

BUT FEW BERLIN PAPERS SPEAK OF AMERICAN NOTE.

Three or Four State They Hope Whatever Answer is Made by the Kaiser will Prove Satisfactory and be Conducive of Lasting Peace with the United States. All-day Conference is Held at General Headquarters.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, May 1, 10:15 p.m. (via London.)—Discussions over the answer to the American note continued Sunday at general headquarters without a conclusion being reached, according to advices to Lokal Anzeiger.

The newspapers for the most part still refrain from comment. Theodor Wolff in the Tageblatt, George Bernhard in the Vossische Zeitung, Count von Reventlow in the Tages Zeitung and the Taglische Rundschau, however, give some consideration to the subject.

Herr Bernhard considers the situation still grave and voices a warning against too great optimism. He declares that the final decision "depends solely" on President Wilson.

"There would be no greater mistake," he says, "than the expectation that the American Congress might reach a different decision than the President. The time for exercising influence on the American people and their representatives is past. It is not doubted now that Congress stands behind President Wilson; the German leaders who have the task of framing the German answer must remember this.

"We could understand any decision, no matter what it is, under the self-understandable condition that it preserves Germany's dignity."

MUST BE SETTLED.

"But there must be no half-way measures," says Herr Bernhard, "and the decision must create a final and enduring status." He argues that if it is impossible to attain with certainty a status that will endure, it will be harder to reach a decision, and that the question would then be whether advantage for the moment or consideration for the future should govern. He refers to the fact that the offensive has been the guiding spirit of Prussia and Germany's military operations since the time of Frederick the Great, and concludes:

"And if our statesmen, in reaching a decision in the light of their information on all the conditions involved, believe that they must do so in the face of the uncertainty as to what the purposes of the other party are, they will have to take into consideration the question whether in such cases it is not wiser to take the lead themselves rather than be forced to play to the lead of the other player."

FRANCE'S HOPE.

Herr Wolff's article refers again to the hopes of Germany's enemies of a rupture between the United States and Germany and to the dissenting voice of Gustave Herve, the French anti-military agitator, whom he quotes as saying that France's only hope is Germany's thickheadedness.

Herr Wolff declares that the war can and will last a long time "unless reason illuminates the darkened minds of those who still do not want peace."

The Taglische Rundschau still believes that it will not be possible to find a compromise between President Wilson's demand and the protection of our vital interests, since President Wilson seems to desire a breach, and in fourteen days new cases would follow the Sussex case if that should have been adjusted.

The paper declares that a breach "of the present more than faulty and remarkable diplomatic relations" would give back to Germany her freedom of action and would not necessarily be followed by war, as it understands that two-thirds of the Congressmen advocate peace.

Kut-el-Amara.

PLACE BRITISH LOSSES AT TWENTY THOUSAND.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, May 1 (via Sayville.)—The number of casualties sustained by the British forces in Mesopotamia during March and April is given at 20,000 in a Constantinople dispatch to the Overseas News Agency.

"The booty captured at Kut-el-Amara has not yet been reckoned," the news agency adds. "Among the prisoners are four generals, 240 British officers and 270 Indian officers. The Turkish commander-in-chief, Halil Pasha, permitted Gen. Townshend (the British commander) to retain his sword."

A dispatch from a Constantinople news agency to the Overseas News Agency says:

"Gen. Townshend offered to surrender the town of Kut-el-Amara with all his artillery and more than £1,000,000 in cash, on condition that he receive military honors. The Turks declined, whereupon the British surrendered unconditionally."

"Discussing the military and political consequences of the fall of Kut-el-Amara," the Overseas News Agency says, "Berlin newspapers recall the announcement of Premier Asquith several months ago that Bagdad would soon be in the hands of the British. They compare this with the announcement of Winston Spencer Churchill, then First Lord of the Admiralty, that victory at Gallipoli for the British was near. The newspapers point out that the character of the British defeat at Kut-el-Amara will make a deep impression, not only on Mesopotamia, but on Arabia and Persia, to the borders of India.

"It is reported from Constantinople," the News Agency continues, "that the Turks took enormous quantities of various materials at Kut-el-Amara. The British surrendered because they lacked food and sanitary equipment to combat contagious diseases.

"The first news of the surrender was given to Constantinople by officers of the General Staff who arrived from headquarters in an automobile. Enver Pasha, Turkish War Minister, rode in an automobile to the Sultan's palace and took the news to the monarch."

SINN FEIN REBELS SUBMITTING; RETURN TO NORMAL IN DUBLIN.

Complete Failure of the Revolt in Ireland Indicated by Official and the Unofficial Dispatches—Lord Wimborne Master of the Situation.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 1, 7:50 p.m.—All the rebels in Dublin have surrendered and those in the country districts are doing likewise, according to an official statement issued this evening. The statement says:

"All the rebels in Dublin have surrendered and the city is reported quite safe. The rebels in the country districts are surrending to the mobile columns.

"There were 1000 prisoners in Dublin yesterday, of whom 489 were sent to England last night.

"It is reported from Queenstown that hopes were entertained that arms would be handed in today in the City of Cork.

"During the night of April 30-May 1, the rebels in Enniscorthy made an offer to surrender their leaders and their arms on condition that the rank and file be allowed to return to their homes. They were informed that the only terms that could be entertained were unconditional surrender. These terms were accepted by them at 6 o'clock this morning. It was reported later that the rebels were surrendering today on these terms.

"A column composed of soldiers and Royal Irish Constabulary captured seven prisoners in the neighborhood of Fern (County Wexford) today.

"Wicklow, Arklow, Dunlavin, Baggenalstown and New Ross, and the counties of Cork, Clare, Limerick and Kerry are generally quiet. The whole of Ulster is quiet."

RETURN TO NORMAL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

DUBLIN, May 1 (via London.)—A return to normal conditions is being accomplished gradually in Dublin, and it now is possible to give the first complete account of the happenings of the last week. Hitherto, news of the Dublin uprising has reached the outside world in fragmentary form, owing to the interruption of telegraphic communication, the censorship and the frequent conflict of statements, but the collapse of the rebellion has removed these conditions in great part and the story of the uprising, from

GERMAN'S ANSWER IS BEING FORMULATED.

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE. EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, April 30 (via Amsterdam and London, May 1.)—Germany's decision as to what her answer to the United States will be is not yet definitely taken. That much appears certain.

Aside from that one fact, little may be said, and speculation is more or less idle, even if it were permissible. Germany is gulping hard on the bitter pill prepared by President Wilson, but so far has been unable to get it down.

With every event that makes England's position more difficult, like Kut-El-Amara and the Irish revolt, sentiment in certain quarters and the public resistance to granting the demands of President Wilson in full, increases daily. All indications are that the government is finding a conciliatory solution and agreement that would be acceptable in Washington even more difficult than anticipated early in the week.

In governmental circles I was told again today that no decision had yet been reached, pending which nothing could or would be said. Up to noon today, the embassy, according to Secretary Roland Harvey, who is in charge, had received no word from Mr. Gerard when he would return. Secretary Winslow, with Borden Harriman, one of the attaches, was watching for any dispatch that might come from Washington.

What is transpiring in the conferences at the front between the Kaiser, the Chancellor and Ambassador Gerard was a sealed book up to noon today.

Mr. Gerard always had a natural hope and desire to get within hearing of the cannon at the front some time during the war. If he gave any intimation of such a wish while at headquarters, it is not at all unlikely that the Kaiser would be glad to show him something of the German troops on the field of battle, possibly around Verdun, where there are vantage points for the observation of the great drama being enacted there. In that event Mr. Gerard would hear and see the greatest artillery duel and bombardment of the war.

WILSON IS GRATIFIED WITH KAISER'S STAND.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—Herewith is presented President Wilson's contemplated course in the submarine controversy with Germany and his views of the policies he has pursued in dealing with the several belligerents.

The President has learned with gratification of the personally expressed desire of Emperor Wilhelm to maintain friendly relations with the United States and of the Kaiser's hope that Mr. Wilson, at no distant date, will be invited to invoke mediation between the allies and the central powers. He will dispatch a personal reply of appreciation to the German Emperor.

Whether, however, the German government is complying satisfactorily with his ultimatum to reform submarine warfare on commerce or suffer a rupture of diplomatic relations with the United States, the President cannot determine until he receives the formal reply of the German Foreign Minister Dr. Von Jagow, to the Sussex note. A delay in the receipt of the answer beyond Sunday, the anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania, the President will not be able to understand without satisfactory explanation.

The conciliatory attitude of the Kaiser and of German officialdom generally, together with the apparent suspension of the methods of submarine warfare of which he disapproves, encourages the President to expect a favorable reply to his demands.

In this connection, it may be stated that German officials here believe their government will agree to the application to submarine warfare of the rules of cruiser warfare on commerce pending a discussion of the technical questions, such as the status and treatment of armed merchantmen.

Although such a discussion might be prolonged indefinitely, possibly till the end of the war, the President would regard the arrangement satisfactory, so long as submarine operations were carried out in compliance with cruiser warfare rules.

If, however, the German government does not effect an adoption of the rule he has enunciated and resumes at any time the methods of submarine warfare he has proscribed, the President will not hesitate to carry out his threat to sever diplomatic relations with Berlin by dismissing Count von Bernstorff, and recalling Ambassador Gerard.

Optimistic Message.

APPREHENSION IS DISAPPEARING FROM SUBMARINE CONTROVERSY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, May 1, 4 p.m. (via London, 11:30 p.m.)—Future German-American relations probably can be looked forward to with less apprehension.

The Associated Press is permitted to make this statement although dispatches bearing on the nature of the German reply to the American note respecting submarine warfare have been stopped by the censorship.

The deliberations at great headquarters have been concluded and Ambassador Gerard will leave this evening for Berlin, arriving here Tuesday afternoon.

The German reply is expected with little delay, but it is considered undesirable that preliminary indications of the nature of the note should be published abroad.

OFFICIAL NEWS OF THE BATTLES

Russians Regain Positions Lost to the Austrians.

Italians Again Throw Shells on City of Gorizia.

French Shatter German Trenches in Belgium.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville) May 1.—The Russians have regained by a counter-attack positions north of Mlynov, which they had lost to the Austrians, it was announced in the Austro - Hungarian headquarters' statement of April 30, received here from Vienna. More than 200 prisoners were taken by the Austrian forces in the engagement April 28 when the Russian lines were penetrated.

The statement says:

"North of Mlynov, Austro-Hungarian detachments have been withdrawn in the face of attacks by superior Russian forces from the Russian advanced positions which they captured on April 28. The number of prisoners reported yesterday has increased to more than 200.

"On the Italian front there have been the usual artillery engagements at several places. Gorizia was again shelled.

"Austro - Hungarian airmen dropped bombs on the barracks and camps near Villa Vicentia. All these aeroplanes returned unharmed after a successful aerial battle. An Austro-Hungarian airman fought near Sandaniele del Friuli against four hostile machines and forced one of them to descend in precipitate flight.

"An Italian press report of April 28 contains the absolutely invented assertion that the Austro-Hungarian infantry 'increasingly' used explosive bullets. It is stated that Italian acts against the law of nations, such as the use of explosive bullets, gas grenades and the shelling of churches and monasteries are too numerous to be mentioned."

FRENCH REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, May 1.—The official communication tonight reads:

"In Belgium our artillery shattered German trenches in front of Steenstraete and Boesinghe.

"In the Argonne mine fighting occurred at La Ville Mort. We occupied the southern edge of the crater caused by the explosion of one of our mines. Our fire was concentrated on the enemy organizations at Les Courtes Chaussees and the Cheppy wood.

"In the region of Verdun there was a spirited bombardment of our positions on the left bank of the Meuse. On the right bank artillery activity was concentrated on the sectors of Cote du Poivre and Douaumont.

"Aviation: During the month of April our battle aerial corps displayed much activity, particularly in the region of Verdun, obtaining appreciable results in the course of numerous aerial struggles, where they kept an incontestable advantage. Our pilots succeeded in bringing down thirty-one enemy aeroplanes. Nine of these fell within our lines and twenty-two were seen by our observers to fall in flames within the German lines, where they were completely abandoned.

"During the same period six French aeroplanes have been worsted in combats and fell within the German lines."

STEAMER PATRIA ESCAPES TORPEDO.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—The French passenger steamer Patria, which arrived here today from Naples and Palermo, reported that on her last outward voyage at 10 a.m., April 5, she was the target of a submarine torpedo attack in the Mediterranean. The torpedo missed the ship by about ten feet, the officers said.

The Patria was at the time passing Cape Spartaventa, the southerly part of Sardinia, and running at full speed. The submarine did not show itself, the officers said, but the torpedo's wake was visible and was followed after it passed the ship. Many of the thirty-eight passengers also said they saw the torpedo's wake, according to the officers. At least one passenger, Vincent Howell, was an American, according to the passenger list.

The Patria was not armed at the time, but a gun was placed on her after deck when she arrived in Naples.

On a previous trip the Patria narrowly missed being hit by a torpedo off the coast of Tunis, March 1.

TWO BRITISH SHIPS SUNK BY MINES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 1.—The British armed yacht Aeguss, Capt. T. P. Walker, retired vice-admiral, and the British mine-sweeper Nasturtium, Lieutenant-Commander Robin W. Lloyd, struck mines in the Mediterranean and sank. The official statement announcing this adds that the captains and officers of both ships were saved. Six men are missing from the crew of the Aeguss and seven from the Nasturtium.

LARGE TRANSPORT SUNK BY SUBMARINE.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, May 1 (via Sayville.)—It is reported from Saloniki that a German submarine has torpedoed a large transport. It is said the transport was torpedoed off Kara Burnu, ten miles east of Saloniki. This is the second instance in which a transport is reported to have been torpedoed near Saloniki.

This report is contained in a dispatch from Zurich, which credits this news to the Greek newspaper Nea Allthia of Saloniki.

His Prayer.

very great national conception and duty.

"We, of course, are living in the presence of things which we cannot yet assess, because they are unprecedented. The world never witnessed such a war as is now convulsing almost every part of the world except this part, which we particularly love and would seek to safeguard; and the very foundations of the ordinary life of nations have been disturbed, so deeply disturbed that no man can predict what the final settlement will be. And if this war has done nothing else, it has at least done this: It has made America aware of dangers which most of us had deemed unreal, and has made us aware that the danger of our own time is nothing less than the unsettlement of the foundations of civilization.

"Civilization does not rest upon war. It rests upon peace. It rests upon those things which men achieve by co-operation and mutual interest in one another. It does not flourish in the soil of hostility and antagonism, and a world war is a war in the presence of which civilization holds its breath and wonders if it will itself survive. As we see these great issues joined we on this side of the water are done this great service: We are reminded of our spiritual relation not only to this great struggle, but particularly to this great nation, of which we constitute parts, and our spiritual relation to the rest of the world is determined by our spiritual relation to America.

"You have come together to be prepared for an unusual duty which America may call upon you to perform, but what has moved you to do this? Your duty to your country. But what is the foundation of that duty? What do you conceive America to be? When you come to the last searching analysis we do not owe any duty except to those things that we believe in, and the glory of performing our duty towards America is that we believe in America, and we believe in America because, I venture to say it with entire respect for other peoples and other governments—this government was established with a special purpose such as no other government ever avowed. This government was established in order that justice and liberty might belong to every man whom our institutions would touch, and not only that justice and liberty should belong to America, but that so far as America was concerned and her influence involved they should be extended to mankind everywhere. So the inspiration of serving America is a very profound inspiration.

"Have you not thought what might be the outcome of this great struggle so far as the nations already engaged are concerned? Can you not imagine the great awakening that has come to a country like France, for example; how much more intensely every Frenchman and every German feels the national compulsion than he ever felt it before? How much more he feels himself, not an individual, but a fraction in a great whole? How much more his blood springs to the challenge of patriotic suggestion? He is not fighting for his own life. He is sacrificing his own life, or willing to sacrifice it, in order that a greater life than his might persist, the life of his nation. So in America we are getting already the indirect benefit of that suggestion. We are beginning to realize how a nation is a unit and that any individual of it who does not feel the impulse of the whole does not belong to it.

"We have heard a great deal about divided allegiance in this country, but before we discuss divided allegiance in its political aspect we ought to let our thoughts run back to what were perhaps our divided allegiances in respect to our relations to each other. America had been brought to such a point of diversification of interest, of occupation, of objects sought, that she was in danger of losing the consciousness of her singleness and solidarity. There were men pulling at cross purposes in regard to their private interests and their public endeavors in this country long before the war came to remind us that we were a single nation, with a single duty and a single idea; and the first thing that has happened to us is that we have all been pulled together by a great tug at the heart in respect of our individual interests. We have all been reminded with an emphasis, for which I for one thank God, that we are first of all Americans, and only after that at liberty to seek our individual interest. And then those of our fellow-citizens who may for a little while been tempted to think rather of the lands of their origin than of the land of their present allegiance, have been reminded that there is, politically speaking, only one allegiance conceivable and possible.

"You have heard a great deal about the hyphen. I, for one, have never been deceived. The number of persons of really divided allegiance in this country is very small, and if I had been in some other country I would, for one, resent the representations which have been made by those who were not the spokesmen of those for whom they pretended to speak in suggesting a divided allegiance. I have never had the slightest doubt of what would happen when America called upon those of her citizens born in other countries to come to the support of the flag. Why, they will come with cheers, they will come with a momentum which will make us realize that America has once more been cried awake out of every sort of distemper and dream and distraction, and that any man who dares tamper with the spirit of America will be cast out of the confidence of a great nation upon the instant.

"I believe that a certain spiritual regeneration is going to come out of this thing. We have been thinking too much about our individual selves and too little about the country of which we constitute a part, and on the services which you ladies are going to render is to show how, upon no summons at all, upon the mere offering of the opportunity, women will come together to render those inestimable services which are necessary if the country should get into any sort of trouble.

"God forbid that we should be drawn into war, but if we should be, America would seem once more to shake herself out of a dream to say, 'Did any man deem that we were asleep? Did any man deem that we had forgotten the traditions of America? Did any man deem that he could tamper with the honor or integrity of the United States? And in the great voice of enthusiasm which would be raised all the world would stand once more thrilled to hear the voice of the new world asserting the standards of justice and liberty."

WOMEN IN KHAKI.

The President spoke before several hundred young women dressed in khaki and drawn up in military order. They entered an encampment today at which they will be taught first aid to the wounded, bandage making, telegraphy and other war time arts. The encampment is being held under the auspices of the women's section of the Navy League. Secretaries Baker and Daniels and a large group of government officials and army and navy officers were included in the audience. The President's speech followed the formal raising of the American flag over the encampment.

GRAIN FOR BELGIUM LOST WITH A SHIP.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 1, 5:11 p.m.—The British steamship Hendon Hall from Portland, April 7, and Louisburg, C. B., April 11, for Rotterdam, has been sunk, according to a dispatch to Lloyd's. The crew was saved.

HER CARGO.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Me.) April 1.—The British steamship Hendon Hall, reported today to have been sunk, carried a cargo of 251,000 bushels of wheat consigned to the Belgian Relief Commission from this port on April 7 for Rotterdam. There is no record of the crew, except it is known that one American left the ship here.

The Hendon Hall was 3994 tons gross. She was 345 feet long, forty-seven feet beam and nineteen feet deep. The vessel was built in 1901 and owned by the West Hartlepool Steam Navigation Company.

PLAYING POLITICS WITH THE JUDICIARY.

WILSON'S MOVE TO SAVE HIMSELF IN WISCONSIN.

Names Man Unknown to Bench Duty to a Place on the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals to Keep Peace Among the Democratic State Delegation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—To keep peace in the Wisconsin Democracy, President Wilson today appointed Attorney Evan A. Evans of Baraboo, as a judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the vacancy caused by the death of Judge W. H. Seaman.

Mr. Evans will take his place in the Seventh Judicial Circuit, comprising Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois. His headquarters will be in Chicago, where the majority of the court's hearings will be held.

His appointment by the President was said to be a political compromise between the warring factions of Wisconsin Democrats. To give Mr. Evans the appointment, the President had to push him over the heads of Judges Sanborn of Madison and Geiger of Milwaukee, of the western and eastern districts of Wisconsin, and several better known lawyers were denied the appointment.

Of the two factions concerned in the compromise Senator Husting of Wisconsin wanted Circuit Judge Martin Lueck of Juneau appointed, and Joseph E. Davies, heading the Federal Trade Commission, favored the appointment of his associate in Wisconsin, John A. Aylward.

The Attorney-General finally selected Mr. Evans and the President sent his name to the Senate for confirmation.

Mr. Evans is 40 years old and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1899. In 1908 he was candidate for Attorney-General of that State, and in 1912 he presided over the State convention. He is described by his colleagues as one of Wisconsin's strongest trial lawyers, but he never has occupied a position on any bench.

GERMAN PUPILS SUBSCRIBE TO LOAN.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville) May 1.—At a meeting of the Central Committee of the Reichsbank, Rudolph Havenstein, president of the bank, reported that the number of individual subscriptions to the fourth war loan was 5,300,000 as compared with 1,002,000 for the first war loan. The number of subscriptions for sums amounting to less than 2000 marks was nearly five million, as against 900,000 in the case of the first loan.

Pupils of 500 high schools subscribed 47,000,000 marks.

RIOTERS IN PITTSBURGH DAMAGE PROPERTY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—Angered because workmen refused to join their ranks, 5000 striking employees of the Westinghouse plants forcibly entered the mills of four big steel companies in Rankin and Braddock late today, attacked employees, and caused property damage amounting to several hundred dollars.

One rioter was arrested, but hundreds of strikers attacked the police with stones and rescued the prisoner. The rioting lasted three hours and was the most serious that has occurred since the strike began.

The plants entered by the strikers were those of the Edgar Thompson works of the Carnegie Steel Company, the American Steel and Wire Company, the McClintic-Marshall Construction Company, and the Standard Chain Works.

May Day.

SOME STRIKES SETTLED, OTHERS ARE DECLARED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—May Day, featured here by a monster parade of union workers, also was marked by the beginning of new labor disorders, as well as the settlement of several strikes in the metropolitan district.

The paraders, carrying banners and placards, passed up Fifth avenue for several miles and returned to Washington Square, the starting point, by way of Madison avenue. The garment workers later held a mass meeting preparatory to the calling off of the strike tomorrow, following the lockout put into effect by the manufacturers last week.

The day began with a strike of engineers and firemen on tugboats and lighters in New York Harbor and adjacent waterways, but by nightfall many of the owners had acceded to the demands for increased wages and the water traffic situation, which was threatened with an almost complete tie-up, was much improved.

Negotiations between the engineers and firemen and their employers continued tonight, and a satisfactory settlement was expected.

About a thousand dock laborers went on strike in Brooklyn for an increase in wages, hampering the movement of freight.

It was announced that the strike of 2000 jewelry workers, which had been in progress for three months, had been settled. The workers received an eight-hour day, time and a half for overtime and the abolition of the home work system.

AKRON CARPENTERS GO ON STRIKE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

AKRON (O.) May 1.—Several hundred carpenters were on strike here today. Of the 900 carpenters in the city, union leaders claimed 600 had quit today. The strikers ask an eight-hour day instead of nine hours and an increase of pay from 45 to 55 cents an hour.

ROOT STOCK IS BOOMING; HEADQUARTERS OPENED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—Elihu Root stock went up in the local political market today following news from New York that Chicago headquarters will be opened soon to boom him for the Republican Presidential nomination. The fact that Root headquarters have been established in the Manhattan Hotel in New York leads the political leaders here to look for a live Root candidacy. The impression is that the so-called "old guard" would like to nominate Root.

"The party leaders are for Root," said a leader who tied up to Sherman as a favorite son, at the start, "They believe if the issue is going to be international law Root matches up with Wilson. He is the man to make that fight for the Republicans. It looks, however, as though Hughes is the real candidate in the background. His strength appears to be in his silence. You cannot say anything on national questions now, it appears, without offending some one. Root hurt himself with the Germans, just as have Roosevelt and Wilson, because of views expressed."

The Roosevelt champions look upon Justice Hughes as the real danger to their idol. They figure that Root will not "get by" because the "old guard" feel they may win with Hughes, whereas the nomination of Root might result in another wide-open split in the party. Gov. Dunne, who sat at the Illinois Bar Association dinner, at which Roosevelt talked Saturday night, "peppered" his eulogy of the Roosevelt speech with some criticism of the sage of Oyster Bay.

"It was a delightful speech given in the Rooseveltian fashion," said the Governor. "But when you studied it and looked for the meat there was nothing new. The things Roosevelt talked about have been printed in the magazine and it was the old stuff.

"Roosevelt criticism out of office and Roosevelt action in office don't match up. I say to Mr. Roosevelt as President, firstly: Did you do anything to increase the size of the standing army? Secondly, Mr. Roosevelt, did you do anything to improve the navy? Thirdly, what did you do to promote the Swiss idea of universal service?"

Fred W. Upham of the "old guard" asserted William Howard Taft has said the same things Roosevelt did, with the difference that the Roosevelt "punch" and style of dressing up to the ideas put them into form that made them look new."

"It was a great speech and one that will live in history," said Harold L. Ickes, "Progressive' party State chairman. "It marks Roosevelt as the leader of the hour. He had his audience with him; they cheered wildly and were with him to a man."

LAMAR CONVICTION FINALLY CONFIRMED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Supreme Court today affirmed the conviction of David Lamar, "wolf of Wall street," in the New York Federal courts on charges of impersonating Representative A. Mitchell Palmer to J. P. Morgan and others with intent to defraud. Lamar is under sentence to serve two years in the penitentiary and today's action is the final word in the courts.

The court through Chief Justice White decided that a Congressman is an officer of the United States within the meaning of the statute against the impersonation of an "officer of the United States." That was the main point on which Lamar rested his case. Other points, principally those relating to jurisdiction and legal practice, were decided against him.

RESERVE ANNOUNCEMENT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Federal Reserve Board announces that it has been advised by one of the twelve reserve banks of a sale of new 3 per cent. government bonds, provided for in the Federal Reserve Act, at 103 5-8, when issued, and the sale of $100,000 of one-year notes at 100½.

BOOM FOR ROOT IS LAUNCHED.

New Yorker's Headquarters Opened in Washington.

Has Forty Gotham Votes for the First Ballot.

All Yankee States are Opposed to Gov. McCall.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—The boom of Elihu Root, of New York, for the Republican nomination for President assumed definite shape today when Senator Wadsworth of that State assumed charge of the Root movement in Washington.

In connection with the revival of the Root boom, a conversation which is said to have taken place between former Senator Root and former President Roosevelt, at the home of Robert Bacon, in New York, was discussed in the Senate cloakrooms.

Senator Root, according to the story told by those who attended the conference at the Bacon residence, mentioned to Roosevelt the fact that his friends were urging him to announce his candidacy.

"Go after the nomination," Roosevelt said, "and if you get it, I'll support you." Then, with a smile, he added: "And if I get it, I suppose you will support me." Senator Root is said to have indicated that in such an event, he would do so.

INTERCHANGE OF VIEWS.

According to the story circulated among the politicians in Washington today, there has lately been an interchange of views among Senator Boise Penrose, of Pennsylvania, former Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican National Committee; Nicholas Murray Butler, and other regular leaders, with the result that there has been an understanding that Senator Root, Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, or Gov. McCall of Massachusetts, may be nominated.

This report, however, is discredited by the fact that it is known by the insiders that the strongest leaders in New England will not support the aspirations of Gov. McCall. The reason for this opposition is that McCall, overlooking the political debt that he owed to Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, whose influence was largely responsible for McCall's election to the Governorship, neglected to take an active part in the movement to obtain the Republican nomination for Senator Weeks. The influence of New England, therefore, will be thrown against McCall should he develop any greater Presidential aspirations than already stir within him.

ROOT'S STRENGTH.

Former Senator Root will have at least forty of the New York delegation on the first ballot at the Republican National Convention, according to a prediction made by Senator Wadsworth today.

Senator Wadsworth is greatly pleased over the fact that the Root boom has been launched in New York and headquarters opened for him.

Senator Wadsworth, in an interview, declared there was great need for the counsel of Senator Root and that the movement for him had strong support the country over.

He believes Root's support in the convention will grow rapidly after the first ballot, and that he can command a majority of the New York delegation against Justice Hughes.

SMOOT OPPOSES RURAL CREDITS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—With a protest against the creation of new bureaus to attract young people to the government service, where he said many able men had resigned themselves to a dreary existence instead of winning success in independent effort, Senator Smoot vainly urged the Senate today to amend the Hollis rural credits bill so as to regulate the members of the proposed farm loan board from five to three.

He was more successful with another amendment to reduce the salaries of the members of the board from $10,000 to $7500. Sitting as a committee of the whole, the Senate adopted the latter proposal by a vote of 26 to 25, Senators Beckham and Kern joining the Republicans in supporting it.

Senator Hollis gave notice that he would ask for a separate vote on the amendments when the bill reached the Senate from the committee of the whole.

TWO MEN ACCUSED OF KILLING SHERIFF.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

FORT COLLINS (Colo.) May 1.—Two men, believed to have been the slayers of Sheriff Frank Roach of Cheyenne and Nels Nelson were captured today by Sheriff E. I. Cook and one deputy from Fort Collins. The capture was made twenty-seven miles northwest of here. The men gave the names of Pete Burns and C. R. Pearson. They were heavily armed. The officers identified a gun carried by one of the men as belong to Sheriff Roach.

A jury impaneled this afternoon by W. T. Hollowell, Coroner, returned a verdict charging Pearson and Burns with responsibility for the death of Roach and Nelson.

Rebels Submitting.

the time it began, last Monday, may now be given in proper sequence, in the light of information obtained from authoritative sources.

When the irreconcilable opponents of British rule in Ireland proclaimed the republic their move was looked on generally as a mere display of fanaticism. It was soon found, however, that it was no mere demonstration, but an outbreak which had behind it a fair organization and sufficient force to strangle the life of the capital and compel the authorities to send for military assistance from England. At no time, however, did the military or civil authorities consider the rebellion a menace to the government, nor did they have any fears as to their ability to cope with it quickly as soon as its extent became apparent. What occurred was as follows:

Monday—The first move was a dash by members of the Sinn Fein into the general postoffice. Many of these men were in the uniform of the Irish Volunteers, a body formed at the time men of Ulster organized against granting home rule to Ireland, the object being to resist any attempt by Ulster to oppose the home-rule law. The party worked quietly, compelling all the officials to quit their posts while they cut telegraphic communications with the rest of Ireland and with England.

The rebels posted sentinels, fully armed, at the doors and windows, and prevented any soldiers or policemen from entering the building.

Soon afterward firing opened in the neighboring streets, for the rebels immediately shot down any man in khaki. Several officers and men of the regular army thus fell victims in the first few minutes of the revolt.

The authorities, unprepared at first to battle with the uprising, ordered the police and soldiers to retire at once to their quarters, none of them being armed. In the meantime, the rebels, according to their prearranged plan, seized other points in the city. They established themselves at the City Hall, Liberty Hall and St. Stephen's Green, and occupied many houses in Sackville street and the side streets leading to it.

Their sentries patroled blocks in the center of the city, and sharpshooters took up positions on the roofs and at the windows of houses. An attempt was made to seize Dublin castle, but the guard of royal Irish constabulary and soldiers prevented the rebels from getting beyond the gate, at which they killed the policeman on duty.

The authorities were powerless, with the forces at their disposal, to dislodge or attempt to combat the rebels, who, however, made a great mistake, which eventually cost them dear. They either forgot to seize the telephone exchange or did not think it worth their attention. Thus the authorities were enabled to send a call to the military officers at Camp Curragh, some thirty miles away. From this point a considerable body of troops was immediately dispatched to the capital.

Tuesday—The situation in the morning was virtually unchanged, except that the rebels apparently had increased in numbers and spread in small parts about the city. Sniping was fairly prevalent and numbers of casualties occurred among several rebels and civilians, the last suffering more than the two fighting bodies because they failed to grasp the seriousness of the situation.

No effort was undertaken on this day to turn the rebels out of their strongholds, as the force of military on hand was still insufficient. The military in London had been communicated with and within a short time a large body of troops was on the way to cope with the rebellion.

Today came the news that all the rebel leaders had surrendered and that the total number of prisoners taken this day previous in Dublin had reached 1000. The transportation of captured rebels to England was in full swing and it became known that nearly 500 of them had been sent across the channel. There was further submission of bodies outside the city, notably at Enniscorthy.

Reverting to the beginning of the outbreak, it is known that the authorities, although fully recognizing its seriousness, were certain from the first moment that the rebels would be suppressed in a reasonably short time after the first surprise. Lord Wimborne, the Lord Lieutenant, expressing confidence of this from the start. The greatest sufferers from the disturbances were the hundreds of thousands of peaceable citizens—men, women and children—who were compelled to remain indoors and were unable to obtain sufficient food, although there were ample stores in the city. The authorities early began organizing relief for these people and on Friday and Saturday women and children were escorted in groups to provision depots where large supplies were handed out.

Halil Bey Says Covetousness Started Great Conflict.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville) May 1.—An account of the banquet given in Constantinople last night by members of the Committee of Union and Progress in the Turkish Parliament for a party of deputies from the German Reichstag, issued today by the Overseas News Agency, says:

"The Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs, Halil Bey, delivered an address of welcome. He stated that the war originated with Russia, which desired to conquer the Dardanelles. Russia was encouraged by Great Britain and thus dared to fight for possession of the straits for a free entrance to the Mediterranean.

"In the Duma, M. Sazanoff, the Foreign Minister, announced that the historic moment for Russia had come to enable her to obtain free access to the seas. The British Prime Minister also urged acceptance of the Russians views.

Halil Bey continued: "This unanimous declaration discloses that the plan was sanctioned by treaty between these nations.

TURKS KNEW PLANS.

"When the war began England and France suggested that Turkey come to an understanding by which the integrity of Turkish territory was guaranteed, but Turkey knew that the aim of the Russians was the conquest of the Dardanelles; that France was waiting for Turkey's downfall and that a treaty with the Entente meant nothing but oppression by tutelage.

"'Germany suggested an alliance on the basis of equal rights for both countries and mutual assistance in case of danger. The Sultan and the Turkish nation accepted the German proposition and escaped the tutelage of foreigners.

"'Germany kept her word and drafted a convention with Turkey giving to Turkey's Consular offices in Germany the same rights as those given to Germans in Turkey and regulating the questions of jurisdiction over residence in both countries on the basis of equality.

"Halil Bey announced that these negotiations had virtually been concluded and that the treaties would be ratified in the near future. He insisted that the treaties were founded on mutual respect of rights and sovereignty."

DESIRE PEACE.

"Count Wolff-Metternich, the German Ambassador, replying to the Turkish Foreign Minister, said that both countries were desirous of a peace which guaranteed the existence and future of the nation. Germany's desire, he said, was to see Turkey strong, standing on her own legs and maintaining not only now but also in the future the valuable and faithful alliance.

"Germany, therefore, the Ambassador said, asked for no domains in which her interests were to be considered as paramount, nor did she want any position which conflicted with the dignity and independence of Turkey.

"Both speeches were enthusiastically applauded by the Turks and Germans present at the banquet."

NEGRO PROBLEM BECOMES ACUTE

Southern Congressman Heaps Insults on Colored Man.

Declare Their Votes Smell Across the Nation.

Change in Government is Black Man's Only Hope.

BY HARRY CARR.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 26.—Unless the control of this government is very soon shifted from the southern colonels who are now in the seats of the mighty there will be a number of serious consequences.

The most serious of these will be the aggravation of the color question. The southern men who rule Congress are changing it from a high school debate, into a vital and dangerous issue.

It seems to be rapidly growing in bitterness. It pops up everywhere. In the Senate, southern men speak with passion in opposition to negro soldiers. In the House it flares up with savage hatred in connection with the segregation of negro and white children in the juvenile courts. Even in the short time I have been in Washington I can see it gathering impetus and bitterness. If this continues I do not know what terrible thing may happen.

The negro question will become acute some day owing to this complication: In many Southern States the negroes are not allowed to vote owing to the operations of the "grandfather law." But they are counted as population in giving the South, like the North, a Congressman, for every 200,000 persons. Some day the attempt will be made to get through Congress a law limiting representation in Congressmen to voters; then the trouble will come.

The southern Congressmen are very cocky in their self-confidence that they alone know how this question should be handled.

In every debate some southerner remarks in a top-lofty way: "You northerners do not understand the negroes as we do."

WISE DEDUCTIONS.

They do not realize, of course, that therein lies the hope of the dangerous color question. It must be handled by those who do not "know the negroes as we do." In other words, by some one far enough away to get the proper perspective. The man who has lived in a town where a negro has been lynched for rape knows less about the negro question than the man who never saw a negro.

The trouble with the southern men now in control of Congress is that Joshua is not of their number. If Joshua were a Democratic leader in the present Congress he might be prevailed upon to command the sun and the moon to stand still. But Joshua is not there. The sun and the moon are not standing still; neither is the earth; nor are we or the negro question.

The negro question is not one that can be disposed of once for all. It is, on the contrary, a question that must be gently coaxed along. It must be temporized. All you can do with the negro question is to adjust it each day to ease off the strain of that day. It is a question beyond the wisdom of man to settle out of hand. It must settle itself.

The most fatal of all attempted solutions is the southern idea of "keeping the nigger in his place." It is fatal because it assumes that all other questions are going to move and that the negro question will stand still.

SOON A MENACE.

Deprived of the right to vote, thrown back onto themselves, constantly increasing in population, the negroes will soon become a severe menace to the South and to the negroes unless something is done to ease off the friction and to change the negroes' condition.

The negroes won't stand still. Those who have force of character enough to resent an education from an unwilling world will rise. In the Vicksburg drill as a voluntary force of some sort and with arms in their hands, began to be disciplined, so that in the opinion of the white people of the State they began to be a source of menace to the white population, what would happen to these volunteer darkeys? Echo answers, "What?"

But they are counted as population in giving the South, like the North, a Congressman, for every 200,000 persons. Some day the attempt will be made to get through Congress a law limiting representation in Congress to voters; then the trouble will come.

The southern Congressmen are very cocky in their self-confidence that they alone know how this question should be handled.

In every debate some southerner remarks in a top-lofty way: "You northerners do not understand the negroes as we do."

WISE DEDUCTIONS.

They do not realize, of course, that therein lies the hope of the dangerous color question. It must be handled by those who do not "know the negroes as we do." In other words, by some one far enough away to get the proper perspective. The man who has lived in a town where a negro has been lynched for rape knows less about the negro question than the man who never saw a negro.

The trouble with the southern men now in control of Congress is that Joshua is not of their number. If Joshua were a Democratic leader in the present Congress he might be prevailed upon to command the sun and the moon to stand still. But Joshua is not there. The sun and the moon are not standing still; neither is the earth; nor are we or the negro question.

The negro question is not one that can be disposed of once for all. It is on the contrary, a question that must be gently coaxed along. It must be temporized. All you can do with the negro question is to adjust it each day to ease off the strain of that day. It is a question beyond the wisdom of man to settle out of hand. It must settle itself.

The most fatal of all attempted solutions is the southern idea of "keeping the nigger in his place." It is fatal because it assumes that all other questions are going to move and that the negro question will stand still.

SOON A MENACE.

Deprived of the right to vote, thrown back onto themselves, constantly increasing in population, the negroes will soon become a severe menace to the South and the South to the negroes unless something is done to ease off the friction and to change the negroes' condition.

The negroes won't stand still. Those who have force of character enough to wrest an education from an unwilling world will rise. In the effort to head off this class the southerners of the Vardaman type are only succeeding in pushing back, further in degradation, those negroes who lack the ability to rise.

There will be hell popping all over the United States if the southern people are allowed to extend their negro policy. The first effort to do so was when they recently tried to extend the Jim Crow system to the juvenile courts of the capital.

Happily, the very bitterness of the southern members is self-corrective. Some things have happened in this Congress that will react upon the Democratic elections this fall. There is a heavy negro vote in this country, and the Wilson administration is driven it forever into the Republican party.

What do you imagine the colored vote will do when he reads some of the following incidents in the proceedings of Congress?

HOW THEY LOVE THE NEGRO.

Discussing the military bill in the Senate on April 4, Senator Vardaman protested furiously against the provision creating a volunteer army on the ground that negroes might be allowed to enlist in it, lest negro regiments be raised for the defense of the country.

He said: "If a man should be elected who is so color blind on the race question and whose olfactories have become so desensitized that he could not distinguish between a white man and a negro, he could raise negro regiments and mobolize them for military training in every Congressional district in the South. I do not charge that any man who could be elected President would be guilty of such a monstrous act, but I am not willing to take any chances. If I could have my own way about it I should prohibit the use of negroes in the army in any way except as menials."

Replying to Vardaman, Senator John Sharpe Williams made a speech ridiculing the idea that the white people of the South would allow negroes to volunteer. He said:

"Suppose a lot of darkeys went to Hinds county to a so-called Pittsburg drill as a voluntary force of some sort and with arms in their hands began to be disciplined, so that in the opinion of the white people of the State they began to be sources of menace to the white population, what would happen to those volunteer darkeys? Echo answers, 'What?'"

Vardaman answered that the negroes would flock to such a camp "like carrion crows around a carcass."

WORSE IN THE HOUSE.

In the House the negro hatred has been more outspoken and bitter than in the Senate.

This race animosity rose to its full tide during the debate over the question of separating the white and negro children who are brought into the Juvenile Court.

One of the southern members started it by declaring that "the gentleman from Massachusetts seems to have the smell of coon in his nostrils."

Prof. Fess, who is the president of Antioch College, roused the southerners to fury by relating a story of one of the prize students at Antioch who graduated along with the white boys and sat at the banquet table with his (Fess's) own son. That negro boy is now drawing a big salary in civil life.

Rucker of Missouri jumped to his feet and, in the course of a bitter speech, said: "I have but one boy and I would rather have him grow up in gross ignorance than to enter any school on earth that opens its doors to white man and black man alike."

Congressman Davenport of Oklahoma declared hotly: "The best negro that ever breathed cannot be raised to as good a moral standard as the commonest white man, and you can try all you want to."

HEFLIN THE WORST.

The most offensive speech was made by Mr. Heflin of Alabama, who is one of the men closest to President Wilson. He followed Mr. Madden of Illinois, who pointed out that the Democrats were willing to appropriate $250,000 to kill coyotes, but were willing to do nothing for the negroes.

"The gentleman from Illinois," said Heflin when he got the floor, "represents a district so dark hued with buck negroes and of such rank some rank odor that you can see the kinks on it from the capital and smell it across the continent."

Speaker Champ Clark finally came to the rescue. He comes from Missouri. Missouri has a large negro vote. It is to be one of the pivotal States in the coming campaign. It is also one of the doubtful States. He realized the terrible political possibilities of this debate.

Putting it on the ground of waste of time, but with some tactful hints as to disastrous political effect, Mr. Clark warned his Democratic friends to change the subject, and they did so. But, of course, the damage had been done.

The political party which applauded the sentiment that the negro vote of Illinois can be smelled across the continent is not likely to be much of a hit this fall in any community where self-respecting negroes vote.

IMMIGRATION IS QUICKENING.

Thousands of Foreigners Coming After a Period of Stagnation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Immigration is quickening after months of stagnation caused by the European war. Figures published today by the immigration bureau show that 33,000 foreigners reached American shores during March against 24,000 in February and 17,000 in January. Each of the three months showed a large increase over the corresponding month of the previous year. Italy is sending the greatest number, with England second and the Scandinavian countries third.

MOVE TO ADJUDICATE AMERICAN CAN CASE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The government today filed a motion for a final dissolution decree in the anti-trust suit against the American Can Company in the Federal District Court at Baltimore. It asks that the corporation properties be disposed of and that it be enjoined from acquiring any interest in more than one of the concerns taking over the can company plants.

In a proposed form of decree filed with the motion the government suggested that the American Can Company voluntarily submit a plan of distribution of assets and properties into separate units of ownership to the Federal Trade Commission, and that its failure so to do should result in the appointment by the court of a receiver to effect its dissolution.

"It is not going too far to say that this case with others of like character now pending involves the very life of the law," says the government brief. "If it should once become established that a combination of competitors on such a vast scale, embracing half of an entire trade and exercising substantial dominance in its field, does not come within the purview of the act unless it shall demonstrably abuse its power—the inevitable result will be a renewal of that great rush toward concentration which followed the decision in the Knight case and proceeded with ever accelerating rapidity until checked by the decision of the Supreme Court in the Northern Securities case."

CHEAP GASOLINE IS THE PROSPECT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Senator James's resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to receive an assignment of the Rittman patent for improvement in gasoline manufacture was adopted today by the Senate. Director Manning of the Bureau of Mines informed the Senate the patent promises to increase gasoline production from 15 to 45 per cent. of the crude oil used. Immediate steps to make the process available to the public were authorized.

SUFFRAGISTS SEND FLOWERS TO WILSON.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Leaders of the women's suffrage movement today sent baskets of May Day flowers to President Wilson and all the members of his Cabinet, containing messages urging support of a constitutional amendment giving women the ballot.

FIX STRENGTH OF THE ARMY

Conferees Agree to Hundred and Eighty Thousand Men.

In Case of War it is to be Forty Thousand More.

Final Vote on the Bill is Expected Within Week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Hope for an agreement in conference on the army reorganization bill seemed brighter tonight after an all-day session of the conference committee in which a basis for negotiation of differences between the Senate and House on the regular army was reached.

Senate conferees agreed to yield on the proposed standing army of 250,000 men and to accept a peace strength of 180,000 men, provided the House would accept the expansion system of organization in the Senate bill. Under this system the regular army could be increased in time of conflict to 220,000 or more. House conferees tentatively agreed to this proposition upon which to base agreements as to detail, organization of units and other features of the measure. The Chamberlain bill before it was amended in the Senate placed the maximum strength of the regular army at about 170,000 men, whereas the House bill left it at 140,000.

Although the conferees are exerting every possible effort to reach a complete agreement, some of them fear that all disputed points cannot be worked out without referring some points back to the Senate and House for further instructions. Senate conferees still are holding out for the Federal volunteer army, as well as their proposed system of Federalization of the National Guard, but House leaders insist that eventually they will win their fight to eliminate the volunteer army and retain the House National Guard provisions. The matter of a government nitrate plant has not been reached by the conferees, but its opponents regard it as certain that it will be stricken from the bill.

TWO MILLIONS FOR AEROPLANES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—A $2,000,000 appropriation for aeronautics was agreed to today by the House Naval Committee. The building programme will not be taken up until late in the week.

DISCRIMINATORY RATES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Proposed increased rates on sheet iron and steel articles from eastern points to Spokane, Wash., were found discriminatory and unjustified today by the Interstate Commerce Commission and ordered canceled.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Supreme Court announced today a recess from May 8 to May 22.

BACON DECISION TO BE VACATED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 1.—The Circuit Court decision which upheld the claims that Francis Bacon wrote the plays and other works attributed to William Shakespeare will be vacated, it was announced today, after a meeting of judges of the tribunal. The decision was given by Judge Richard S. Tuthill in a suit brought by William N. Selig, a motion-picture magnate, to restrain Col. George Fabyan and others from circulating pamphlets upholding the claims of the Baconian sympathizers.

The point had been raised that Judge Tuthill had no right to hear the case inasmuch as it was in chancery and he was working on the law side.

Judge Jesse Baldwin, a member of the Executive Committee of the court, said he had instituted the inquiry into the decision after his attention had been "called to the fact that apparent collusion existed between the parties to the suit."

NEW SUBMARINE L-5 LAUNCHED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BRIDGEPORT (Ct.) May 1.—The United States submarine L-5 was launched today at the yards of the Lake Torpedo Boat Company here.

The L-5 is 160 feet over all, displaces 580 tons and is equipped with engines of the heavy oil-burning type for surface purposes. When submerged it will be electrically driven. Its surface speed is given as fourteen knots and under surface as ten.

SHOE MACHINERY LEASES OPERATIVE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) May 1.—A temporary injunction enjoining the United Shoe Machinery Company from enforcing the terms of its 30,000 outstanding leases on shoe machinery was vacated in the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals here today by order of Judge W. C. Hook. The injunction was granted October 18, last by Judge David B. Dyer at St. Louis.

Constantine J. Smith, special assistant to the Attorney-General, announced in court today the government would abandon its right to a temporary injunction pending the appeal.

Following this Judge Hook made his order reversing the decision of the District Court at St. Louis.

The company alleged in its brief it would suffer irreparable loss from the continuance of the preliminary injunction which would interfere with its relations with 1000 lessees of shoe machinery.

OLD SLAG PILE IS VALUABLE.

Students Find New Process of Extracting Ferro Alloys from Waste.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) May 1. A process for extracting ferro alloys of manganese and silica from slag, which it is claimed will result in an immense saving to steel manufacturers, has been discovered by George A. Hays of Sewickley, Pa., and G. D. Alain of Elmira, N. Y., students at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. Ferromanganese and silica are essential elements in the manufacture of steel, but since the start of the European war both have greatly advanced in price, the former from $75 to $400 a ton. As a result of the process slag which has always been practically a waste product will now become of commercial value.

NEW LONDON SCHOOL OBSERVES MANILA BATTLE.

Eighty Members of the Junior Naval League Take Part in the Programme and Listen to the Reading of a Letter from the Admiral.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW LONDON (Ct.) May 1.—The anniversary of the victory of Manila Bay was observed at the young ladies' high school, Williams's Memorial Institute, today. The Junior Navy League, which has eighty members, had charge of the programme and all the rest of the school were present.

The programme included the reading of a letter from Admiral George Dewey, which follows:

Office of the Admiral of the Navy,
Washington (D.C.) May 1, 1916.

To the Junior Chapter of the Women's Navy League of Williams's Memorial Institute, New London, Ct.: It gives me much pleasure in extending to the Junior Chapter my greetings and best wishes on this, the anniversary of the battle of Manila Bay.

It must be most gratifying to all patriotic citizens throughout the land to note the rapidity and willingness with which the women have lent their aid in spreading the propaganda of preparedness and in working for the good of our navy. The growth of the women's section of the Navy League here has been most noteworthy, and I trust the same progress has been made in other cities.

I am sure the young women of the Junior Chapter of Williams's Memorial Institute have all the essentials for stimulating that sense of patriotism and love of country with which all true Americans are endowed and will contribute their share of the work necessary in such an undertaking and cause.

THE WEATHER ELSEWHERE.

Cold, Drizzling Rains Prevail Over the Great Corn Belt.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—Rains and cold weather still continue over the Middle West. Chicago's maximum temperature today was 47 deg. and minimum 41 deg., with continued rain of the cold, drizzly variety. Eastern States were warmer and dry with one exception. Flood conditions along the upper Mississippi are serious and growing worse. Wisconsin had snow, and a cold wave that may do great damage struck Texas.

SINKS FANGS IN THE SCHOOLS.

Chicago Teachers' Union Wins Decision in the Courts.

Board of Education Stifled by Walking Delegate.

"Loeb Rule" Enjoined by Circuit Judge Sullivan.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—Union labor and certain religious societies tightened their grip upon the public schools of Chicago today, when the Appellate Court upheld the ruling of a lower court against what is known as the "Loeb rule."

The decision follows a long fight against the Teachers' Federation led by Jacob M. Loeb, now president of the Board of Education, who was vice-president of the board at the beginning of the conflict.

Loeb's followers won the first tilt in the attempt to oust the federation when they gained control of a majority of the board and adopted a resolution declaring that no person would be employed by the board who belonged to a labor union.

The federationists, under the leadership of Margaret Haley, carried the case into the courts. Judge Denis E. Sullivan, in the Superior Court, granted a permanent injunction restraining the board from enforcing the rule.

THE LOEB RULE.

The Loeb rule, adopted August 23, 1915, by the Rules Committee, and ratified a month later by the full membership of the board, provides:

"Membership by teachers in labor unions or in organizations of teachers affiliated with trade unions or a federation or association of trade unions, as well as teachers' organizations which have officers, business agents or other representatives who are not members of the teaching force, is inimical to proper discipline, prejudicial to the efficiency of the teaching force and detrimental to the welfare of the public school system.

"Therefore, such membership, affiliation or representation, is hereby prohibited."

The suit, which affects 7000 teachers, was filed through State's Attorney Hoyne against the city and board. Ida L. Fursman, president of the federation, appeared as the relator.

The upper court, in sustaining Judge Sullivan's ruling on the case, says:

"By these decisions it is settled that any rule which the Board of Education might pass restricting the employment of teachers to any particular societies or unions would be void. It follows, logically, that a rule which restricts employment to non-members of such societies or unions is also void.

"Is it valid as a disciplinary measure? If the board had resolved that it was necessary as a matter of discipline that it would employ as teachers only members of the Chicago Teachers' Federation, would such a restrictive rule be valid? Or that its teachers should all be Presbyterians or Catholics, as necessity for 'efficiency of the teaching force?'

"The answers to such queries must manifestly be against the validity of such a rule. The law is that the board may stipulate for the amount of training, the degree of proficiency and the physical fitness of its teaching employees, but it cannot provide that its teaching shall be done only by certain persons or classes of persons members or non-members of certain societies."

TEACHERS DELIGHTED.

"The teachers are very greatly delighted with their victory," said Margaret Haley, executive secretary of the Teachers' Federation. "The court has decided we have a right to organize and that there can be no cut in salaries.

"The decision affects 6178 teachers financially. Any action started by the Loeb faction must begin in the lower courts, and the rule is abrogated pending a decision on such a suit. I hardly believe they will try to save the rule. The ruling undoubtedly will help the federation. In victory we can afford to be generous."

Following are the comments of members of the school board on the Appellate Court's ruling:

President Jacob M. Loeb: Aside from the fact that we'll just keep on fighting, I have nothing to say.

Michael J. Collins: So it's a defeat for Loeb? Well, whatever the court says is right is right. I am in favor of the court's ruling.

Dr. Otto F. Warning: It's just what I expected. My sympathies have always been with the teachers in this matter. I never could figure out how they would lose.

Boils and Pimples Dangerous; S.S.S. Your Remedy

Standard for Fifty Years.

Modern science has proven that boils and carbuncles, pimples and unsightly skin blotches are the danger signals of diseased blood. Scaly skin and itching, of Eczema, Scrofula, rashes — all skin diseases are aggravated by bad blood—it's the infected blood that's dangerous. Don't wait for the boils. If you have pimples and blotches, take instant action. Pimples tell you that your blood is filled with impurities. You must wash out your blood, strengthen and stimulate it to healthy action with Nature's own blood tonic, S. S. S. It is the standard blood purifier of the world. Don't use any drugs, don't use ointments and salves. S. S. S. reaches the blood, drives out the impurities. It makes healthy perspiration — the poison is literally sweated out through the skin. Boils, blotches, Eczema and the Scrofula indications disappear. It does what salves and lotions can never do—it goes to the very root of the trouble by reaching the blood. Your skin becomes clear and you soon feel the vigor of the return of perfect health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable. You can get it at any druggist's, but you must take S. S. S. Let us tell you about blood diseases. Write for book of facts, "What the Mirror Tells." If yours is a long-standing case, write for expert advice to Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

CALOMEL SELDOM SOLD HERE NOW

Nasty drug salivates, makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Every druggist in town — your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick or nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.

METHODISTS IN SESSION.

Impressive Prayer Delivered by Bishop Bashford.

Dr. Locke of Los Angeles in Race for Episcopacy.

BY REV. CHARLES COKE WOODS, PH.D.
[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SARATOGA (N. Y.) May 1.—With a jubilant outburst of song, "O for a Thousand Tongues to Sing My Great Redeemer's Praise," the twenty-seventh session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church opened officially this forenoon, at 10 o'clock. Bishop Earl Cranston, the senior bishop, presided. Bishop Bashford of China offered the following impressive prayer:

"Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for our creation and preservation, for our redemption through the life and death of Thy dearly beloved Son.

"Bless the nations and the homes from which we come. Bless especially the delegates from other lands and may they be well assured of their welcome to our nation and our church.

"Bless the toiling masses everywhere, and may our acts tend to lighten their burdens. May the law of mutual service become pregnant in all business and political affairs.

"Bless all the children in the homes and schools and may they grow up into a larger and healthier and more helpful Christian life than we have realized.

"Bless the poor and the sick, the millions writhing in agony with wounds and those sitting with hopeless hearts in desolate homes.

"Bless our nation, the Governor of this State, the President of the United States, the legislators and all the judges of the land.

"May such plans be made by this conference and carried out during this quadrenium that at our next general conference the great suffering world may rejoice with us over a common salvation. Amen."

RECITE THE CREED.

It was a moment of intense religious significance when the various representatives of other countries and nations stepped forward, one by one and recited, each in his native tongue, the "Apostles' Creed." In this devotional exercise V. V. Phillips represented North India, Mark Liu, North China; F. Ahrgren, Sweden; J. G. Sperri, Lousanne; Dr. B. M. Tipple of Rome recited the creed for Italy; Dr. Albert J. Nast of Cincinnati recited for Germany; Hugh H. Cynn, formerly of Los Angeles, but now of Korea, for Korea. Dr. Day of Syracuse closed the devotional exercises with prayer.

Dr. Hingeley, the general conference secretary, called the roll and delegations responded from all over the earth. One woman delegate from Indiana arrived just in time to take her seat with her delegation as the roll was being called.

Dr. Hingeley, who has been the honored secretary of the conference for so many years, expressed his hearty thanks and gracefully withdrew his name from re-election. But he was enthusiastically elected secretary emeritus. Dr. Edwin Lock of the Kansas delegation is likely to succeed Dr. Hingeley in this office.

Chicago has furnished a bishop for each of the last two quadreniums. The most famous bishop now on the board of bishops was from St. James Church, Chicago, eight years ago—Bishop William A. Quayle. Then Bishop W. O. Shepard was chosen from a Chicago district four years ago. Now comes Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell, leader of the Rock River delegation and Bishop Quayle's successor in St. James. He is very favorably considered for the Episcopacy. But Los Angeles is also again in the eye of the church on account of Dr. Charles Edward Locke, who is known throughout the country as pastor of the largest Methodist church in the world. He easily holds the primacy here among the candidates from the Pacific Coast. But general conference weather is subject to sudden changes.

In the Treatment of Tuberculosis remember that first aid to relief is found in abundance of fresh air—day and night—freedom from over-exertion, and pure food.

Attention to these matters should do much to arrest the progress of the malady, but in many cases there is need for extra help. Where Nature has to work with a weakened body her power is limited.

Under such circumstances, try Eckman's Alterative, which has been used with large benefit by many sufferers. In numerous cases it has helped to bring about recovery. Also, it has been successful in treating asthma and bronchial troubles.

And since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, its use is not attended with danger. Sold by The Owl Drug Co. and leading druggists.

Clarke Amendment.

them against any first-class military and naval power."

Representative Jones pleaded with the Republicans to support the bill, because he said Col. Roosevelt, "who is likely to be the next Presidential candidate of the Republican party," had approved Philippine independence.

He said more than 90 per cent. of the Filipinos were civilized and that the Moros, the only disturbing element in the islands, constituted only 4 per cent. of the population.

Representative Towner of Iowa, ranking Republican of the Insular Committee, opposed the bill, maintaining that there was no more reason for surrendering the Philippines than for surrendering Hawaii or Alaska.

Now the bill goes to conference between the two houses, with the opponents of the Clarke amendment satisfied that it is dead at least for this session of Congress.

HEATED PROTEST.

Over the heated protest of administration leaders, the House, by a vote of 203 to 154, instructed its conferees not to agree to any declaration setting a definite time for granting the islands their independence. Speaker Clark named Representative Jones of Virginia and Garret of Tennessee, Democrats, and Towner, of Iowa, Republican, as conferees.

The House remained in session until late tonight to take the final vote. Thirty Democrats joined the solid Republican minority in defeating the Clarke amendment, which had been given unqualified indorsement by President Wilson. It was the first marked victory of the year over any part of the President's legislative programme, and the Republicans were noisily jubilant over it. After each victorious vote they applauded for several minutes and by way of mocking the Democrats emitted repeatedly the famous "rebel" yell of the majority. Democrats accepted their defeat in silence.

The Democrats who voted against the Clarke amendment were:

Allen, Ohio; Bakes, Michigan; Bruckner, Carew, Conry, Dale, Dooling, Driscoll, Farley, Fitzgerald, Flynn, Griffin, Hulburt, Maher, Patten, Riordan and Smith, New York; Coady, Maryland; Eagan, Hamill and Hart, New Jersey; Topinal, Louisiana; Gallagher, McAndrews and McDermott, Illinois; Gallivan, Olney, Phelan and Tague, Massachusetts; and O'Shaughnessy, Rhode Island.

FIRST VOTE.

The first vote taken after eight hours in committee of the whole shows 193 to 151 votes against the Senate provision. Chairman Jones of the Insular Affairs Committee, then attempted to procure the adoption of substitutes extending the time limit for freeing the Filipinos. They were quickly voted down. The first, to grant freedom in not less than two or not more than six years, was defeated, 186 to 146, and the second, making the minimum time four years and the maximum eight was lost, 193 to 142.

Then came the substitution of the Jones bill. The entire House Insular Committee had agreed to it before the Senate bill passed and substantially the same measure was passed by the House at the last session of Congress. Without further debate on other sections of the Senate bill Mr. Jones offered his measure as a substitute for the remainder of the Senate bill and it was adopted immediately.

There is nothing in the body of the Jones bill promising independence to the Filipinos nor anything in any part of it setting a definite time for a declaration of their independence. The preamble merely states that it always has been the intention of the United States government to grant the islands their freedom, and in order that they may be better prepared for it a large degree of control over their domestic affairs is placed in their hands.

QUEZON DISAPPOINTED.

Manuel L. Quezon, the Resident Commissioner of the Philippines in Congress said he was so greatly disappointed over the failure of the Senate bill in the House that he would not return to Congress.

"This ends my work in Congress," he said. "I am not coming back. What is the use? The action of the House tonight makes the fight for independence harder. I notice that not a single Republican voted for the Clarke amendment. They had it all figured out in advance."

Mr. Quezon had advocated the Senate bill in an earnest speech during the afternoon. He told the House that Japan would not seize the islands if they were freed, and moreover that Japan would keep off any European nation that might turn hungry eyes that way.

AS TO JAPAN.

"Japan is not going to antagonize the European nations and the United States," he said. "Japan knows that the Philippine people never would be happy under the Japanese flag, and that it would mean that Japan would have a war with some other nation."

"Have you confidence in the world nations to believe that you will be left alone after you are free and independent without a standing army and navy?" demanded Representative O'Shaughnessy.

"I have no more confidence in the world nations than the small nation of the American people in 1776 when there were only 3,000,000 of them," replied Mr. Quezon.

He said he was satisfied, however, that the bill would go back to the Senate, going into conference, there to die.

"If Abraham Lincoln were here today," he added, "he would be bewildered. He would have to be introduced to you on the Republican side.

STOP USING ANILINE DYES.

Pacific Coast Paper Plants Trying a New Process.

Will Put Out Stock in the Natural Color of Pulp.

War Boosts Prices Over Five Hundred Per Cent.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OREGON CITY, May 1.—All Pacific Coast paper factories have begun the gradual elimination of aniline dye from their print paper-making processes, according to an announcement made here today at the offices of the Crown-Willamette and the Hawley Pulp and Paper Company mills. Already the use of aniline products has been reduced 50 per cent. and gradually it will be dropped, owing to the tremendous increase in the cost of the products since the war began. The price has advanced from 39 3-4 cents a pound to $15 a pound. While the Oregon City mills have supplies enough on hand to last a year, they are making the change in common with the other mills on the Coast and in conformity with a subject promulgated by the International Paper Company.

The ultimate result of the elimination of aniline from the print paper-making process will be to turn out newspaper stock the natural color of the pulp. The mills here have experimented with American dyes offered as substitutes for aniline, but without success.

NEW IRRIGATION DISTRICTS.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 1.—State Engineer W. F. Each district covers about 15,000 acres.

WELLS BEATS DISBARMENT.
[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 1.—T. Alonzo Wells, a Carson City attorney, today won in the Third District Court of Appeal, in the fight brought against him by the Orange County Bar Association, seeking to have his license as an attorney in California revoked. The court denied the petition of the committee from the Bar Association of Orange on the ground that there were no charges legally made against Wells.

New Orleans Girl Weds Los Angeles Man Sentenced for Forgery.
[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) May 1.—Dr. Oscar Pollock, a dentist of Los Angeles, married Miss Olga Debiano, a New Orleans girl, today following his release from the Jefferson County Jail after serving a sentence of twenty-seven months for forgeries amounting to $1900. She had waited for him all that time, believing he would renounce his "crooked ways." Since going to jail Pollock inherited $50,000 from an uncle killed in the German cause and will go into the business of manufacturing artificial teeth by a process he discovered while in jail. He fitted up a laboratory in his cell at the jail and worked constantly on his process. He claims to be now able to make teeth exactly the same tint as the natural.

BEEF SHIPMENTS OF HALF MILLION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, May 1. — With shipments which left this city today the total value of beef cattle consigned from the Porterville district during the spring shipping season has reached $500,000. This is a new record, and surpassed by a few thousand dollars the total for four years ago, to that time the high mark.

The largest single consignees were the Gill brothers, owners of range land in the district to the east of Porterville, who sold 2000 head of grass steers of excellent quality, for which they received about $15,000.

D. A. Vaughn, one of the pioneer cattlemen of the district, topped the market for his range beef, some of his cattle bringing him $95 a head f.o.b. Porterville.

ASSIST MEXICANS IN SAN GABRIEL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN GABRIEL, May 1.—Mrs. A. R. Pullen, a social worker, has just undertaken her duties under the direction of the San Gabriel Charities Association, and President Ruth Purcell has employed her to give all of her time to the needs of the unfortunate Mexicans in the vicinity.

Several days ago Dr. Purcell and Mrs. Pullen made a complete tour of the Mexican quarter and learned the needs of the people. She worked ten years among the Spaniards in South America and speaks the language fluently and understands the eccentricities of the Spanish and Mexican people.

Mrs. Pullen is teaching the Mexican women how to be better housekeepers, and has established classes in cooking, sewing and household hygiene. She is organizing young girls' clubs which will devote part of their time to the study of domestic science. The Mexican men are to be instructed in matters of thrift. Dr. Purcell and Mrs. Pullen will soon establish a clinic where the sick will be treated free.

Mr. Roosevelt declared he is not interested in the political fortunes of himself and others.

PACIFIC STEAMER CAUGHT IN ICE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 1.—The steamer Elihu Thomson, bound from Puget Sound to Port Moller with cannery supplies for the Pacific-American Fisheries Company, was caught in the Bering Sea ice and damaged so that she was obliged to return to Dutch Harbor, leaking. It will be necessary to discharge cargo at Dutch Harbor.

IMPERIAL PHONE SYSTEM TO BE SOLD.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Authority to purchase the Imperial Telephone Company, operating in Imperial Valley, for $165,000 was asked of the State Railroad Commission here by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. The Imperial company joined in the petition.

EXPECT HIGHEST PRICE FOR CATTLE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BAKER (Or.) May 1.—The third annual convention of the Oregon Cattle and Horse Growers' Association opened here today. President William Pollman told the delegates that the highest prices in the history of the industry for grass-fed cattle were expected next fall. He stated that despite the severe winter, the loss among cattle had been little more than normal.

INDIANS GIVE FISHING RIGHTS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 1.—A decision that gives the Indians of the Yakima nations the right to fish in the Columbia River above The Dalles and that enjoins Seuffert Brothers Company from interfering was handed down by the United States District Court here today. The suit was brought by the United States government as guardian of the Yakima Confederacy and on behalf of Sam Williams, a ward, against Seuffert Brothers.

The company tried to prevent the Indians from fishing at a point on the river which it claimed it owned, but the government contended that by the treaty of 1855 its wards had a right to fish at any point. During the hearing two Indians over 100 years old, who were present at the signing of the treaty, appeared as witnesses.

FIRE DRILL SAVES SCHOOL CHILDREN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 1.—Not one of the 275 pupils in the Brooklyn public school here today knew that the building was on fire when the alarm was sounded. They marched out in perfect order and then discovered that the roof was burning, having been ignited by a spark from the chimney. Firemen succeeded in quenching the flames before extensive damage had been done.

DR. GEORGE DANTON GOES TO PEKING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 1.—Dr. George H. Danton, professor of German in Reed College, has signed a three-year contract to head the department of German in Taing Hua College at Peking, China, it was announced here today. Dr. Danton, with his family, will leave next August for the Far East.

SLINGSBY BABY CASE.

Mother is En Route to London to Fight for Estate.
[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1. — Charles Eugene Edward (Teddy) Slingsby, 5 years old, is here today with his mother, Mrs. Dorothy M. Slingsby from Victoria, B. C., en route to London, Eng., to carry an international legal battle for a $50,000 a year inheritance before the House of Lords. They will join there Lieut. Charles Henry Reynard Slingsby, of the British navy, Mrs. Slingsby's husband.

Brothers of Lieut. Slingsby in a fight for the property of their father, Rev. Charles Slingsby, allege that Teddy is not the real son of the Slingsbys. A substitution was alleged to have taken place in San Francisco.

The lower court in England held the child to be the son of Mrs. and Lieut. Slingsby but a higher court upset the decision, and final appeal was taken to the House of Lords.

TAR AND FEATHER FARMER.

Ohio Ruralite Promises the Arrest of His Tormentors.
[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MOUNT VERNON (O.) May 1.—Samuel Clark, aged 56, Jackson township farmer, planned today to swear out warrants for the arrest of several men whom he believes responsible for tarring and feathering him yesterday morning. Clark is in a serious condition.

Clark said he believed neighbors with whom he had trouble were responsible for the affair. He was called to his door in his night clothes, seized, rolled in tar, and feathers applied. He said he had received a letter warning him to leave the vicinity in ten days or he would be killed.

JAP CONTROL OF THE ORIENT

Editor Kasai Favors Monroe Doctrine in Far East.

Declares Nipponese Have No Interest in America.

Two Nations will Always Be Friends, He Says.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 1.—"Japan must insist on an Asiatic Monroe doctrine and because Japan is the strongest nation of the Orient she must lead in the Orient," said Jiuji G. Kasai, Japanese journalist, here today. He continued:

"In the affairs of this hemisphere Japan does not desire, nor does she desire, to entangle herself.

"Good feeling is one of business best assets. Japan needs Oregon lumber and Oregon wheat. She is not getting them now because there are no bottoms to carry these materials to Japan, but the fact that Mitsui and Company and Suzuki & Company have offices here is indicative of the trade to come.

GOOD FEELING NEEDED.

"Japan is supplying and can supply the United States with the [illegible] that the war has shut up in Germany shops. You of the United States and we of Japan need good feeling. I am certain that this feeling will result, for any talk of unfriendliness comes from the [illegible] goes and cheap politicians on both sides of the Pacific.

"There is no danger of war between the two countries. America needs Japan and Japan needs America. There should exist but a good feeling toward Japan among the better, more intelligent and high-minded Japanese, there and will continue to be a good feeling toward the United States."

In this way did Mr. Kasai sum up the Japanese-United States question. He will remain here until Wednesday.

While in the city Mr. Kasai is a guest of B. Takita, business manager of the Oregon News, a Japanese daily, published in Portland.

Saturday evening he was the guest of about twenty of his fellow countrymen at a banquet at the Chamber of Commerce.

NOBODY WANTS SHORT RAILROAD

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 1.—The Seattle, Renton and Southern Railroad, a two-mile street car line between Seattle and the coal mining suburb of Renton, was offered for sale at auction by the receivership today, under instructions of the Superior Court. There were no bidders, and the sale was postponed until tomorrow. The receivership action was brought by Houghteling, Peabody & Co., of Chicago, trustees for the bondholders. The total indebtedness of the railroad company is $1,600,000.

SPEND HONEYMOON IN FROZEN NORTH

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE, May 1.—Completing their honeymoon to the Arctic Ocean by steamer, thence by private train and river canoe to Kluane, the northermost mining settlement and fur post on the continent, and thence by dog team over hundreds of miles of bleak, blizzard-swept tundra to Cordova, where the steamer Northwestern took them back to Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Magids are resting at their home here today. They brought back with them fine malamute dogs. Mrs. Magids is a sister of J. A. Berger, prominent Alaska and Nevada mining man. Her husband owns several trading stations in the Far North. They married last spring and started for the North. Early last May they decided to return to Seattle overland. Their journey by dog team covered hundreds of miles of frozen deserts.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE NOW AT SEATTLE

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 1.—Twenty-three leaders of the suffrage movement in the older States, who are seeking to enlist the enfranchised women of the West in the effort to obtain passage of a constitutional amendment for woman suffrage by Congress, arrived here today from Portland, and for two days will hold conferences with Seattle suffrage leaders and be entertained by them at an elaborate programme having been prepared under the direction of representatives of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage.

RODRIGUEZ AGAIN SENTENCED.
[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) May 1.—Francisco Rodriguez, sentenced to be hanged May 17, 1911, for the murder of his wife and whose execution was delayed by appeals and several reprieves, was resentenced today in the Superior Court to be executed May 19. Rodriguez and several other Mexicans under sentence of death were the subject of representations by the Mexican government last summer.

HOLDS JAP IMMIGRATION LAW WAS NOT VIOLATED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Judge Maurice T. Dooling of the United States District Court freed today Matsutaro Nakao, a 17-year-old Japanese boy, who, Edward White, commissioner of immigration here, said had violated the Root-Takahira agreement to exclude Japanese laborers. Technically the boy was ordered deported on the allegation, which Judge Dooling said was unproved, that he was likely to become a public charge.

The court held incidentally that the immigration authorities have the right to investigate a Japanese immigrant whether he has or has not a passport from the Japanese government.

The Root-Takahira agreement provided that Japan would not restrict immigration of Japanese laborers to America.

Cuisine.

EVERY SOLDIER HIS OWN COOK.

Hunt for Villa a Training School for Troopers.

Cavalry Rifle has been Found Useless in Campaign.

Dress Reform Indicated is a Shoe for Rough Work.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, April [illegible], (by motor courier to Columbus, N. M., May 1.)—Many practical improvements in details of campaigning and of service equipment have been worked out or suggested in the [illegible] weeks' chase of Villa and his bandits.

More varied wireless equipment is to be changed.

The art of cooking in the field has made advances which demonstrated the advisability of the addition of some sort of a frying pan to the mess kits of the men. The men have been thrown upon their own resources for cooking so often that probably every man who went to the front could now qualify for an assistant chef. Lacking frying pans, they used their mess pans, which have a long handle, an adjustment feature especially bad for flipping eggs, because the pan usually flipped too.

A pack mule kitchen is the most important improvement suggested in its cooking line. The mules can follow the cavalry anywhere and get there before dark, assuring the men of a meal properly cooked by competent chefs.

The cavalry has proved that it is second to none in the history of the American army. It has marched more than fifty miles a day at times, through mountains where the trails were unknown, through canyons which the natives declared horses could not penetrate without regular rations and living on a little meat and hard ground corn without salt.

CAVALRY RIFLE USELESS.

The cavalry ride has been useless in this campaign. The cavalry carbine proved too long, suggesting a shorter barreled rifle, which would oscillate less in the sling while packed on horse.

The necessity for some ready system of hobbling horses, so that they could not stray while grazing on unfenced prairies, was brought out promptly. So also was the desirability of smaller horses, the low weight carrying type about fifteen hands high instead of the seventeen-hand high type of cavalry animals which can do great jumping and ring show work. The hunter type of animals, suitable for park and hound riding did not prove as useful in this campaign as the smaller native ponies of the West and Southwest which were able to shift for themselves and live on grass when corn, oats or hay was low.

The old "iron ration" bacon, coffee and hardtack, with a little sugar and salt, stood every test of this campaign so far, keeping the men in reasonably good health.

The only dress reform indicated is shoes for rough work in deserts and mountains. Ordinary heavy marching shoes wore out in a few days, frequently, in some cases, even in one day of mountain climbing. The footgear which seems to have held up better than shoes and leggings is the high lace boot with heavy hobnails.

The practicability of automobile trucks for carrying supplies through mountains and over bad roads or plains with no roads, as demonstrated by the Mexican chase, was one of the most important campaign discoveries. Gen. Pershing himself said that the trucks climbed like mountain goats."

SPIRIT OF ANXIETY ALONG THE BORDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (N. M.) May 1.—Military authorities at the base camp here appeared to believe tonight that events of some importance in the Mexican situation are impending. A spirit of anxiety seemed to be manifest, although no definite reason was offered. Soldiers of the garrison were being kept close to the reservation in readiness for any orders today and it is believed they will get under way tomorrow.

It is known that Gen. J. J. Pershing, expeditionary commander, is being kept closely in touch with the conferences in El Paso and Juarez, and is laying his plans accordingly.

MORE AEROPLANES SENT INTO MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (N. M.) May 1.—A report that a detachment under Col. James B. Erwin had been engaged by Mexicans is denied.

Four new aeroplanes, which arrived today, were being prepared immediately for service. The new machines are high-powered tractor biplanes, capable of flying at an elevation, it was said, of 13,000 feet and at a speed of 100 miles an hour. They are so constructed that they can easily clear the peaks of the Continental Divide.

An unofficial report reaching here today placed Villa with a small band of chosen followers near the Sonora border in the vicinity of Topago on the Rio Chipinas and about seventy-five miles southwest of Guerrero. The report, however, was vague and was given consideration only as a rumor.

Cuisine.

EVERY SOLDIER HIS OWN COOK.

Base for Villa a Training School for Troopers.

Cavalry Rifle has been Found Useless in Campaign.

Dress Reform Indicated is a Shoe for Rough Work.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
FIELD HEADQUARTERS, April
, (by motor courier to Columbus,
M., May 1.)—Many practical im-rovements in details of campaign-ng and of service equipment have een worked out or suggested in the ve weeks' chase of Villa and his andits.
More varied wireless equipment is ow in use.
The art of cooking in the field ade advances which demonstrated e advisability of the addition of me sort of a frying pan to the ess kits of the men. The men ve been thrown upon their own sources for cooking so often that obably every mans who went to e front could now qualify for an sistant chef. Lacking frying ans, they used their mess pans, hich have a long handle, an ad-stment feature especially bad for oping eggs, because the pan usualslipped too.
A pack mule kitchen is the most portant improvement suggested in e cooking line. The mules can ow the cavalry anywhere and get e before dark, assuring the m of a meal properly cooked by xpstant chefs.
The cavalry has proved that it is equaled to none in the history of the American army. It has marched more than fifty miles a day at times, through mountains where the trails were unknown, through canyons which the natives declared horsemen could not penetrate without regular rations and living on a little meat and hard ground corn without salt.

CAVALRY RIFLE USELESS.

The cavalry rifle has been useless in this campaign. The cavalry carbine proved too long, suggesting a shorter barreled rifle, which would oscillate less in the sling when packed on horse.
The necessity for some ready system of hobbling horses, so that they could not stray while grazing on un-fenced prairies, was brought out sharply. So also was the desirability of smaller horses, the low weight carrying type about fifteen hands high instead of the seventeen-hand high type of cavalry animals which can do great jumping and ring show work. The hunter type of animals, suitable for park and hound riding did not prove as useful in this campaign as the smaller native ponies of the West and Southwest which were able to shift for themselves and live on grass when corn, oats or hay was low.
The old "iron ration" bacon, coffee and hardtack, with a little sugar and salt, stood every test of this campaign so far, keeping the men in remarkably good health.
The only dress reform indicated is in shoes for rough work in deserts and mountains. Ordinary heavy marching shoes wore out in a few days frequently, in some cases, even in one day of mountain climbing.
The footgear which seems to have held up better than shoes and leggings is the high lace boot with heavy hobnails.
The practicability of automobile trucks for carrying supplies through mountains and over bad roads or plains with no roads, as demonstrated by the Mexican chase, was one of the most important campaign discoveries. Gen. Pershing himself said that the trucks climbed like mountain goats."

SPIRIT OF ANXIETY ALONG THE BORDER.

COLUMBUS (N. M.) May 1.—
Military authorities at the base camp here appeared to believe tonight that events of some importance in the Mexican situation are impending. A spirit of anxiety seemed to be manifest, although no definite reason was offered. Soldiers of the garrison were being kept close to the reservation in readiness for any call warranted by developments.
Four companies received marching orders today and it is believed they will get under way tomorrow.
It is known that Gen. J. J. Pershing, expeditionary commander, is being kept closely in touch with the conferences in El Paso and Juarez, and is laying his plans accordingly.
From military headquarters came the statement that "there have been no new developments in the field, and all operations are at a standstill pending the result of the conference."

New Instructions.

went forward tonight. Its contents were not revealed, but both Secretary Lansing and Secretary Baker said there had been no change in the administration's policy.

It is believed that American conferees sought additional instructions because Gen. Obregon dwelt on the view that the de facto government thought the American expedition should be withdrawn at once. As Gen. Scott had no power to discuss the matter, he presented what the Mexican War Minister had to say to Washington.

Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican Ambassador designate, called on Secretary Lansing during the day to renew his argument in favor of early withdrawal. He followed closely the line taken by Gen. Obregon in his exchange of views with Gens. Scott and Funston. He was informed that the State Department would not take up any diplomatic discussion on this subject, as urged by Gen. Carranza, until after the military conference at El Paso had been concluded.

ARREDONDO HURT.

Later Mr. Arredondo indicated the feeling of his government that the American expedition has already accomplished its real purpose—the elimination of Villa and his adherents—and that longer occupation of Mexican territory by American troops was serving only to undermine the control by the de facto government of the general situation in Mexico.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

The dispatch sent to Gen. Scott tonight was supplemental to one sent yesterday. It was prepared by Secretary Baker after a very brief conference with the President and later talks with Secretary Lansing and Counselor Polk of the State Department. Although the message is a brief one, it was impossible to get it into code until late in the day, preventing a continuance of the border conference before tomorrow.

The report of the conference is signed jointly by Gens. Scott and Funston. So far as is known they have contained no recommendations from the two officers, merely stating what had been said and asking for such information as they thought necessary in order to pursue discussions. Lacking explicit instructions, it is doubtful that Gen. Scott would attempt to make any reply to Gen. Obregon's request for the withdrawal of the troops. There is little doubt that the additional instructions outline the administration's views in this recard so clearly that Gen. Obregon will have no doubts as to what Gen. Carranza will be told when a reply to his note is made.

HANDLED BY WILSON.

In some quarters in touch with Mexican developments it was said that the President was handling the situation personally and had no question for decision to lay before his Cabinet tomorrow. The flat statements of all administration officials that there had been no change of policy bore out the idea.

It was stated officially that no formal demand for withdrawal of the troops had been made by any representative of the de facto government.

State Department advices today said arrangements had been made to transport American refugees at Manzanillo to the United States. The steamer Newport will sail from Manzanillo May 4 probably for San Francisco, Cal. A score or more of Americans have been awaiting transportation from that point.

Reports from Piedras Negras said a new issue of Mexican currency would go into circulation at that point today and that all Mexican government employees would receive their pay for April in the new currency.

Dispatches from Guaymas indicated that operations against the Yaquis were being continued and that the Indians had been driven out of the mountains.

Consular reports from Topolobampo, Mazatlan, Tampico, Vera Cruz and Mexico City said conditions at those points were quiet.

CASHIER TAKES MEASURE OF BILL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
POMONA, May 1.—When L. D. Wallenstein, a local business man, walked into the American National Bank this morning and laid down a bunch of money which represented his Saturday-evening business, Assistant Cashier Frank Robinson fingered one five-dollar bill out of the heap, laid it down on the window ledge and said:
"That's a counterfeit!"
The cashier established the fact that the bill was a counterfeit by placing on top of it a piece of cardboard showing the regulation size of a five-dollar silver certificate. The counterfeit has a bigger area tint-blocked on the side bearing the Indian head, and the bill is five-eighths of an inch longer than the regulation government certificate. The imitation was taken up by the bank and reported to the Federal authorities.

FAY TAKES OWN CASE FROM COUNSEL'S HANDS.

German Lieutenant Asks and Receives Permission to Question Witness in His Trial for Trying to Blow up Munitions Ships—Declares Attorney not Conversant with Details.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
NEW YORK, May 1.—Lieut. Robert Fay of the German army, on trial here with two others charged with conspiring to blow up vessels laden with munitions for the Entente allies, today was extended the privilege by Judge Howe of cross-examining an unfriendly witness. He asserted that his attorney was not properly conducting a detail of the case.
Edward Brecker, a reporter employed by the New York World, was on the witness stand when Fay sprang to his feet and asked to conduct the cross-examination.
"My counsel," he said, "cannot defend me because he is not conversant with many details of the case."
Fay's lawyer, former Asst. Dist.-Atty. Unger, appeared stunned and the court adjourned to permit a consultation between Mr. Unger and the prisoner.
Unger explained later that Fay had neglected to tell him many things, and for that reason, he said, it might be best to grant Fay's request.
"Although I have never heard of such a proceeding," said Judge Howe, "in view of the fact that Fay is a foreigner and that his counsel consents, I shall permit the prisoner to examine the witness within certain bounds."
Fay then obtained affirmative answers from the witness to a series of questions directed to show that he discussed war munitions with Brecker.
Judge Howe, however, interrupted Fay and refused to permit further questioning when the prisoner said he was seeking to show that his many statements were given out for what he described as a "set purpose."

NEWTON RELEASED.

Harry L. Newton, formerly employed in a munitions plant at St. Catherines, Ont., recently arrested by the police and then by the Federal authorities on the accusation by the British Consul here of having stolen a shell from the munitions works, was discharged from custody today by United States Commissioner Houghton after a representative for the counsel admitted the charge was baseless. Newton had been previously exonerated in police court on charges preferred by detectives that he conspired to blow up an American factory and to commit other crimes.

Gloom.

JOHNSON IS DESPERATE; IS IN FEAR OF DEFEAT.

In an Effort to Stem the Tide in Sacramento Governor Names Another Assemblyman to a Fat Job and Orders All State Employees Out of their Offices to Work for the Hyphenates—Last War Council a Dismal Affair.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
SACRAMENTO, May 1.—In a desperate attempt to stem the regular Republican tide in Sacramento county, the administration gave another job today to one of the good dogs of the Assembly. Walter Chenoweth of Sacramento was elected to the Legislature as a Republican. He went over to the administration side in the Legislature and was one of the dispensers of patronage during the 1915 and 1916 sessions. Chenoweth's friends demanded a State job for him in return for the support of the hyphenated Republican ticket. Gov. Johnson has been trying to avoid appointing any more Assemblymen since the initiative against trading State jobs for votes has been in circulation, but he surrendered Saturday and agreed to the appointment of Chenoweth to a clerical position at Folsom prison at a salary of $200 a month and all expenses, including board and lodging.
Chenoweth told his friends Sunday that he had received the appointment. He went to work at Folsom on Monday, and his friends circulated the report of his appointment yesterday and today in a last effort to line up more Sacramento votes for the administration ticket. This is the twenty-sixth member of the last Legislature to receive a salaried State appointment from Gov. Johnson or one of his commissions.

DESPERATE SITUATION.

At a final conference of the administration forces in the Sacramento Hotel last night the desperate straits of the hyphenated United-Republican ticket were revealed. Reports from all the districts in the north, with the exception of Sacramento and Alameda counties, were admittedly unfavorable. Today the pay roll brigade was turned loose. A requisition has been made and granted for the use of every State automobile to carry voters to the polls tomorrow. Just two offices in the State Capitol will be open for business. Those will be the Secretary of State's office and the Board of Equalization.
The State Highway Commission has pretended to keep out of politics, but every member of the commission is now out working, and the offices here will be practically closed tomorrow, while the hundreds of employees will be out in their respective districts doing politics. Sacramentans are gasping tonight at the sight of the most open and flagrant disregard for civil service provisions evidenced here since civil service became a State law.
But despite this sudden eleventh-hour activity on the part of the pay-roll brigade there is a growing sentiment here that the regular Republican ticket will be an easy winner. Reports from districts where a partial canvass of the votes have been made show that at least five out of six registered Republicans are for the regular ticket. The administration is relying on getting enough Progressives to forswear their affiliations and vote Republican to carry their ticket, but the Governor's lieutenants admit privately that it will only be a lucky chance if they pull through, while the regular Republicans are claiming a two-to-one victory.

SHINGLE WEAVERS ASK MORE WAGES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]
SEATTLE (Wash.) May 1.—Union shingle weavers struck in various shingle mills in the Northwest today to enforce the demand of the International union for restoration of the 1914 scale, which is higher than that paid recently. In the Everett (Wash.) district twenty mills were closed by the strike. All but one mill in the Olympia district and all but one in the Gray's Harbor district have accepted the scale, union headquarters reported. Small town mills generally have accepted.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Supreme Court held today that Ignatius Timothy Tritch Lincoln, former member of the British Parliament and confessed spy, must go back to England for a trial on a charge of forgery.
Lincoln was arrested in New York and made a sensational escape. He was rearrested and from the order for his extradition he sought release through habeas corpus proceedings. The New York Federal District Court refused to release him and Lincoln appealed to the Supreme Court. Lincoln contended that if returned to England he would be tried as a spy contrary to the extradition treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

TITLE TO LAND ACROSS BORDER.

Mexican Receiver Ties up Large Tract in Imperial.

Lays Claim by Virtue of Big Commission Demand.

Irrigation Officials Planning American Canal.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, May 1.—Directors of Imperial Irrigation District today suddenly made the discovery that A. F. Andrade, receiver of the Mexican branch of the California Development Company, lays claim to more than 10,000 acres of irrigable land in Lower California formerly owned by the development company and supposed to have been transferred to the Southern Pacific Company. The directors today gave this discovery as the cause of the delay in transferring the properties of the development company to the irrigation district in accordance with the agreement made between the Southern Pacific and the irrigation district.

Andrade claims the title to the land through judgment given him by the Court of the First Instance of Mexicali on a suit for commissions as receiver. The Mexican laws are alleged to entitle him to a maximum of 8 per cent. on all business transacted by an insolvent corporation.

DEMANDS COMMISSION.

Basing his calculations on the collections made by himself and Receiver W. H. Holabird of the California Development Company for the volume of water passing through the Mexican canals owned by the company, and representing the entire Imperial Valley water supply for several years past, Andrade sued to collect $350,000.

The Southern Pacific is expected to appeal the Andrade judgment to the Supreme Court in the City of Mexico, but in the meantime efforts are being made to induce Andrade to release his title to the land, which lies east of Tecolate.

For many years Andrade has been an employee of the Southern Pacific Company in Lower California. Apparently depending upon his faithfulness, the Southern Pacific, in an agreement with the irrigation district, looked for the district officials to settle with Andrade any differences that might arise in turning over the receivership of the Mexican company. It is still a question who will ultimately pay the value of Andrade's claim.

INDEPENDENT CANAL.

With a view toward ascertaining the cost and feasibility of constructing a canal altogether in American territory connecting the Laguna Dam with the Imperial Valley irrigation system, the directors of the Imperial irrigation district today ordered a new survey to be made by Chief Engineer C. R. Rockwood. This action was taken in line with the plan proposing to obtain a water supply for the east side mesa lands, in this way reclaiming 20,000 acres of land equal in richness to that in any other section of the valley.

Secretary of the Interior Lane will be asked to set aside a right of way for the proposed canal through the Yuma Indian Reservation. If the all-American canal plan is proved practical by the new survey the plan of obtaining the entire supply of water for Imperial Valley through this canal is expected to be favored.

SUES FOR DAMAGES.

Edmund Welch today filed suit against Edward H. Alcott, former partner in the control of the townsite of Niland, asking for $100,000 for alleged slander. The filing of the suit is the result of alleged trouble that has been developing between the men for several months.

Welch alleges in his complaint that reports were circulated by Alcott to the effect that Welch had committed perjury while testifying in the Los Angeles county Superior Court recently. The complaint also alleges that reflections on the character of Welch and his wife were made by Alcott.

ENLISTS IN ARMY AFTER MARRIAGE.

HUSBAND FEARS PARENTS' OBJECTIONS, BUT NEEDLESSLY.

All Would Have been Very Well if Elders had been Entrusted with Secret—Woman's Civic League Elects Officers—Noted Astronomer Comes to Pasadena.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, May 2.—Afraid that he would be cheated of his bride by the edict of his parents if he should disclose his marriage, Garfield Quinby, aged 19, and Edith Wortman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wortman of No. 185 Hammond street, kept secret their elopement to Santa Ana from April 1 until yesterday.

Young Quinby then decided that he would enter the army and take his bride with him. Last night the pair announced their marriage and it was a sad blow to them to learn that they had to separate while the youthful husband served out his term of enlistment.

It was another blow to the young couple when Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Quinby, parents of the bridegroom, announced that they had no objection whatever to the bride and that his joining the army had been an unnecessary step on his part.

Mrs. Clara Bryant Heywood was yesterday elected president of the Woman's Civic League of Pasadena, being the third woman here to hold this office since organization of the club of which Mrs. Robert Jones Burdette is honorary president.

Mrs. Leo MacLaughlin, who filled the office prior to the election, refused to be considered a candidate, stating that she had served the club for five years as either president or in the absence of Mrs. Burdette, acting president, and also secretary.

Others elected to office were Mrs. Torey Everett, first vice-president; Mrs. Louis Mitchell, second vice-president; Mrs. Theodore Coleman, secretary; Miss Alice Lyman, treasurer; members-at-large, Mrs. A. F. Gartz and Mrs. Thomas S. Bell.

RADIATION RESEARCH.

Prof. G. C. Abbot, head of the astrophysics department of the Smithsonian Institute, has sent word to the Mt. Wilson Observatory that he will be here June 1. Prof. Abbott has his own observatory on Mt. Wilson and this summer will conduct research work along the lines of radiation.

Mr. Abbot, who is one of the foremost scientists in the United States, will come here directly from Washington, and will bring with him an assistant. With his wife, Mr. Abbot will pass the summer in a cottage in the mountains.

CITY BRIEFS.

A thief with a penchant for canned goods and Victrola records made his way to the cabin of A. W. Way of San Marino and helped himself to such articles some time last week. Yesterday when Way and his guests, Chester Sherman and J. S. Mills, arrived at their summer camp, they found the stock of edibles depleted and their musical entertainment spirited away.

Endorsing the proposed plan to have all local street cars pass around a loop which would enclose the business district, H. I. Stewart, president of the Union National Bank, suggested yesterday it would be a good idea if the city would secure the present site of the Pacific Electric car barns on North Fair Oaks avenue and turn it into a part of a civic center that would include the site of the old Throop buildings.

While carrying on work ordered as a result of a co-operative agreement between the Department of Agriculture and the county of Los Angeles to collect stream-flow and rainfall data in various parts of this country, J. C. Dort, assistant engineer in the United States Forest Service, and his assistant, H. J. Tompkins, forest examiner, will have headquarters in the local Federal Building.

PLAN TO FIGHT AN INJUNCTION.

PROTESTS OF CITIZENS TO BE OFFICIALLY IGNORED.

Building of Rock Jetties Objected to by Adjacent Residents. Others Favor Plan for Protection of Beach—Woman is Saved by Workman from Suicide.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, May 1.—By passing a resolution to deny all protests against the building of rock jetties for the south beach of Venice, reaching to Playa del Rey, the City Trustees today gave notice of their intention to ignore the protests and go ahead with the work which has been the center of discussion here for two years.

On previous occasions, when the Trustees considered the rock jetties, which is opposed by a large number of property owners in that section, threats were made that they would be served with injunctions to put a halt to the work.

A. F. Fraser, who has heavy property interests in that section and also in Ocean Park, spoke before the board today, urging that the work be done at once.

A motion to hold the matter over for a week, made by Trustee Pinkerton, failed to pass. City Attorney Lyon then advised the board that the city could deny the protests against the work and go ahead, inasmuch as ample time has been given for the consideration of protests prior to their filing with the board.

A large number of property owners in the section, which covers from Salt Air avenue to Vista avenue, are in favor of one plan for the protection of the beach and the Trustees are in favor of another. The Trustees decided today to go ahead with their plan and meet an injunction, should any be obtained later.

The board instructed the City Engineer to be ready to present plans for the improvements for the next meeting of the board. The ordinance of intention would then be passed by the board.

The board reappointed W. K. Kendall health officer for Venice.

WOMAN RESCUED.

Mrs. Belle Nixon, 27 years old, who was formerly a patient at Rest Haven Home, Los Angeles, was saved from drowning today, when she jumped off the end of the Maier pier, by the quick work of two workmen. Jack Gibson of No. 624 Elena avenue and Jim Berry of No. 622 Elena avenue jumped into the water after the woman and, after a strenuous battle with her, managed to overpower her and bring her ashore, though she was unconscious.

The woman was revived at the Emergency Hospital by Nurse Erbell and then taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, where she said that she was nearly out of money, that she had recurrent headaches and thought it the best way to end it.

Santa Ana.

SANTA ANA STIRRED UP BY MANY LAND OPTIONS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, May 1.—With options secured in the last two weeks on no less than eight pieces of property on the west side of Poinsettia street between Sixth street and Stafford street, by W. E. Newcomb, a Los Angeles real estate man, the rumors that have been heard from time to time for the last eighteen months to the effect that the Salt Lake Railroad is going to build from Los Angeles to San Diego through Santa Ana have sprung up anew and more persistently than ever.

Over a year and a half ago Newcomb secured options and later bought a number of lots between Fifth and First streets, east of Garfield street. Similar mysterious purchases were made at Anaheim and Fullerton. At San Diego a railway that was supposed to be intended for the Salt Lake's main line into San Diego was bought.

In an interview in Los Angeles about that time, President Clark of the Salt Lake road emphatically denied that it was the intention of the road to build to San Diego. If it is not the Salt Lake, people here want to know who is behind the purchases that have been made and the options that have been secured here.

This question is unanswered, but one thing is certain—the people along Poinsettia are satisfied that it is some kind of a railroad deal.

In a line north from where Newcomb made his purchases fifteen or eighteen months ago he has secured other options along the west side of Poinsettia street extending as far north as Stafford street, eight blocks from the most southern of the purchases already made. J. G. Quick has given an option on two lots at Poinsettia and Sixth streets. In the next block north Mrs. J. D. Vail has given an option and received a payment, and the Wilmot property is optioned. In the next block north options have been given by Mrs. Hattie Crump, S. Sennett, William Duncan, Mrs. Wilson and Fred Mahoney.

Rumors have it that property owners as far north as Fourteenth street were interviewed by Newcomb and that some options in that vicinity have been secured.

"If it is not the Salt Lake, what road is it?"

The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific already have their lines coming in from the north. The purchases, in fact, parallel the Southern Pacific. The Pacific Electric has a road out North Main street to the city limits. People here are convinced that a railroad is making the purchases, but they do not know who it is.

Long Beach.

UNION AGITATORS TRY TO KILL NEW INDUSTRY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, May 1.—Standing firmly for the open shop, Manager W. C. Foley of the California shipyards today watched 90 per cent. of the employees walk out of the yards on strike, joining the forty who walked out Saturday.

Although work on the five government submarines and lighthouse tender is at a standstill, Mr. Foley declines to accede to the demands of "Curley" Grow, a Los Angeles agitator, and Walter Webster, organizer for the International Association of Machinists.

Mr. Foley is confident that some of the men would return to work. He will wait a few days to allow them to come to their senses before hiring other men to take their places.

A demand by the Machinists' Union was presented to Manager Foley which called for an increase in wages to 50 cents per hour, an eight-hour day and recognition of the union. Mr. Foley peremptorily refused to place his name to the document, stating that he was ready to deal with the men as employees, but not with a union. Whereupon the machinists called the strike.

Squads of strikers, each under a leader, picketed the streets leading to the plant today in an effort to prevent independent workmen from entering the yards. There was no trouble as few workmen approached the plant. Strikers said that they would merely use verbal and not fistic arguments.

It is regretted by the local stockholders in the shipyards that now, when things seemed to be running smoothly after months of vicissitudes, there should be a strike and the work on the war vessels held up. They are, however, upholding Manager Foley in his resistance to the attempted domination of the unions over the plant. Steel for the submarines has been arriving so slowly that the loss of the force for a few weeks will not delay the launching of the boats, it is declared.

OIL DECISION DECIDES TITLE.

Fedearl Court Upholds Order Withdrawing Land.

Property Worth Five Millions Involved in Case.

Operators Who Began Early Retain Equities.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, May 1.—Upholding the Presidential withdrawal order of September 27, 1909, and the decision in the mid-West case, Judge Robert S. Bean of Portland today, through Judge Oscar A. Trippett, handed down in the United States District Court a decision declaring that defendants in the Maricopa fields equity cases "had no right, title or interest in or to the property in controversy, or possession thereof, or its contents." The property involved is valued at $5,000,000, and is located in the Maricopa fields, Kern county.

Actions against the marketing companies were dismissed, without prejudice, and the decision holds that the defendants who developed the mineral fields upon honest belief that the withdrawal order was invalid were entitled to set off as improvements producing wells and machinery as against damages. Where the property was under the receiver the master was ordered to ascertain the cost of producing the wells.

Judge Bean further held "that a court of equity has jurisdiction to restrain the defendants from destroying the value of the properties in controversy by extracting and removing the oil, and will retain suits for an accounting and satisfaction for injury already done."

Titles of the equity suits covered under the decision are the Midway Oil Company, Consolidated Midway Oil Company, American Oil Fields Limited, David Kitsey, Midlands Oil Fields Limited and the Associated Oil Company.

DECISION EXPLAINED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—"The decision of the District Court means that oil operators who had not begun operations before the date of the Taft withdrawal order or made bona-fide locations within the meaning of the Pickett act of 1910 have no equity whatever in the oil lands," said Frank Hall, special assistant to the Attorney-General, who is prosecuting the withdrawal cases together with Special Assistants A. E. Campbell and E. J. Justice.

"The six cases decided today were not selected to be tried first because the evidence favored the government, as has been charged by the Oil Men's Association, but simply happened to be the first on the calendar.

"As a result of the decision the United States regains possession of about 720 acres of oil lands in Kern county. Receipts from the sale of oil taken from these lands to the amount of $650,000 have been impounded with a receiver and will also revest in the government."

There are twenty other similar cases pending for between 3000 and 4000 acres of land, from which sales of oil to the amount of $3,000,000 have been made.

"In some instances the present holders of the oil lands which we are suing to recover ran off the original settlers at the point of guns," said Mr. Hall. "They attempted to gain title by erecting skeleton derricks even after the Taft withdrawal order, although mineral locations could only have been made before the date of the order, and then through actual discovery of oil."

FIRST BRUSH FIRE QUENCHED.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MENTONE, May 1.—The first big brush fire of the season started at the edge of the Canterbury orange grove just east of here this afternoon at 3 o'clock and burned fiercely for about three hours. C. L. Grigsby lost fifteen stands of bees in the fire, but the firefighters were able to save most of his large apiary.

The fire was discovered soon after it had a start. Ranger John Scealey recruited a force of twenty men here and two truckloads of men were rushed up from Redlands. The men had hard work fighting the fire until the wind died late in the afternoon and then it was controlled. Over half a section of land was burned over.

Ranger Scealey believes that the fire started from a cigarette thrown in the dry grass.

KEEP ON GROWING.

Healthy Gain is Shown in Receipts of Postoffice for the First Four Months of Present Year as Compared with Last Year.

Postal receipts for the first four months of 1916 as compared with the similar period of last year show an increase of almost $40,000, Assistant Postmaster E. F. Dishman reported yesterday. The total receipts for the first third of the present year amount to $771,577.62, as against $732,037.17, or a gain of $39,540.45.

The net gain each month ranged from $4600 to $17,000. The statement for the first four months of 1916, as compared with the corresponding period of 1915, and the increase by months is as follows:

	1916.	1915.	Increase.
January	$194,681.81	$186,259.79	$ 8,356.02
February	186,073.47	168,778.10	17,295.37

GREATER FAITH IN OUR HARBOR

President Woodman's Trip North Gives Inspiration.

Believes Improvement Works Should be Continued.

This Port Near Great Circle Orient to Panama.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, May 1.—After a thorough inspection of port facilities and business conditions at San Francisco, President Woodman of the Harbor Commission is more thoroughly convinced than ever of the necessity of continuing harbor improvements here.

Mr. Woodman has just returned from the north, accompanied by C. A. Matson, secretary and traffic manager of the commission, where they went to investigate the possibilities of bringing new business to this port.

"San Francisco, like the other ports along the coast, has been hit by the scarcity of tonnage but they have not stopped work," said Mr. Woodman, today. "Anticipating a big rush of business as soon as the war is over, and the enormous amount of interned and transport tonnage is released for commerce, the State is rushing work on two big piers, although many of those already built are now idle.

"We found a great interest being taken at this port, and while there laid the foundation for some future business for the new municipal warehouse in the outer harbor, now under construction. The Japanese steamship lines are particularly interested in our harbor and they have plans for making this one of the greatest exchange ports for foreign business on the Pacific.

EXCHANGE FREIGHTS.

"Located but seventy miles off the great circle route these steamers would make this their first port of call to and from the Atlantic on the run between the Orient and the Panama Canal. Here they will exchange freight with lines running to South American ports. The Japanese are already looking to the exports for cotton, so great is the demand for cloth shipped from Japan to the Russian and English army.

"The scarcity of tonnage has just about reached the limit and already steamship lines are looking for break in charter rates. Capt. C. Cooke, Pacific Coast manager of the American-Hawaiian line, is planning to resume service on this coast as soon as the charter on the company's steamers expire. His company is not building any more steamers and the management believes that those who build ships now under the high prices for steel are paying prices all out of proportion to what values will be when the war is over and tonnage now chartered and engaged is released."

Mr. Woodman was accompanied on his trip today by Commissioner C. M. Gordon and Assistant Secretary Wade. While here they saw the first work done on the bulkhead for the new wharf, to be built by the city for the Standard Oil Company, and also inspected work on the seven-story warehouse now under construction in the outer harbor. Concrete was poured today to be the second story.

PICTURE BRIDE WEDS JAPANESE.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN PEDRO, May 1.—The first picture bride ever entered through this port was married today at the United States immigration office here. She was Miss Fude Taliguchi and her photograph won the heart of Megumu Tanigichi who met her here for the first time upon arrival of the Japanese steamer Anyo Maru. S. Kawashima, a Japanese minister from Los Angeles, performed the ceremony.

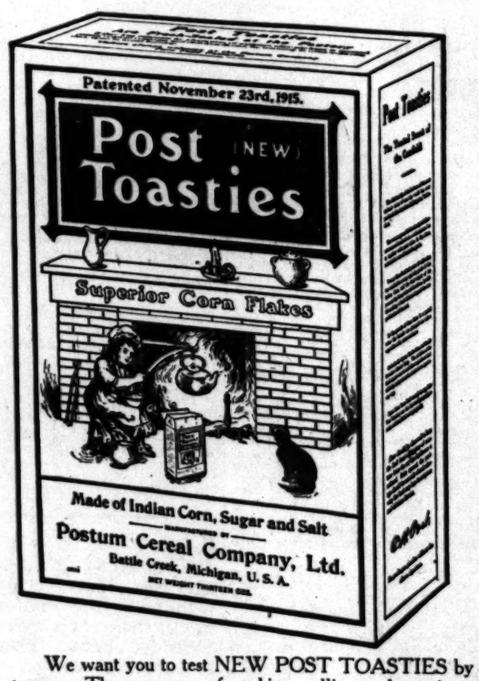
This Food Is New



The United States Patent Office has recognized that fact and granted a patent both on the form, and the method of making

NEW Post Toasties

No other flaked corn food on the market shares this honor—no other equals it in form or flavor.

Several distinctive features characterize this new and economical food delicacy.

Old style "corn flakes" do not possess much real flavor of their own. Old-fashioned methods of making didn't bring it out. They depended largely for their taste on the sugar and cream or milk, you ate with them. You were never asked to test the flavor by eating them dry.

We want you to test NEW POST TOASTIES by eating some dry, fresh from the package. You'll get the flavor at once. The new way of cooking, rolling and toasting under quick, intense heat brings out the sealed-up goodness of the grain.

NEW POST TOASTIES do not mush down when milk or cream is added. They don't crumble or "chaff" in the package or in the dish. There's substance to them, and so wonderfully delicious as to make you call for more.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

To Give Whist Party.

The ladies of the Altar Society of St. Peter's Church will give a whist party next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in The Times Assembly Hall.

For Naturalists.

The regular monthly meeting of the Lorquin Natural History Club will be held Friday evening at the home of Karl Hummel, No. 4109 South Main street.

Bankers to Meet.

Announcement was received here yesterday that the California Bankers' Association will hold its twenty-second annual convention at Fresno, the 18th, 19th and 20th insts.

To Have a Sale.

A "parcel post sale" will be held in the Independent Order of Foresters' Building, this evening, under the auspices of Companion Court Emily, No. 66. There will also be dancing, cards and other entertainment. Admission is free.

Headquarters Enlarged.

The Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor Union, which two years ago opened headquarters in the Bradbury Building, has increased its work to such an extent that it has celebrated its second anniversary by taking additional rooms. The location is No. 216 Bradbury Building.

Sodality to Present Play.

A sparkling little comedy, "Tom's Fiances," will be presented by the Young Ladies' Sodality, for the benefit of St. Mary's Church, at 8 o'clock this evening in St. Mary's Hall, corner of East Fourth and Chicago streets. Helen Bendler, a vivacious and talented young girl, will take the lead.

Planning Long Hike.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Greenwood of No. 615 Maple avenue, and their two sons, aged 6 and 9, are planning a walk to Portland, Or., in the near future. They made the same trip to this city a year ago and Mr. Greenwood's health was so much benefited that he is going to do it again. The family walks about ten miles a day, sleeps out doors and earns its living en route.

For Maternity Cottage.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church will be held Thursday. The women of the congregation will meet in the morning to sew for the maternity Cottage. At 12:30 o'clock the May queen will lead the procession to the dining-room, where luncheon will be served. The annual election of officers will occur at 2:30 o'clock.

Advertising Men's Meeting.

State Commissioner of Corporations Carnahan and Carl E. Rosenberg, sales auditor for the Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company, will be the speakers at the meeting of the Advertising Club at noon today at the Clark. Mr. Carnahan will speak on a State problem and Mr. Rosenberg on "Selling Sense." A straw vote on the Presidency is also promised.

Democrats to Meet.

State Senator Florence Willard Mund of Arizona and the Hon. Alma Lafferty of Colorado will be the principal speakers at a meeting of the Woman's County Democratic League at Christopher's, No. 551 South Broadway, at 6:30 p.m., Friday. Other speakers will be Mrs. Charles H. Spinks of San Francisco, president of the Woman's State Democratic League, and Mrs. George Kilgarif of Sacramento.

First Car of Barley.

The earliest car of barley ever threshed in the State of California arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, consigned to the Newmark Grain Company. May 1 is an unusually early date for new barley and the fact that this carload was exceptionally heavy and averaged excellent quality occasioned considerable surprise among the grain men of the city. Imperial Valley had the honor of turning out the first car of threshed barley in the State this season, and the spirited bidding for the consignment yesterday resulted in the owners receiving one of the highest premiums ever paid for the initial car of the season.

ADDRESSES MONDAY CLUB.

The recently organized Monday Morning Club of the home office agency of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company was addressed yesterday morning by President S. M. Cooper of the Cooper, Pyle & Clopine Company, his subject being "Enthusiasm in Salesmanship." Frank E. McMullen, ex-president of the National Association of Life Underwriters and manager of the local agency of the Massachusetts Mutual Life, spoke briefly on "Life Insurance Salesmanship," a subject with which he is thoroughly familiar.

Has To.

BACKS UP ON HIS BIG BRAG.

"Industrial Peace" Scheme is Given a Setback.

Fennessy Admits Business Men Don't Indorse It.

Supervisors Fight Shy of the "Open Shop" Claims.

Another attempt was made yesterday to dig into the county treasury to aid the Union Labor Temple Association in its depressing struggles to save the temple from bankruptcy. The appeal to the Board of Supervisors for a donation of $1000 to aid the proposed "industrial peace festival" met opposition from various members of that body, and the subject was finally set for a special order at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

T. D. Fennessy "backed up" in his written statement to the board. As president of the Labor Temple Association he had presented with the appeal for monetary aid an apparent indorsement from a committee of prominent local business men, consisting of W. W. Mines, W. R. Hervey, Judge Gavin W. Craig, Willis Booth and Marco Hellman. Yesterday he admitted that these men stood for industrial peace, but had nothing to do with the request for the appropriation to bolster up the "festival."

The matter of the county appropriation came up when Supervisor Hamilton presented a report of the division of finance, recommending that the $1000 be allowed.

Immediately there was protest. Supervisor Woodley stated that he had been informed that non-union goods would not be shown at the festival, and that to appropriate county money for such a one-sided affair was out of the question. President Pridham stated that he was certain that were his own private business concern, or others of its class, to apply for space, they would be turned down because they ran "open shops." Supervisor Norton said that if it was a fact that non-union goods would not be shown then the thing would be a farce.

An opinion was received from the county counsel stating that it is within the province of the Supervisors to make the appropriation provided it is "limited to paying the expenses of such an exhibit of the products, wares and manufactured articles of this county, and should not include the other items of expense to be incurred in connection with said festival."

In view of the opposition that developed Supervisor Hamilton was glad to have the matter put over for a special order tomorrow morning.

JOYOUS CELEBRATION.

San Pedro High School May Day Fete Most Elaborate Given There.

The lawn in front of the San Pedro High School yesterday afternoon was the scene of the most elaborate May Day festival ever celebrated here. Over 200 pupils took part in the programme. In the procession were Miss Alida Craig, May queen, in a Roman chariot, decorated in poppies and ferns; Frances Evich, herald; Josie Marcea, maid and dancer; Mary Daniels, crown-bearer, and Helen Evich, train-bearer; attendants, flower girls, fairies and the student body.

The programme included the dance of the fairies, arch dance, dance of the wood nymphs, dance of the butterflies, spring song and May-pole dance.

AT LAST RITES.

Many Business Men Attend the Funeral of O. H. Churchill.

Funeral services over the remains of O. H. Churchill, former prominent real estate operator, who passed away three days ago at his late residence, No. 2201 South Figueroa street, were conducted yesterday afternoon in St. John's Episcopal Church, Figueroa and West Adams streets. The Rev. George Davidson officiated, assisted by Dr. Bayard Craig.

The high esteem in which the late Mr. Churchill was held by his many friends was evidenced by the many prominent business men of the city who gathered at the services.

Interment took place at Hollywood Cemetery.

THE WEATHER.
[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, May 1.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Meteorologist.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.96; at 5 p.m., 29.92. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 56 deg. and 70 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 74 per cent.; 5 p.m., 44 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., northeast, velocity 4 miles; 5 p.m., south, velocity 12 miles. Highest temperature, 81 deg.; lowest, 54 deg. Rainfall for season, 19.89 inches; last season, 16.29 inches. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS. — The trough of low barometer has remained stationary over the region from Texas to Illinois caused scattered rain in that district. Kansas City reporting 1.56 inches during the past twenty-four hours. The western area of high pressure is being accompanied by its eastward movement by general frosts over the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Colorado, Nevada, Utah, Nebraska and Kansas. Freezing temperatures and lower extend from Colorado and Nebraska northeasterly to the Canadian boundary. Aside from far along the coast, the skies in Southern California are clear.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) April 30, 1916.—Forecast for the week beginning Sunday, April 30, 1916. [From the United States Weather Bureau.] Unseasonably cool weather with frosts will prevail during the week in the region of the Great Lakes, the Upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the Rocky Mountain and western plateau regions. In the Atlantic and Gulf States moderate temperatures the first half of the week will be followed by cool weather after Wednesday. Generally fair weather will prevail during the next several days, except that local showers in the Mississippi Valley and the districts east thereof will attend the eastward movement of a disturbance of moderate intensity that is now over the Plains States. It will probably reach the Atlantic coast Tuesday or Wednesday. Another disturbance will reach the Pacific Coast about Wednesday or Thursday and move slowly eastward, probably reaching the Middle West at the close of the week. This disturbance will be attended by general rains.

E. H. BOWIE, Forecaster.

FORGES FOR HER BABIES.

Woman Confesses She Drew Friend's Money from Bank, but Only When Children were Hungry and She Could Find No Work.

Sadie Klansaka couldn't buy food for her babies without money, so she got some money yesterday, but did it by forging the name of a close friend, Gilean M. Peterson. Shortly after the check was passed in a downtown bank, she was arrested. She made a confession to Detective Olney, in the police station.

In explaining her conduct, Mrs. Klansaka said her husband deserted her several months ago, leaving her to care for two young children. She worked as waitress, and housemaid, she said, but recently was unable to find employment. Her children, she said, were hungry, and in desperation to raise money she forged Peterson's name. She said Peterson had often befriended her and was a dear friend, and she thought he would not object to her getting money from his account in the bank, as she knew he had funds, but did not know where to get in communication with him.

SOME MORE ADVICE.

Progressive Candidate Follows Johnson in Appeal to His Party to Vote for "United" Ticket, Exposing Hypocrisy of Hyphenation.

C. W. Rhodes of Pasadena, a candidate of the bona-fide Progressive party for delegate to the Progressive convention in Chicago, yesterday announced in the press that he wants all Progressives to vote for the "United-Republican" ticket. All of the other Progressives in the State, including Gov. Johnson, are giving the same advice, but Mr. Rhodes is the first Progressive delegate to openly tell the truth.

True Republicans have known all along that the "United-Republican" ticket is comprised only of Progressives and have fought them from that standpoint. Following is the Rhodes statement:

"Since there is no contest within the ranks of the Progressive party as to who was to represent that party at its Chicago convention to be held at the same time as the convention of the Republican party, as one of those who is one of the uncontested candidates as delegates to the Progressive convention, I do not urge or expect a large vote among the Progressive of California tomorrow for our ticket.

"On the other hand, it is my sincere wish, in view of existing circumstances within the ranks of the Progressive party, that those Progressives who desire the success of the Republican party next fall give their support to the candidates indorsed by the 'United-Republicans'—the first twenty-six names upon the Republican ballot—in order that the Republican convention at Chicago may nominate for President of the United States a forward looking candidate, who may also command the hearty and sincere support of the Progressive party. If the Republicans nominate such a man, he will also become the nominee of the Progressive party and thus will be brought about the desire of all true Progressives and the Republicans, a united party."

BANDIT WEARS DIAMOND.

Armed with an automatic revolver and wearing a white handerchief for a mask, a youthful bandit early last night held up and robbed of $19 Barny Rubin of No. 343 Juanita avenue, near Vermont avenue and Oakwood street. The bandit, according to Mr. Rubin, was very young and was well dressed. He wore a diamond ring on the third finger of his right hand.

"UNITED" OFFICIALS AT POLLS FACING ARREST.

Criminal Charges will Follow Failure to Demand Party Affiliation.

Primary Law Explicitly States that this Must be Done in Order to Secure a Ballot Today and it is to be Rigidly Enforced—Election Eve Finds Regular Republicans Confident of Victory for Candidates.

IN VIEW of the fact that certain election officers who are to act at the polls today for the "United"-Republicans announced yesterday that they will not demand that voters state their party affiliation steps have been taken to make arrests of all such officers who thus refuse to comply with the law. Assemblyman Alfred Bartlett, chairman of the Republican Presidential Campaign Committee, declared last night that close watch will be kept over all of the polls and criminal charges will be preferred against any officer who disregards the instructions presented by the Registrar of Voters.

So far as could be learned none of the election officers is disposed to defy the law but many of them declared they would accept the interpretation as announced from the so-called "United"-Republican headquarters.

Vincent Morgan, chairman of the "United" Campaign Committee was quoted as saying that it is not necessary for a voter to state the party with which he intends to affiliate at the November election in order to secure a ballot today. He did not, however, quote the law which is so plain that it could not be misinterpreted by a child. It is as follows:

THE LAW.

"Any person registered in accordance with the provisions of this section and of Section 1096 of the Political Code, and who, on asking for the party ballot at the polls, writes or has written, and declares his political affiliation as in this section provided, shall be qualified to vote at such election. On writing his name or having it written for him on the roster, as provided by law for general elections in this State, he shall likewise write or have written upon the roster the name of the political party with which he intends to affiliate in voting for candidates for office at the next ensuing November election. He shall then, in an audible tone of voice, declare to the election officer from whom he receives his ballot, the name of such political party with which he intends to affiliate, and the clerk whose duty it is, according to law, to write the name of the elector on the poll list, shall also write opposite such name the name of said political party with which the elector declares it his intention to affiliate. Thereupon the said elector shall be given the ticket of that political party only with which he thus declares himself affiliated, and he shall be permitted to vote only such ticket."

Thomas McAleer, registrar of voters, said yesterday he had mailed a copy of the primary law to each voting place and the election officials will be expected to be guided by it. He said the statement that voters do not have to state their party affiliation, that is the party with which they expect to affiliate at the November election, is not only absurd but malicious and untrue. "So far as possible I mean to see that the law is enforced to the letter," Mr. McAleer said.

Following is a part of the analysis and practical workings of the law as written by Speaker C. C. Young, who framed the measure:

"The ballots to be used by the different parties qualified to participate in the Presidential primary election shall be given out to each voter in accordance with the party with which, on asking for his party ballot, he declares it his intention to affiliate. As far as the Presidential primary election is concerned, no attention will be paid to any party affiliation which may or may not have been declared by the voter when registering. The only declaration of the voter's party affiliation which counts for this election is the declaration made at the polls. Two separate records of this declaration of party affiliation shall be preserved, thus deterring voters from casting a ballot outside their own party."

The Secretary of State and Attorney-General are agreed as to the interpretation of the law and all election officials will be compelled to comply with it.

Why the "Uniteds" want to make it possible for voters to cast a ball-

UNIQUE AMONG WORLD PARKS.

La Brea Tar Pits Gift to the County for the Purpose.

Museum of Prehistoric Life to be Erected There.

Special One-cent Tax Levy is Promised by Supervisors.

Los Angeles county yesterday afternoon came into possession of the world famous Rancho La Brea pits from which have been taken countless skeletons of animals that lived in Southern California many thousands of centuries before the advent of man.

G. Allan Hancock, young millionaire owner of the property, tendered the county thirty-two acres for park purposes with certain provisions requiring that only such use should ever be made of the land. As a result of his splendid gift, conservatively valued at $100,000, the Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to name the place Hancock Park.

The donation was brought about largely through the unceasing efforts of Chairman Pridham of the board, who worked for more than a year to bring about the happy outcome. As a result of his efforts, he was appointed by the board to supervise the plans for making this spot one that will draw travelers from all portions of the world by its unique character. He stipulated that he would require support of the board with an appropriation of at least $30,000 to do the first work in making the park what its name implies and was given this assurance, a special tax levy of 1 cent on each $100 being guaranteed for the work.

When Mr. Hancock arrived yesterday afternoon, he was accompanied by F. S. Daggett, director of the Museum of History, Science and Art, who has done remarkable work in the unearthing and preparation of the Pleistocene age specimens; John S. Mitchell, president of the Chamber of Commerce; former Judge Albert M. Stephens, a lifelong friend of the donor; and members of the museum board of directors, including John F. Guinn, Arthur P. Benton, Howard Robertson and A. F. Rosenheim.

THE STIPULATIONS.

After an introduction by Chairman Pridham to the other members of the board, Mr. Hancock stated that at this time he desired to give the property on which he has passed

BANK CLEARINGS SOARING HIGH.

Figures Show Splendid Increase During April and Past Four Months.

Local bank clearings for the month of April just closed reached the enormous total of $167,159,573.19 as compared with $87,993,243.56 for the corresponding month last year. This represents an increase of approximately $39,000,000 for the month and, taking the astounding increases during the months of January, February and March, presages an unusually prosperous year for the city.

With the exception of the month of March, April's bank clearings were the largest registered by the Los Angeles Clearinghouse Association since March, 1914, when an aggregate of $167,780,854.12 passed through the financial institutions which make up the organization. Adding together the bank clearings for the months of March and April, 1916, gives the splendid total of $316,000,000.

Total bank clearings for the first four months of the current year were more than $400,000,000 as compared with approximately $328,000,000 for the corresponding period last year. For the past sixty days almost every banking day has seen a tremendous increase in the amount of money changing hands through the local clearing-house, and this increase gives indications of growing larger each day.

gas. The several deeds to the prophis boyhood days, and which had become of such great archeological value, to the county. He then read the stipulations, which call for erection of a small museum in which at least one of each of the wonderful old animals is to be reproduced for the benefit of the public.

They also call for the parking with trees, flowers, ornamental shrubbery, fencing and the establishment of a space for automobiles. The provision is also made that at no time shall the county use the place for the development of oil or erty are to remain in escrow until the park work has been completed.

Chairman Pridham introduced a resolution expressing the most hearty

No Blame Fixed.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING, SAYS CORONER'S JURY.

Open Verdict on Tragedy Which Costs Lives of Four Sportsmen Seeking First Trout of Season in Little Bear Lake—Launch Admittedly Overloaded, but Operator Says He Tried to Limit Number of Passengers.

A SIMPLE verdict of accidental drowning, fixing no blame, was returned by the inquest jury on the Little Bear Lake tragedy last night. The seven survivors of the ill-fated party of eleven testified at the inquiry, held in San Bernardino. The fishermen declared that the accident was the result of overloading the boat.

Clyde Pierson, Councilman of San Bernardino and one of the lessees of the resort on Little Bear and who was operating the boat, testified that he had counted eight passengers and announced that it was a capacity load. He did not notice the three others who got on, because he was getting ready to start, he said. Mr. Pierson was seated at the back farthest away from the landing. D. G. Henderson of Los Angeles was the last to get in after shoving the boat away from the landing.

A company of more than 200 sportsmen, gathered on the Edwards and Pierson boat landing on the south side of Little Bear Lake early yesterday morning, each eager to be the first to catch a trout, was suddenly turned into a horror-stricken rescue party when the first boat to leave the landing turned over and threw eleven men into the icy waters of the mountain lake. Four of them were drowned. The others were rescued by three boatmen.

Clyde Pierson, one of the owners of the landing and a promoter of trout fishing in the lake, was in charge of the capsized boat and had with him as passengers ten fishermen. The boat, a small power launch, was being used to transport the sportsmen from the shore to rafts anchored in the center of the lake. The anglers started before daylight, leaving the landing at 5 o'clock.

The drowned are:

HARRY THARP, 22, only son of C. M. Tharp, of No. 1244 East Twenty-first street, this city.

MURTON W. WEARNE, 20, living with his sister, Mrs. D. G. Henderson, at No. 210 West Thirtieth street, this city.

DR. C. M. TRUMPOWER, 31 years old, a dentist of Long Beach.

B. M. RAPP of Long Beach.

Those rescued were:

Clyde Pierson, in charge of the boat and owner of the fishing concession of the lake, residing at San Bernardino.

D. G. Henderson of Los Angeles.

George G. House, J. R. Pickerill, O. B. Wright, George Smith and Walter J. Malcolm, all business men of Long Beach.

The bodies were recovered during the day and were at once removed to San Bernardino, where an inquest was held. The survivors of the accident were given treatment by physicians at Pine Crest, the nearest settlement. They were then conveyed by automobile to San Bernardino.

The Los Angeles party, consisting of D. G. Henderson, owner of the Standard Transfer Company, his brother-in-law, Murton Wearne, and an employee, Harry Tharp, left the city Sunday morning in an automobile, determined to be among the first to cast a fly in the trout-laden lake. They motored to Pine Crest where they found a company 200 strong, all bent on celebrating the opening of the trout season.

The story of the fatal trip as related by the survivors at the Coroner's inquest in San Bernardino last evening was to the effect that the boat, admittedly overloaded, was able to make headway and not ship water when running at a low rate of speed. But as soon as the shore was left, and the engine fairly started, the water began to run in over the sides.

"The boat was greatly overloaded and rode low in the water," said Mr. Henderson. "We ran out into the to pick up speed. The water rushed lake a short distance at low speed and were going fine. Then Mr. Pierson, in charge of the engine, began

MAY DAY FETES THE CITY OVER.

Schools, Organizations, Join in Pretty Festivals.

Ribbon Dances and Pageants of Spring are Features.

Six Hundred are Participants in One School's Affair.

Religious workers, motion-picture stars and hundreds of school children participated in May Day festivals throughout the city yesterday. One or two of the celebrations were held during the evening, but the majority of them, especially those in which the school children took part, were in the afternoon.

With 177 members of the Girls' League and the school orchestra participating, Polytechnic High School conducted a festival unique because of its athletic cast. The festivity started with a procession from the main building to the athletic field, where Miss Regina B. Mayer was crowned queen and enthroned. The Girls' Glee Club of the school then sang "Hail to the Queen," and a Maypole dance was held, in which eighteen of Polytechnic's prettiest girls wound ribbons around a huge Maypole. Basketball, baseball and volley ball games were then played, with the queen presiding. Miss Mayer was crowned by Miss Mildren Brunner, dressed in the school colors. The entire affair was under the direction of Misses Ohmann and Gridley and Mr. Winterburn, teachers in the school. Only those girls who were members of the Girls' League were allowed to take part. The school orchestra was under the direction of Miss Gertrude Parsons.

AN OLD ENGLISH MAY.

The students of the newly-organized Franklin High School also conducted an Old English May festival on the campus yesterday. The programme opened with a presentation of the ancient Druid ceremony, in which the land is freed from the grip of winter. This was followed by a depiction of the legend of St. George and the dragon. A bevy of Morris dancers then swept from a grove of eucalyptus trees, representing the return of spring by means of many group and individual dances. A number of shepherdesses, milkmaids, maskers and mummers then rushed forward as the Morris dancers left, and in costume typifying birds, flowers and animals crowned and enthroned the May Queen. Following this ceremony the Queen and her attendants were entertained with dances and music. C. B. Moore, principal of the school, stated yesterday that he will endeavor to make the May Day festivals an annual affair at the school. Yesterday was the first entertainment of any kind the pupils of the new school have given.

Lincoln High School students presented a gorgeous pageant at Eastlake Park yesterday morning. Jack Frost and Snow hurled their snowflakes upon the stage. The snowflakes were students of the school who danced madly about, imitating a storm. Sunshine then rushed forth and drove Messrs. Frost and Snow from the scene. Following this, Wind and Rain came in clouds and worried the natural stage with fickle spring showers. Jack Frost returned to assist them, but was again routed by Sunshine, who also delivered the earth from the tyranny of Wind and Rain. Farmers planted their corn. The crows, bluebirds and robins then assembled and danced until the flowers and butterflies arrived. The celebration ended with a dance in honor of the Queen.

THE LARGEST.

Perhaps the largest festival was that of the Wadsworth-street school yesterday afternoon, in which nearly 600 children presented an allegorical version of the coming of spring. With dances, sham battles and other events the children, from 6 years to 17 years of age, made a big success of the affair.

The pupils of the Sixty-first-street school conducted an interesting May Day festival during the afternoon. The feature was a floral parade with forty-five entries by the younger children in the form of flower-bedecked velocipedes and doll buggies. Folk dancing representing twelve different countries was performed before the queen. There were four different Maypoles, which were apportioned to the older and younger girls and the older and younger boys. Those taking part numbered 350.

An elaborate May Day programme was conducted at the Columbus Auditorium, No. 414 South Flower street, last night, for the benefit of the Church of the Divine Savior. Among the entertainers were: Peter Gerald, Miss Jean Hathaway, comedians, and Myrtle Gonzales and John Cook, all members of the Universal Film Company. Classical dances were given by little Miss Helen Virgil. Her accompanist was Miss Anna Tully. The programme was in charge of Miss Catherine Cook, assisted by Grove T. Vail, baritone; Mrs. Tessie Cooke Haskins, harpist; Miss Sadie Stanton, violinist; Miss Barthel, accompanist; Mrs. Jerome T. Connor, character songs, and Mrs. M. G. Gonzales, singing. The programme was followed by a general dance.

Miss Regina B. Mayer, kneeling,

Being crowned queen of "Poly's" May, by Miss Mildred Brunner, who, dressed in the school colors, personified the spirit of the big educational institution.

The members of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Sixty-first-street school held an entertainment, consisting of a play, entitled "The Rejuvenation of the Bachelor Maids," at the new Sixty-first-street school, last night. The play was a new version of "The Old Maid's Convention." It was presented under the direction of Mrs. Lewis Brinker, who also played the leading character, with a cast of twenty persons for support. This was the first entertainment in the new school.

SCHOOLS DELIGHTED OVER OPPORTUNITY.

MANY DETERMINE TO SECURE PROJECTING MACHINES.

Responses to "The Times" Offer are Pouring In—Requirements are so Easily Complied with that Practically Every Educational Institution Can Win.

Announcement of The Times offer to provide a $300 Pathescope moving-picture projecting machine to every school in Southern California that secures 100 new paid-in-advance subscriptions to this paper has struck a popular chord with school pupils, teachers and patrons. Probably no more welcome offer could have been made to the schools of Southern California. It is evident, even at this early date in the campaign, that many schools will be equipped with the Pathescope machine through this means.

With the first mail deliveries yesterday came responses to the announcements, and each mail throughout the day added to the list. A wide area of territory is represented. Taking this first day's results as a criterion, one may well predict that many schools will soon be hustling to make up the required 100 new subscriptions, so that they may be possessed of the splendid picture projector.

In connection with the announcements of intention to enter the campaign, there have come to The Times numerous warm and hearty indorsements of the offer it is making.

Any school in Southern California is eligible to enter the campaign. No subscription will be taken for a longer period than six months. Every school has an equal opportunity. Each one knows in advance exactly what it has to do to win, and team work on the part of pupils, teachers, parents and associations and clubs interested in educational work makes the campaign one in which the results can be counted on as a practical certainty.

All entrants are assured that they will have ample time to secure the Pathescope provided they make an effort to do so. The nominating blanks are published in The Times, so that schools which have not yet announced their determination to win one of these magnificent aids to visual education should fill these out immediately and get started in the easy way of winning.

The office of the Visual Educational Department of The Times is now opened on the second floor of The Times Building. Full information can be obtained there, or by calling 10391 on the Home phone or Main 8200 on the Sunset.

PLEDGE TO SUPPORT AMERICAN IDEALS.

WOMAN'S NAVY LEAGUE CALLS FOR VOLUNTEERS.

To Teach Patriotism in Their Homes and Support a Movement for Armed Preparedness Sufficient to Insure Country Against War is Promise of Members.

"I pledge myself to think, talk and work for patriotism, Americanism and sufficient national defenses to keep the horrors of war far from America's homes and shores forever. In these days of world strife and peril I will strike to do my share to awaken our nation and our lawmakers to the dangers of our present undefended condition so that we may continue to dwell in peace and prosperity and may not have to mourn states desolated by war within our own borders."

In so far as I am able, I will make my home a center of American ideals and patriotism, and endeavor to teach the children in my care to cherish and revere our country and its history, and to uphold its honor and fair repute in their generation.

This is the membership pledge of the woman's section of the Navy League, which has opened headquarters in room No. 208, Wilcox Building, Second and Spring streets, where all women interested in the purposes of the league are asked to register. No dues or subscriptions of any kind are asked of members; they are required only to sign the pledge, and do their part towards fulfilling its purposes. The officers of the league are Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, president, and Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, secretary.

Through the courtesy of Gen. Robert Wankowski, instruction in emergency aid work will be given free, commencing next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the Armory, Exposition Park. All desiring to join classes in this work must register at the league headquarters.

READY FOR WORK.

Court of Appeal Takes up April Calendar on Judge Conrey's Return.

Presiding Justice N. P. Conrey of the District Court of Appeal, having returned from his trip to Indiana, the court yesterday called the calendar for the April term, which had been postponed a week on account of his absence.

The following persons were admitted to practice on motion: Frederic E. Fuller, Samuel W. Packard, Herman Aschin, D. L. Cobb and A. C. McClellan.

Yesterday's calendar was made up of appeals from the Superior courts of Los Angeles, Ventura and San Bernardino counties, involving convictions in criminal cases. The call of the calendar will continue over tomorrow.

GIVES THE LIMIT.

Police Judge in Passing Sentence Regrets He can Impose Only Thirty Days in Jail for Tampering with an Automobile.

Clyde Woolsey, 22 years old, was sentenced to serve thirty days in the City Jail yesterday, for having tampered with an automobile. The sentence was imposed by Police Judge Thomas P. White. In announcing the sentence, Judge White said:

"In this case, and in all cases where a person wilfully tampers with the automobile of another, it is my only regret that I am unable to impose a greater penalty than thirty days in jail. It is necessary for an owner of an automobile to leave his machine on the street, and because of the leniency of the laws, the owner is assured of no security, because persons can tamper with the machine or take it away and receive only a light sentence."

The statement of Judge White was the expression of an agreement among the police judges and the police, to make an earnest effort to stop the common practice of taking automobiles for joyrides. In future, all persons so charged, if convicted, will be given the maximum sentence.

Painless Parker—Outlaw

His Confessions

CHAPTER VI

My new experience as an itinerant, street-preaching dentist stiffened my resolution to practice my profession as I saw fit, no matter what my brother tooth-menders might have to say about it.

Incidentally, that's exactly the way I have felt about it ever since.

I labor under the delusion that this is a free country, and no man can dictate to me just what methods I shall employ so long as I keep within the law, charge fair prices and molest no other man. By the way, doesn't that sound like a pretty good definition for "ethics?"

Satisfied that I had finally caught my stride, and tickled to death that, at last, I had a chance to turn my professional training into real, clanking dollars, I made up my mind to establish myself in the town for a time. I opened an office in the hotel, rigged up an old rocking chair and an upholstered soapbox, and went after the business like a rat-terrier.

The next day I took in $8. Out of this sum I sent my mother $5 to help the family in its straitened circumstances. The other $3 I stuffed into my jeans.

The clatter of those silver pieces in the place where coin had been absent so long was one of the most delightful sounds I ever heard. It made me feel like a man again.

Once more I looked that "ethics" question in the face, and had a stand-up talk with myself. I couldn't see why, because I was striking out on a new line, I was doing anything wrong, even if all the dentists in the world objected to my peddling my goods like a huckster. "Ethics" might make pleasant reading, but it had proved poor collateral at a lunch counter.

Your home?

The "Handy Volume" Issue of the Encyclopaedia Britannica will make home the most interesting place in the world.

What are you doing for your family?

WHAT answer will you make to your children, in years to come, when they ask you why they never had the great advantages which other children had of learning the real facts about everything from the Encyclopaedia Britannica?

—for they will certainly ask you.

Are you doing your full duty by them?

You can make sure without risking a penny. The new "Handy Volume" Issue at one-third the price of the Cambridge University issue can be examined at the store mentioned below. On payment of only $1 the whole 29 volumes will be sent to your home.

There each member of the family will have a chance to examine it carefully, thoroughly.

If you are not satisfied for any reason, return the books within three weeks and we will refund all you have paid, including the shipping charges and the $1.

You must act quickly, however.

This offer holds good only while the present supply of books lasts. The prices of materials are advancing rapidly. Paper costs 60% more, leather 50%, etc. The publishers notify us that the price of the "Handy Volume" Issue must be increased.

WHAT THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA WILL DO FOR THEM

In one respect children are very much like chickens, puppies, kittens, or other young animals. If you begin early enough, and feed them right, you can teach them almost anything and they will never forget it.

A normal child is all curiosity. The more curious the child is, the more hope there is for its future.

Early accustom your child to looking up things for himself in the Britannica, and you will never have to worry about his or her future.

With such an aid to self-confidence a very ordinary child will accomplish the seemingly impossible. It is like water to plants—you can fairly watch the growth from week to week. Every father who has tried it will bear out this statement.

It will show your children how to educate themselves. It will show them what knowledge is collected and ready for use. It will really help them to decide on their life work. It will show them the easiest and best way to do whatever they choose to do. It will show them the methods used by the successful.

When the Encyclopaedia Britannica could not be had for less than $150, and then only in volumes really too large for a child to handle conveniently, there was some excuse for a parent's not buying it. But now, in the "Handy Volume" Issue, the volumes smaller than a magazine (yet containing every word and every picture that is in the costlier Cambridge issue), at one-third the lowest price at which the Cambridge issue is now selling, any family can afford it.

95 Harvard professors and instructors own it; 75 at Columbia; 68 sets are in the Government Departments at Washington; and 25 sets in the New York Public Library. But we do not wish you to buy on this recommendation or on ours. We want you to satisfy yourself, in your home, with your children around you, that the "Handy Volume" Issue is the best investment you ever made in your life. Give the books a thorough trial, and be sure the children's mother has a vote on the final decision. That is all we ask.

Send them back inside of three weeks, if the children will give them up, and we will refund all you have paid.

A FEW OF THE SUBJECTS IN THIS GREAT WORK

How everything is made. Engines, turbines, dynamos, aeroplanes, automobiles, big guns, steel (34 pages), glass (19 pages), sugar (15 pages), machinery, armor plate, paper, plush, perfumes, bridges, china.

Almost every university and college in the U. S. has the Britannica, and nearly all the big manufacturers.

How everything grows. 4185 articles on agricultural subjects, every tree, plant, flower, crop and shrub.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has 4 sets of the Britannica.

Whose any place is. 10,838 articles on places—113,000 words on China—so valuable that they are consulted by the U. S. Gov't Departments, travelers and merchants.

Painting, Sculpture, Architecture. 2204 articles on the world's masterpieces by the greatest authorities of all nations.

Every museum has the Britannica.

Literature. 3000 articles on great writers by Swinburne, Gosse, Cable, Lang, Stevenson, Mrs. Humphry Ward, Van Dyke, John Burroughs. All the famous books and plays.

Religion. 3089 articles by 161 great authorities. The best hand-book for Bible studies.

Medicine. 644 articles by 75 of the leading physicians in the world.

History. 6025 articles by 327 historians. Fascinating reading.

Biography. 9000 articles on famous men and women. Brilliant word portraits by great writers.

Science in daily life. 4476 articles on scientific subjects, in simple language. Most of the technical schools and clubs have the Britannica; so have Edison, Alex. Graham Bell, Gen. Schwab, The General Electric Co., The Westinghouse Co.

Law. Joseph H. Choate says: "I could own but one book it would be the Encyclopaedia Britannica. I use it continually."

Engineering, Building and Mechanics. Charles M. Schwab says of Britannica is "the most important and authoritative book of its kind in the world."

Banking and Commerce. Frank Vanderlip, President of the great bank in the world, has a set of the Britannica on his desk. So has Senator Owen, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking. Secretary Redfield of the U. S. Dept. of Commerce and Labor has a set, and the Census Dept. uses it continually.

In the Home. The editor of the Ladies' Home Journal says: "I am delighted to think that this work is now for the first time to be placed within the reach of thousands to whom its possession up to now has been a dream."

A 130-page BOOK FREE

The publishers of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA have prepared a richly illustrated book of 130 pages to tell you all about this great work and the new "Handy Volume" Issue, and its usefulness to you. It is full of interesting stories, clever dialogues, beautiful pictures—a book packed from cover to cover. Some of its contents include:

—100 interesting bits of knowledge revealing the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA from a hundred different points of view.
—A little history of the BRITANNICA from the days of King George III, with 70 portraits of the noted men who have made it the greatest work of its kind.
—Twenty pages of interesting dialogue telling of the unexpected interest of the BRITANNICA for women.
—A clever story about the way children get interested in it.
—Portraits of the Nobel Prize winners and other famous contributors to the new Eleventh Edition.
—Nearly two hundred half tone illustrations, color plates, specimen pages and the like.

Whether you are interested in the BRITANNICA or not, you and every member of your family will thoroughly enjoy reading this book, as big as a magazine.

SOCIETY.

Lifting their heads from quaint May baskets, each basket tied with a different hued tulle bow which accentuated the dominant tone, masses of daisies and corn flowers, stocks, roses and a motley of bright spring flowers interspersed with feathery gypsophila, were employed with artistry to decorate the handsomely-appointed luncheon tables at the Jonathan Club yesterday when Mrs. Jack J. Jenkins of No. 3846 Wilshire boulevard dispensed gracious hospitality to 100 guests.

Two large oval boards held covers for ten, and were surrounded by nine smaller ones seating eight each and one for a group of six. Each table was presided over by an assisting hostess. Serving in this capacity were Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny, Mrs. Josephine Denholm (Mrs. Jenkins' mother,) Mrs. Doheny, Jr., Mrs. Lester L. Robinson, Mrs. Clair S. Tappaan, Mrs. Harmon D. Ryus, Mrs. Edward D. Mooers, Mrs. Carl Leonardt, Mrs. Philip H. Lyon, Mrs. Frank Powell, Mrs. Harry C. Fryman, and Mrs. J. H. W. Myers.

Following luncheon, the afternoon was spent at auction bridge, Mrs. Doheny, Jr., Mrs. Addison Jones, Mrs. Tappaan and Mrs. Brothers, Jr., carrying off honors.

SOCIETY.

Lifting their heads from quaint May baskets, each basket tied with a different hued tulle bow which accentuated the dominant tone, masses of daisies and corn flowers, stocks, roses and a motley of bright spring flowers interspersed with feathery xyzophila, were employed with artistry to decorate the handsomely-appointed luncheon tables at the Jonathan Club yesterday when Mrs. Jack J. Jenkins of No. 3846 Wilshire boulevard dispensed gracious hospitality to 100 guests.

Two large oval boards held covers for ten, and were surrounded by nine smaller ones seating eight each and one for a group of six. Each table was presided over by an assisting hostess. Serving in this capacity were Mrs. Edward Laurance Doheny, Mrs. Josephine Denholm (Mrs. Jenkins' mother,) Mrs. Doheny, Jr., Mrs. Lester L. Robinson, Mrs. Clair S. Tappaan, Mrs. Harmon D. Ryus, Mrs. Edward D. Bowers, Mrs. Carl Leonardt, Mrs. Philip H. Lyon, Mrs. Frank Powell, Mrs. Harry C. Fryman, and Mrs J. H. W. Myers.

Following luncheon, the afternoon was spent at auction bridge, Mrs. Doheny, Jr., Mrs. Addison Jones, Mrs. Tappaan and Mrs. Brothers, Jr., carrying off honors.

Bidden were Mmes. Charles Stanley, Ralph Hagan, Stewart F. Macfarland, Alfred Easton, George Goldschmidt, George Kress, Dick Stephens, Harmon D. Ryus, Harry C. Fryman, Carl Leonardt, Frank Powell, Landon Horton, Jack Lashbrook, I. W. Shirley, Hobart J. Whitley, Harry Dowd, J. B. Stearns, Ray Arnold, Theodore Simpson, J. E. Fitzgerald, Edward Lawrence Doheny, Edward Doheny, Jr., Robert Kinney, Ross Hickox, A. J. Mitchell, Clair S. Tappaan, Reuben Mattler, N. E. Rice, E. B. Rivers, Otis Sweet, O. M. A Porch Party.

Screened in with palms and ferns, over 100 guests were entertained by Mrs. A. P. Kendis of No. 1710 West Sixth street at a smart bridge tea yesterday afternoon, the tables being scattered on the attractive porch which was banked in seasonable spring flowers. A Hawaiian orchestra played soft music during the affair, and after cards a dainty collation was served. Mrs. Kendis, who wore a beautiful gown of white over pink with pink hat, was assisted by Miss Blanche Jules Woodill, Miss Hazel Dumas and Miss Mildred Hansen, who wore picturesque costumes copied from the 1830 period with hoops, pantalets and poke bonnets. The guests also wore lingerie frocks and sport suits, making a gay ensemble.

Off for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard Jess will leave this morning for Briarcliff, N. Y., in company with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Edwards of Pasadena, the gentlemen going to attend the meeting of the executive council of the American Bankers' Association of which they are members. Mr. Edwards is president of the First National Bank of the Crown City. Later the Angelenos will go to New York and other interesting points, the visit lasting for at least a month. Mr. and Mrs. Jess go East annually.

A Merry Tennis Party.

The rose-trellised tennis courts of the William Howe Kennedy home, No. 616 South Serrano street, with sweet young buds correctly garbed in nifty sport clothes and the boys in flannels, all tended to make the tennis party given by Donald and William Kennedy Saturday afternoon one of the prettiest affairs of the springtime. Mrs. Kennedy, in a dainty lingerie frock, assisted her manly sons in receiving the guests, and tea was served at an exquisite table brilliant in roses and masses of spring flowers arranged in baskets. Appropriate favors were at each cover. Guests were the Misses Hortense McLaughlin, Nancy Billicke, Genevieve Maier, Alice Hicks, Katherine and Margaret McGarry, Leontine Bayer, May Wild, Elizabeth Boyle, Messrs. Charles Partridge, Jack Hellman, John Mage, Constant Billicke, Donald Ayres, Victor Forve, Zicgard Grier and Ralph Church.

Ante-nuptial Courtesy.

In compliment to Miss Cora Cowan, a prominent artist of Santa Monica, who is soon to become the bride of Ivan Rankin of Oakland, Miss Bettina Stillwell, and Misses Minnie and Katherine Parrish entertained Saturday at the Stillwell home, No. 1102 El Molino street, with a five hundred party. The house was adorned throughout with garlands and baskets of Cecile Brunner roses, and each table had in the center a diminutive May Pole, the streamers of which were caught down with May baskets. The first prize was a May basket of rosebuds, and the guest's favor a May basket filled with prettily-wrapped gifts for the bride-to-be. Bidden were Miss Cora Cowan, Miss Florence Cowan, Mrs. Cowan, Mrs. Lester Thompson, Misses Alicia and Iola Quant, Mrs. Huters, Miss Dean, Miss Amelia Quiney, Miss Elizabeth Dyer, Miss Isabella Campbell, Miss Jean McKenzie, Miss Lorencil Anderson, Miss Carey Brier, Miss Caroline Judd, Miss Ella Hoeft, Miss Helen Hamilton, Miss Elsie Glenney, Miss Helen Skilling, Miss Laeta McNeeley, Miss Josephine Potter, Miss Emma Waglie, Mrs. G. Edwin Brown, Miss Edwina Brown, Mrs. R. Stillwell and Mrs. D. J. Parrish.

Her Visit Concluded.

Mrs. Charles W. Kemmler, the charming daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake of Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, has returned to her home in New York after a stay of two months in her girlhood home. During her visit the former Miss Marguerite R. Drake was showered with pretty social courtesies.

Mrs. Monnette Goes East.

Mrs. Orra E. Monnette of No. 3101 Wilshire boulevard has left the city on a trip East for the summer.

Will Marry on the Morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Kneale announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Downing, to Dr. A. Sachs of Omaha, Neb. The wedding will take place at the bride's home, No. 812 East Forty-second street, this city, tomorrow. It will be strictly private, only the immediate families being present. The bride will wear her mother's wedding gown of twenty-five years ago, and will be attended by her sister, Miss Norma, as maid of honor, and her two sisters, Miss Mabel and Miss Grace, as bridesmaids.

Jolly Birthday Club.

As guests of Mrs. I. C. Gordon of No. 5233 Second avenue, members of the Jolly Birthday Club enjoyed Thursday afternoon with luncheon and music, the decorations being American Beauty roses. Covers were laid for Mrs. Hattie Ackerman, Mrs. W. A. Liggins, Mrs. J. H. Leaton, Mrs. L. G. Gilliam, Mrs. W. E. Davis, Mrs. E. W. Yonkin, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. J. A. Pitsch and Miss Mabel Yonkin.

Charming Girl Honored.

Miss Frances Fitzsimmons entertained recently with a delightful dancing party in the black and white ballroo mof the Gates Hotel in honor of Miss Margaret White, daughter of former Gov. White of Montana. With her father Miss White has been spending a short time in Southern California, before returning to Montana, after an extended winter visit in Honolulu. Miss White was a classmate and chum of Miss Fitzsimmons at Smith College, where both young ladies graduated last June. Miss Fitzsimmons and her mother, who have been living at the Gates during the winter, intend spending another year in California before returning to their home in Chicago. Miss Fitzsimmons's guests at the ball included Miss Margaret White, Miss Vera Harriman, Miss Helen McWilliams, Miss Constance Lockhart, Miss Sara Vandavere, Miss Suzanne Burpee, Miss Consuela Thompson, Miss Frances Ross, Miss Dorothy Keith, Miss Frances Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Holladay, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wells, Mrs. Dan Gamble, Dr. S. M. Alter, John W. Waldron, Dr. Brown, Miles Burns, George Lack, Frederick J. Jackson, A. J. Howland, J. M. B. Hunker, Dr. Carl Neilson, George Clary and A. B. Drexel.

Enjoy Dance.

As guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tibbitts, Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. William Hall and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Stiff enjoyed the dinner dance at the Maryland on Saturday evening.

Honoring Two Visitors.

Choosing pink for delicately pretty table decorations, Mrs. W. K. Weaver of South Hobart boulevard complimented Mrs. Sam Mendenhall of Montana and Mrs. Bogart of Evanston, Ill., with an auction bridge luncheon on Friday, attended by Mrs. Charles Merritt, Mrs. J. C. Doyle, Mrs. J. Fullwood, Miss Laura Paxton, Mrs. A. Lyttle, Mrs. John Kenihan, Mrs. Peddler, Mrs Charles Cooper and Mrs. George Shearer.

Former Mid-Easterners.

Mrs. D. B. Jeffries of No. 1554 West Forty-seventh street entertained the Auburn (Ind.) ladies who now reside in Los Angeles and its environs at her home on Thursday, the afternoon being pleasantly spent in needlework and sociability. Dainty refreshments were served. Present were Mmes. Willis Brown, V. A. Humphrey, Davies, E. L. Robbins, B. C. Robbins, Frank Eckhart, William Eckhart, Mattie Eckhart, George Shugers, McFarland, Hildebrand, O. Keck, Willis Nance, Anna Hoffman, Miss Edna Davis and Miss May Plum.

Their Daughter Married.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Loan announce the marriage of their daughter, Eva Ruth, to Theodore P. Smith, on Saturday, April 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will spend the summer in Canada and will be at home in San Anselmo after October 1.

For Charity.

This afternoon at the Belgium relief tea at the headquarters in the Los Angeles Investment Building, Miss Irene Grosse of Pasadena will preside as hostess. Mrs. Stephen Raymond will be hostess tomorrow afternoon at which time a special programme will be furnished by Miss Grace Travers and Edmund Lowe of the Morosco stock company, from 3 to 6 o'clock. This afternoon during the same hours, Miss Corabelle Bonnie and A. Bert Wesner, also of the Morosco, will furnish entertainment and assist with the sale of tickets for the Grand Prix, June 30.

These teas are becoming more popular with society folk each day and the hostesses vie with each other to make them among the most delightful affairs of the season. The object is to assist in swelling the fund for the starving Belgium children.

Mrs. J. M. Danziger and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman were the hostesses yesterday and the musical programme was given by Rose Johnson Frazer, pianist; Miss Helen Farnham, whistler, and A. D. Hunter, accompanist.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The final concerts of the Symphony season will be Friday afternoon and Saturday evening at the Trinity Auditorium. The programme will be of significant musical value, and patrons of the organization are making especial plans to attend that they may hear the new composition by Adolf Tandler, director of the Symphony.

Plan Appeals to Seattle.

Word was received here last night from Florencio Constantino, the famous singer, that arrangements have been completed in Seattle to include that city in the opera and temple art project which has been received so favorably in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Constantino and his attorney, Charles A. Kleinman, who went with him to Seattle to adjust legal matters in connection with the project, will arrive here Wednesday. While in Seattle Constantino sang at four performances with the grand opera company there.

ROBS CHURCHILL HOME.

A burglar entered the residence of Mrs. Churchill, the widow of the late Owen H. Churchill, No. 2201 South Figueroa street, last night while the family were having dinner and took jewelry, valued at $2500, from a room on the second floor of the house.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

A lively discussion was precipitated at the Woman's City Club yesterday when John W. Kemp, member of the Board of Public Service Commissioners, and Russell H. Ballard of the Edison company debated on the power distributing system.

While the audience was the smallest for several weeks, both speakers were given close attention, and the open forum which always comes as a climax to the Monday programmes had many impromptu (and wise) participants. Mr. Ballard argued that even though municipal ownership may eventually come, now is hardly the propitious time, when taxes are so high. His points were logical and well put.

Among those entering into the discussion at the close of the scheduled addresses was Mrs. Etta Sohier, who suggested that the people, instead of taking over the ownership and operation of the distributing lines, proceed in a sane manner to secure public ownership by revising the city charter and substitute modern business methods "for the present ridiculous and extravagant ways of conducting the city's affairs, and by also adopting a system that will secure the services of men of the finest intellect combined with the strongest character." Then, she said, the city will be able to take over the distributing lines and operate them in an efficient manner in the best interests of the public, thus proving the theory of municipal ownership instead of discrediting it.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. E. R. Brainerd, who is in the north, Mrs. Lewis R. Works called the meeting to order.

James A. Johnston, warden, will tell of the treatment of the San Quentin prisoners next Monday.

Yesterday rumors were broadcast concerning certain members who are to make the run for the board of directors. Dr. M. Evangeline Jordon agreed to allow her name to appear on the ballot several weeks ago, and others who have since been mentioned are Mrs. Robert P. Holmes, Mrs. John D. Fredericks, Mrs. Brennan and Mrs. Frances Noel.

For recording secretary, the office so well filled by Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, who will undoubtedly be elected to the first vice-presidency, Mrs. Harley Brundige, so it was whispered yesterday, will run.

Woman's Medical Fraternity.

Kappa chapter of Alpha Epsilon Iota, Woman's Medical Fraternity, was entertained at the home of Dr. Cynthia Skinner, No. 878 Riverside drive, Mt. Washington, Thursday evening. The feature of the evening was a "children's frock party," which was participated in by all the guests. An elaborate dinner was served at 6 o'clock, after which the real fun of the evening began.

The grand prize was given to Dr. Mae Noble as a result of her clever imitation of a 10-year-old child; she was fittingly dressed for the occasion.

Among those present were Drs. Skinner, Zuber, Seymour, Brown, Kearney, Armstrong, Noble, Peters, Frank, Scholl, Dunsmoor, Hayes, Horstmann, McNelle, Misses Jessica Skinner, Frost, Parks and Mrs. Edy.

Vermont Avenue P.T.A.

Mrs. Edwin H. Brooks will speak on "America First" and music will be furnished by the seventh-grade pupils for the meeting of the Vermont-avenue Parent-Teacher Association, which convenes this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Election of officers will be held following the programme.

Cosmos Card Party-dance.

The Courtesy Committee of the Cosmos Club, with Mrs. A. T. Anderson chairman, assisted by Mrs. A. C. Criley, will give a card and dancing party at the Regent, No. 2401 West Sixth street, Friday evening, the 5th inst. The committee, one of the largest in the club, will use every effort to insure their guests a pleasant social evening. The Reception Committee numbers Mmes. Sue Leonard, C. E. Love, E. J. Brent, H. M. Philips, J. C. Woods, F. F. Truscott, Henry Wiesbaum, J. A. Coldwell, L. A. Irish, with Mmes. P. H. Green, A. C. Robbins, R. H. Raphael, William Kuehn, N. Landfield, W. J. Simpson, A. M. Gerfield, A. C. Hummelbaugh, J. C. Cline and George Shugars assisting. Tables will be in charge of Mrs. George J. Cote, assisted by Mrs. B. O. Rhodes, and the auction and Five Hundred tables directed by Mrs. H. L. Muser and Mrs. L. L. Vogel.

Ontario Club Elects Officers.

Mrs. William Atkinson Rankin was returned to the presidency of the Current Events Club, the largest women's organization in the city, when it met in annual session at the last meeting.

The constitution of the club was changed so as to increase the size of the executive board by the addition of a second vice-president, a corresponding secretary, a federation secretary and the heads of the principal committees.

Other officers elected were Mrs. George Tillotson Barr, first vice-president; Mrs. Thomas C. Hardy, second vice-president; Mrs. Henry F. Thompson, recording secretary; Mrs. Samuel H. Gardner, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Temple, treasurer. The federation secretary, the heads of the committees and one new director will be named by the president. The present directors of the club are Mrs. Wellington Arthur Freemir, Mrs. Lewis Hugo Mertz and Mrs. Henry Edson Swan, Mrs. Swan retiring this year.

Women Active in Many Directions.

Mrs. Charles H. Spinks of Berkeley, president of the board of managers of the Florence Crittenton Home of San Francisco, president of the Woman's State Democratic Club of California and vice-president of the Woman's National Democratic League of Washington, D. C., is a guest at the home of Mrs. Stephen A. Rendall in South Alvarado street. Mrs. Spinks is in Los Angeles for the purpose of attending the State Conference of Social Agencies. A dinner is to be given for her at Christopher's, near Sixth street, by the Woman's Democratic League, Friday evening.

Another Pageant May 16.

The Highland Park Ebell Club is making elaborate preparations for the Shakespearean pageant which Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith is directing for it, and which will be presented the evening of Tuesday, the 16th inst. Through a mistake in the programme, the 8th inst. was mentioned for the big event.

DRAMA.

Unique.

BRINGS VIVID MESSAGE.

TYRONE POWER IDEALIZES ROLE OF LOWLY WORKMAN.

By Henry Christeen Warnack.

Have you ever been hungry so that you could never again forget, but must ever afterward yearn to feed all the hungered in the world? Have you been poor and hurt and despised? Have you been without a place to lay your head? Have you been footsore and wearied unto death from toil? If the wonder of life has brought you the blessing of any of these experiences, then you have a common share with Tyrone Power in that great love and understanding which made the supreme art of his offering at the Mason last night.

Tyrone Power knows one thing about "The Servant in the House" which Charles Rann Kennedy, its author, may not have known. He knows that the "Drainman" is the risen Christ.

Others have seen Christ in the form of the Bishop of Benares; Power sees him in the lowly workman inspired by understanding, purpose and will.

An audience at an ordinary production of the "Servant in the House" would wait upon the mystery of the bishop's appearance and his divination; they would dwell upon his words and be won by the gentleness of his spirit and the kindness of his heart; but, in the light of the luminous interpretation of this master craftsman of the stage the audience which thronged the Mason last night saw in the lowly Drainman the resurrection and the life, saw the Christ message exemplified and the word made flesh, saw man glorified by the thing called work. Even as no man liveth or dieth unto himself, so no man's labor is his own, but the best that is in him belongs, share and share alike, to every man alive.

FROM DIFFERENT ANGLES.

Charles Rann Kennedy diagnoses sickness of spirit in much the same fashion as Ibsen, in his earlier works, undertakes the same unpleasant office for society and governments, the chief difference between the two being that Kennedy, uncertain of the disease, is too sure of the cure, while Ibsen saw the sickness too plainly to attempt the cure of a people who could not see it for themselves. Tyrone Power takes all of the vision at which Kennedy only hinted, and thunders it across the footlights with an astounding heartiness and a startling certainty.

It was a magnificent performance in all respects, and it is good to know that it will be repeated tonight. Thursday and Friday nights and Wednesday and Saturday matinees, while Wednesday and Saturday nights and Thursday matinee Mr. Power and his fine company will give us superb scenes from "Othello," "Macbeth" and "Julius Ceasar."

BLENDED ARTISTRY.

Too much cannot be said in commendation of the fine artistry of this company. Miss Sarah Truax, with her beauty and power, brought a golden charm to the performance. Blending with it was the sweetness and talent of Miss Helen Reaume, a little actress Los Angeles must know better.

Wilfrid Roger is already world-famed for his remarkable creation of the part of Manson, to which he brings a tender reverence and rare emphasis.

Perhaps nothing was more interesting to the Mason first-nighters than the piquant creation of the Lord Bishop of Lancashire by Benjamin Horning. The part was flawlessly taken.

John W. Sherman, as the Vicar, brought out this difficult part with strength, and Carl von Schiller gave a touch of irresistible comedy to Rogers, the page boy.

The spoken drama is not coming back, for the reason that it is already here, and, with the encouragement of such companies as that now at the Mason and such audiences as are certain to bring these superior people their attention and plaudits, the art that we all love and have cried out for should remain among us with increasing power.

Alhambra.

Aflame with sensation, yet backed by that law which is beautiful when obeyed and tragic when ignored, "The Love Liar," at the Alhambra this week, in which Crane Wilbur is starred, is worthy of all consideration.

To many persons the truth in this photodrama will appear as strangely told, but if the temperament of its leading character be considered then it cannot be said to be strained in any particular.

The world has long been accustomed to looking with frankness and even with brutality upon the frailty of woman, yet it is seldom that any author takes the trouble to be candid with regard to the fickleness of men. Now, the fact is that as many men are flirts as women and that a large number of men play at love in the deep way that hurts.

Orpheum.

"The Love Liar" is absorbingly interesting, because it takes a man of vanity and temperament, one who has education, position and moderate wealth, and makes him the male counterpart of the courtesan.

Possibly, there is too much license given the man, but on the whole, the story carries a dread white logic, consistent and awesome.

There are men like the one in this drama, who lie to themselves u'till they believe it; and there are men who come into possession of a strange power over women, the power that amounts to sex hypnotism. The abuse of such an attribute invariably leads to the deepest misery, for, in the end, it reacts upon the culprit and his heart is a seething hell. Curiously enough, after he has maimed many a dainty creature of the skies, things of wings and belonging to the stars, it is a horrid, creeping thing, a creature of the very dust, on whom he is finally broken. This happens to the "Love Liar" and the conception is utterly consistent, and richly portrayed.

Clune's Broadway.

It is difficult to discuss "The Flames of Johannis," in which Nance O'Neil stars at Clune's Broadway this week, because of the possible discrepancy between this vision as Hermann Sudermann saw it, and as it appeared to the man who cramatized this story and to the director who produced it.

There is always a danger in studying anything by Sudermann—the very serious danger of discovering what he meant. The apple-reddens for Sudermann where the serpent's fang has struck it, and that rose for him is brightest that has a worm at the heart.

If anybody in the world would dare to visualize the intentions of Sudermann, it would be the splendid tragedy queen, Nance O'Neil, but the truth is, that this is something no one may do. Sudermann is an inference, not a picture. If you take what he means, you cannot submit it to the camera; and if you leave out his meaning, you have no story. There never was, perhaps, any better photography than this picture reveals, and seldom has acting of such excellence passed in magic upon the screen, yet the story is both distasteful and disappointing, and arrives nowhere. The hero starts out bravely and ends miserably. The heroine is a child of calamity, who gives promise of great joy, and who ends in grief. I think I know what is wrong. They were trying to veil the significance of the incident which is the very crux of the drama, the incident of St. John's night, when the flames are high, and the witches dance.

But wait! Have you ever loved a tree? Have you, by chance, marked the several stages of your life by the growth of a tree? When I was a child, and they put my little playmate in the country churchyard, I found a baby cedar, not six inches high, I think, and planted it at the head of that little grave. Then, through all the years, I watched it, watched it when I came home from each wandering, whether from school at vacation time, or from the far and Golden West. Long, and long ago, its height and breadth, not only sheltered me, but cast a cooling shade in the summer time over each grave where many of my own are resting.

Well, it is sweet to plant for the dear dead, sweet to plant for the birth of a precious human mite; but perhaps, sweetest of all is the old custom of boy and girl playmates to plant their sweetheart tree. Alas, that its branches seldom shelter them together, when they, like their tree, are grown, yet it lives on an embowered, fragrant memory. Such a tree takes the sting out of "The Flames of Johannis," and the pity is that the tree is not given more to do in making this a better play.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

The annual banquet of the members of the Society, Sons of the Revolution in the State of California, and their men friends, will be held on the evening of May 17 at the Jonathan Club. An especially good dinner and entertainment will be provided. James R. Page is chairman of the entertainment committee.

GENERAL REVIEWS.

De Michele Brothers, wop musicians, stopped the show at Pantages last night, just because they won't take "high-brow" music seriously. "Diddle-de-dum-de-dee! Dum!" tacked unexpectedly on Dvorak's Humoresque, is the kind of stuff that got the audience's laugh-goat. Once in a while, though, a little gleam of real melody proved they are artists on the 'cello and violin.

The Dancing La Vars gallop and whirl through three lively and original numbers, and then do an "extra" with some original but labored patter worked in.

"After the Wedding," two couples meet in the hotel corridor, and the usual mistaken identity makes a laughable farce.

The "Dream of the Orient" is different from the usual vaudeville musical comedy in that the girls can sing; there is also some dancing, and a "scrumptious" attempt at scenic splendor.

Minni Waters—her middle name must be "Laughing"—goes over strong with her cut-up, rough-neck comedy and dancing; two young fellows do clever work in eccentric tumbling to open the show, and in the "Iron Claw" movie serial "pizened" arrows are introduced by the villain with exciting effects.

Republic.

Texico and company, with their presentation of spectacular solo, descriptive and pantomine dancing, are the headliners at the Republic Theater this week. Their novel entertainment was highly appreciated by the crowds at the opening night performance. Jennie Osborne and her collection of wonderfully trained dogs are also top-notchers. These educated canines have a show all their own in their feature, "The Dogtown Revue."

"The Floor Above," a D. W. Griffith production, starring Henry Walthall and Lillian Gish, who became so popular by their clever work in "The Birth of a Nation," is the feature film offering.

The Guistat duo, Italian street singers and accordeonists, entertain with a pleasing rendition of their native songs and music. The Allen trio, "singers who really sing," have a collection of the latest popular ditties that catch the fancy of the audience. Nolan and Nolan, presenting comedy and novelty juggling, and Winifred Tirrell, a singing comedienne, conclude the excellent variety programme.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home:) The era of prosperity which has swept the country evidently has not neglected shipping circles, as securities of nearly all mercantile marine concerns are much higher and in active demand. Many railroads have reported large increases in earnings for March. One source of great satisfaction industrially is the settlement of many labor disputes, and May 1 passed with a minimum of strikes.

(Abroad:) German internal loans for the whole period of the war have not risen within two-thirds of the maximum fixed by law.

(For details see financial pages.)

CONCERNING PROPHECIES.

The Japanese seer, who foretold President Wilson's marriage to a widow, has recently predicted his defeat in the next election. We are inclined to think it took a little more vaticination to make the former than the latter prophecy.

PRODIGALS AND TRAITORS.

The Progressive papers are now busily calling people's attention to the fact that Hiram Johnson won his first victory as a Republican. Strange, isn't it, that some people want to get back into the party they betrayed and spurned and mocked?

NEW USE FOR BIRCH.

Local lumbermen are interested in the report that birch is being put to a new use as stocks for rifles and shotguns. In the average man's mind the use of birch is associated with the woodshed and father—and no padding in the rear.

GEN. SCOTT'S EFFECT.

Having met Gen. Scott face to face and looked him over carefully and heard him speak, Gen. Obregon came to the conclusion that the presence of American troops in Mexico wasn't such a bad thing after all, and that there wasn't any reason why the Mexicans and Americans could not be good friends. There's something about Gen. Scott that makes people think it's better to have him for a friend than for an enemy.

MILLIONS FOR WORKERS.

If a large company should reduce its men's wages to the extent of $18,000,000 a year what a howl would go up from organized labor all over the country, what expressions of wrath would be heard! But when a great concern increases the wages of its laborers to that extent a small item in the papers is about all it gets. The United States Steel Corporation announced several days ago a 10 per cent. increase in the wages of its 250,000 workmen. This will add $18,000,000 or $20,000,000 to the annual pay roll of the company. Last January the corporation gave a 10 per cent. increase to its workmen, who then numbered about 150,000. With the second advance the corporation has increased its pay roll since the first of the year by $35,000,000. It also has a pension scheme and a profit-sharing plan for the benefit of its men. Once again one may rise to remark that corporations do have souls.

PRIVILEGES OF FOOLS.

Between what a man has a right to do and what it is wise for him to do there is often a very wide gap.

A man has a right to go with a pocket full of money at midnight into the slum quarters of a city, but it would be inadvisable for him to do so.

An unvaccinated man has a right to shake hands with a smallpox patient, but maybe he had better not do so.

A man has a right to take passage for Liverpool on an armed British liner, but unless he is looking for thrills he had better patronize an American ship.

A sheep has a right to wander among coyotes, but a sheep has more sense than to do so. A rat has a right to place himself within reach of the paws of a cat, but no rodent will do so. A hen has a right to hang around the haunt of a hawk, but there is no record of any hen doing so.

Man is the only animal who sometimes evinces a disposition to endanger his life merely for fun, or in a spirit of braggadocio or pure cussedness.

WHEN PEACE COMES.

What will be the predominant feeling when peace comes? A century ago, after the downfall of Napoleon, Lord Jeffrey wrote of the deep-felt gratitude and delight felt in Britain for the liberation of so many oppressed nations, for the cessation of bloodshed and fear and misery "over the fairest portions of the civilized world." Since then America has become the fairest portion of the world, in the opinion of many; but the words of Jeffrey as to the world's first feeling when peace comes are as true now as they were a century ago. The contrast which peace will give to war with its anxieties and alarms will doubtless be the subject for poetical exclamations. But who will be able to beat the charming expressions of that same Jeffrey who spoke of peace as coming upon the world "like the balmy air and flushing verdure of a late spring after the dreary chills of a long and interminable winter; and the refreshing sweetness with which it has visited the earth feels like Elysium to those who have just escaped from the driving tempests it has banished"?

Stand aside, men, and give Charles Evans Hughes an opportunity to tell where he stands on the issues of the day.

AMERICA'S INTERNAL MENACE.

We are the greatest nation on earth. Our fields are the most fertile, our mines the richest, our raw material of every kind the most abundant, and our developed wealth is vastly beyond that of any other nation now or in the past. Yet our present possessions are only a foretaste and prophecy of what is in store for us. It would be the sin of all time and the crime of history if a threatened danger, now looming up, were allowed to culminate and produce its legitimate effect in the country—viz., the menace of the hyphenated wavers of foreign flags and anti-American agitators of disturbance and disloyalty.

Although it is internal, it is not truly an American danger that threatens us. The fathers of this republic were as sympathetic as they were great. Their aim was not only to make a country free for themselves where they might live prosperously and happily, but they threw down all barriers and invited the oppressed of all nations to come in and make their homes among us, sharing our liberty and all the riches of our vast domain. This invitation was heard and accepted by many millions. The annual influx of new population before the war set in rap to an average of a full million a year. The early immigrants were mostly people more or less cognate with the original colonists who settled this country. They came from Northern and Western Europe, were sober, honest, industrious, fairly intelligent, and for the most part accustomed to the ways of democracies and experienced in taking part to a certain degree in free institutions.

Of late years the immigrants have been of a different type. They have been indeed from oppressed races, numbering thousands who never had any hand, act or part in self-government, many of them grossly ignorant, many of them naturally vicious, not a few of them with anarchistic notions in their minds, the natural product of the oppression under which they lived in their old homes.

Then some of those who have been arriving lately from Western Europe came from different surroundings from those in which the earlier immigrants were raised and nurtured. Syndicalism has grown to be the curse of many nations of Western Europe. England, the nearest to democracy of all the countries outside the United States, has suffered most from these organizations, selfish, brutal, law-breaking and inclined to defy all government, to override the rights of all others, to have their own way even at the expense of rule or ruin.

This has been a terrific load for the United States to carry, and an appalling mess for the body politic to digest and absorb. Much of it was absolutely alien to our institutions, and became utter poison in the body politic. WE WERE TOO GENEROUS IN THE BEGINNING IN EXTENDING CITIZENSHIP TO THIS HORDE OF HETEROGENEOUS HUMANITY WHICH WE INVITED TO OUR SHORES. WE HAILED THEM WITH TOO-WIDE-OPEN ARMS. Whereas an American boy brought up in our own schools, nurtured under our own institutions, could not vote until he was 21 years old, these immigrants, unable to speak our language, to read our papers, and therefore unable to understand our institutions, were permitted to go to the polls and take part in our elections almost before they got the smell of the ship which brought them over out of their clothes.

The trouble with this class of citizens is that they are unable to recognize the rights of others or to appreciate their own advantages. They come here in rags, with their stomachs stuck to their backbones, and just as soon as they get their rags replaced with a suit of decent clothes and their bellies full of good American meat and bread, immediately they wax impudent and show a determination to run the whole country to walk over those who oppose them and, in a word, if not allowed to run the country, then to ruin it, to sell us out to some foreign foe. Today, when our relations with foreign powers are critical, they openly deride America and its government and its flag. What will they do if war comes upon us? Will we find our most dangerous enemies within our gates?

The fatter these fellows get, the more intolerable they become, the greater their impudence, and the more unreasonable they are. The last year has been a period of remarkable prosperity in this country. Employers have made much money; capital has earned large dividends; but anyone who sets up the claim that labor has not had its just share of this prosperity is either a fit candidate for an imbecile asylum or for membership in the Ananias Club. There is not a day, and has not been in months, that the columns of the daily press have not contained accounts of advances in wages in every industry in the country. Immigrants of a few years ago who never earned a dollar a day in their lives, who never in twenty years had a square meal, never in a lifetime had a decent suit of clothes to their backs, are living here in this country, earning never less than a dollar a day and upward to five dollars a day. They live in good houses, wear good clothes, and feast upon the fat of the fattest land upon earth.

The more prosperity blesses them, the more vicious they are. The other day one of their leaders (better called misleaders) said this: "There is a greater unrest on this May Day than has been manifest in many previous years. To some this condition is alarming; to me it is encouraging, for I believe discontent is a sign of life—of progress."

If it were not for the weakness and cowardice of our politicians this would be soon ended. But in officialdom, from the peace officers of the smallest industrial center in the United States up to the President himself, there is too much selfishness, too little patriotism, too much politics and too little statesmanship. These people, wise and ignorant, peaceful and belligerent, selfish and generous, vicious and moral, all are armed with the vote. They can make or break in many centers any politician who presents himself for office. They are organized, which is an advantage they have over the native-born element in our citizenship, and the noise they make terrifies the life out of the average politician, whose sole purpose is to get an office and then to keep it as long as he can.

If that is not a condition that threatens the very life of the country it would be difficult to find a condition that would fulfill the bill. If it were not for our absolute confidence in the vitality of American institutions and in the good sense and grit of the real American people, we would be in utter despair. And by the real American people we do not wish to exclude all those of foreign birth by any means. We believe there are enough of them, foreign-born and native-born, who realize the danger and who have a high value of American institutions to take care of the situation, threatening as it may be. SOME DAY THERE WILL ARISE AN AMERICAN SENTIMENT STRONG AND FIERCE ENOUGH TO SWEEP THIS WHOLE DANGER INTO OBLIVION FOR EVER. SOME DAY, AND WE BELIEVE IT IS NEAR AT HAND. It is because we have been so prosperous that we have tolerated this interference on the part of foreigners with our affairs, and it was because we are going so well generally that we have permitted weak-kneed politicians to creep into nearly every office. Let the difficulty grip Americans with a close pinch and then they will elect real statesmen to office, and with the advent of the real statesman will come an end of Gompers, Furuseth and Tveitmoe and Viereck—and an end to the peril of disloyalty and treason in case our nation is attacked by Germany or Japan.

THE TRUTH ABOUT MEXICO.

The difficulty of dealing with the government or the people of Mexico, or of the people of Mexico properly dealing with themselves is—during the lifetime of the present generation—seemingly inherent and ineradicable.

There is no civilized nation in the world in which so large a proportion of the people are so densely ignorant as are the people of Mexico. There is practically no middle class between the peons and their feudal lords—the cientificos—who own the land—the few industrial establishments, the transportation companies and the shops. The newspapers are controlled by the government, the corporations and the landlords. Politics are personal. There are rallies and processions, but no campaign meetings where principles are discussed. As a necessary consequence elections are controlled either by force or by fraud. The only hope of a free, fair government in Mexico is by education of the people, and that will take time to be measured by decades.

There are in Mexico nine million Indians, three million mestizos or people of mixed Spanish-Indian blood, and not more than three million of pure European blood.

The Spanish blood which came into the country with Cortez was itself a mixture of Iberian, Roman, Celtic, Vandal, Goth and Semitic, and this, mixed with the Indians in the proportion of one to five, produced a people that developed the baser qualities of both races.

The Spaniards, from the incursion of Cortez to the present day, always resisted and retarded the education of the common people, because the work of ignorant peons cost less than that of educated laborers. A peon was a unit of physical force not so well cared for as a negro slave in the United States.

Under such conditions for three hundred years generations labored and died. President Debney of the University of Cincinnati, in an able article in the Outlook, thus sums up the situation: "With no motive in life except to eat, drink and propagate his miserable kind, the common Mexican became idle, sensual and brutal, the spirit of manana ruled his life, and a profound fatalism locked his spirit in death."

The various revolutions in Mexico in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries produced no substantial beneficial changes in the condition of the common people. Bankruptcy in the public treasuries and brigandage on the public highways were the normal conditions of Mexican life until Porfirio Diaz became President. He put an end to religious persecution and discouraged demonstrations of hostility against foreigners. He suppressed brigandage by causing bandits whose guilt was unmistakable to be stood up against an adobe wall and shot without a trial and without mercy. Mexico, under his rule, was under—not martial law—but Diaz law. He aided the development of the resources of the country by encouraging investments of American, of English and of German capital. He caused railroads to be constructed, consolidated and improved. He caused a partial amelioration of peonage. He standardized the currency, encouraged education and, although his rule was despotic, Mexicans received under it a larger measure of liberty and equality before the law than they have possessed under any of his successors in the Presidential office.

He was not friendly to public education under national auspices, but did not oppose its encouragement by local rule. He favored subsidies to railways, exemption of import duties on factory machinery and exemption from taxation for a certain period of productive industries. The wages of laborers increased. Prosperity bred dissatisfaction with their social conditions and they began to murmur at the excessive land holdings of a few men and the lack of opportunity to acquire land accorded to the masses.

Diaz sought to put a rate of taxation upon the large holdings of land that would make them unprofitable and open them for settlement to small farmers. This did not satisfy the peons and greatly dissatisfied the land barons.

Madero championed agrarianism and succeeded in expelling Diaz without being able himself to retain power. He was first compelled to resign and then, in order to prevent future trouble, was assassinated.

Huerta endeavored to restore the methods of Diaz and would probably have succeeded if President Wilson had not, by refusing to follow the example of the other governments in the world, and by refusing to recognize him, plunged Mexico into the chaos which followed his exile.

Carranza has two objects; first to hold the Presidency for himself and, second, to carry forward land reform for the people. The death of Villa—if he is dead or is to be dead—or the scattering of his bandit forces, which has evidently been accomplished, will probably result in Carranza retaining the Presidency, unless Felix Diaz can organize a new bandit force.

And what then? Can Carranza rule except by a return to the methods of Porfirio Diaz? Can a silk purse be made out of a sow's ear? Can a free representative republican government be established and maintained among a people 60 per cent. of whom are Indians, no more fit than Apaches for self-government and 20 per cent. of whom are determined to live upon the labor of the other 80 per cent.? It is a condition and not a theory that confronts the Mexicans. Education of the masses must precede the establishment of representative government and universal suffrage. In the meantime the rule of the authorities will necessarily be more or less drastic. This is to be regretted, but it is inevitable.

THE "POPULOUS SOLITUDE."

A Los Angeles pastor told his flock the other day that this is the time to take walks, and to walk alone. He emphasized the last word. Good advice. Once in a while every man should get away from the love, fame, ambition, avarice, disease, death and bondage which is so much before him in the cities. He should go into the country, or by the sea, and commune with nature. He will find when he is alone that he is enjoying a "populous solitude." If in the country he will see bees and birds and fairy-formed and many-colored flowers in which myriads of insects buzz. By the sea there is never-ending sound which will be music in his ears. "There is society where none intrudes by the deep sea, and music in its roar." But if he really wants solitude he would better not go to Venice.

AUTHORS AND BOOKS.

Latest Gossip About Literary Folk and the Work They are Doing—A Good Ford Story.

Maria Thompson Daviess, though the author of more than one "best seller," is content to ride in a Ford car like the other people in her beloved Harpeth Valley.

Some weeks ago she was being driven to Nashville from Sweetbriar Farm, when a big touring car swept around the end of a trolley and nearly demolished the Ford then and there. In the lively lawsuit that followed, Miss Daviess appeared as a witness and talked like one of the saucy heroines of her novels.

"What were your orders to the chauffeur, madam?" the judge asked.

"I have always told Edgar," replied the novelist, "that he must keep a proper modesty and remember that Fords are entitled to no rights whatever; that if he saw a big car coming on the wrong side of the street he was to run in somebody's front gate till it got by. That he obeyed carefully must be obvious to the court. The defendant wrecked only one end of my car. The other end was smashed trying to climb a picket fence to get out of the way."

There are cars a-plenty in Miss Daviess's new adventure novel, "The Daredevil"—but she, being well versed in the requisites of the "best seller," hasn't dared to introduce the plebeian variety, but sticks to the long, low, gray cars such as heroines always use.

Burton Kline, magazine editor of the Boston Transcript and author of "Struck by Lightning," left his country village in Virginia some years ago and landed in Boston, determined to take the place by storm. He presented himself and his ambition to Edward Everett Hale, who told him to go home as fast as steam could take him. He visited Charles Eliot Norton and confided his dreams. Mr. Norton told him to go home and make boots, saying "an honest living is a noble achievement." Mr. Kline did go home, but he wrote such an interesting satire on his experience that he was invited to come back to Boston.

William J. Locke's new story, "Viviette," is especially designed for summer reading. It is short and dramatic rather than whimsical.

James Oppenheim, author of "The Beloved," is said to be regretting that he didn't "yield to his original impulse" and cast the book in "free verse." It is pointed out that if each line began with a capital letter the poetic quality might be more apparent to the casual reader. This is in line with Amy Lowell's claim that, after all, poetry—in many people's eyes—is purely typographical.

T. Everett Harre, author of "Behold the Woman!" which has, among other things, to do with religious mystics and their visions, solemnly declared in a New York interview that he believes in ghosts, and said "I consider it quite probable that the time will come when we will be able to take moving pictures of life in the other world and reproduce on the screen the doings of spirits." In a case like that death would not necessarily be cause for severing a movie actor's contract.

Mary S. Watts, author of "The Rudder," has such a weakness for antiques that she is reported as saying that if her books continue to sell she may have to move out of the house to make room for the new purchase of old furniture.

There is some doubt as to whether A. Hyatt Verrill is an individual or a syndicate. In the past six months more than that number of books covering a wide variety of subjects and bearing the imprint of many different publishers have been issued under his name.

Gerald Stanley Lee, author of "Crowds" and more recently of "We," though a pacifist himself, makes fun of some phases of the movement thus: "And now the peace people have built a palace at The Hague, a kind of international headquarters for prayer meeting for apologizing for peace, a place for mooning weekly and wondering if peace cannot be made to work, a great fortress of pale resolutions, of rows of Prince Albert coats. I see it always as a kind of Rescue Mission or Hope Mission for Peace, a little tinkly bell, a little jingle of money—to call the great swarthy nations together—to ask them to come in, please, to stoop down, please, and be teased to notice Peace!"

RIPPLING RHYMES.

PEDESTRIANS.

Pedestrians are everywhere; they are the motorist's despair, they're ruinous of sport; for it, in scorching through the town, I run a half a dozen down, they have me hauled to court. It seems to me unfair and mean that coin I need for gasoline must go in paying fines, or damages, at the behest of walkers I've knocked galley west, and telescoped their spines. Oh, how aggrieved a driver feels, when someone gets beneath the wheels, and spoils a costly tire! My sentiments, at such a time, if they were couched in song or rhyme, would melt a wooden lyre. Pedestrians look round with scorn, when I toot warnings on my horn, their actions seem to say: "Just climb our person if you dare, with that old tumbril you have there—we have the right of way!" They clinch their hands and set their teeth, and wildly throw themselves beneath my inoffensive car, and then the peelers come along, and drag me, innocent of wrong, to where the jurists are. And there I pay another fine, from the depleted wad of mine, and hear the cadi say: "You demons of the buzz-buzz cart, who knock pedestrians apart, will find it doesn't pay!"

SUCCESS OR DISHONOR IN MEXICO.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

BY WILLIAM BAYARD HALE,

President Wilson's Special Agent in Mexico.

THE day on which the American troops who are pursuing the murderous invader Villa turn their faces to the north without having accomplished the object for which they were dispatched into Mexico will be a day of shame and dishonor.

That day, let us hope, will never come. The administration at Washington may negotiate with Mr. Carranza about the withdrawal of our troops, but that—thank heaven—is not quite the same thing as withdrawing them.

In truth the demand of the self-styled "First Chief of the Constitutionalist Army of Mexico" is a most insolent demand. He is himself without authority in the regions from which he assumes to dismiss the American expedition, sent out to punish a murderer whom he himself is utterly unable to punish. There is no human probability that that murderer will ever be apprehended or punished by anybody except Americans. During the five weeks that have elapsed since the Columbus massacre no adequate effort has been made by the Carranza "government" to capture Villa and no serious purpose in that direction has been evinced.

If there were a month ago sufficient reason to send an American force into Mexico after Villa, there is now overwhelming reason to keep that force in Mexico until it "gets" Villa. If it was then suspected that Carranza would not and could not deal with the bandit, it is now clearly proven that he cannot and will not. There may have been considerations tending to discourage the idea of sending troops across the border; but, the troops having been sent, there are a thousand new considerations why they should not be allowed to come home without having executed their errand.

So much may be set down as the firm determination of the American people—a determination which they will compel the Washington administration to respect.

The whole series of negotiations, protocols, confidential understandings and long-drawn-out agreements with Carranza has been not only a particularly silly, but a very dangerous, business. It has deprived our troops of the use of the railway; it has kept them out of the towns; it has reduced almost to the condition of forlorn tramps what should have been a stern and formidable army. And if ever there were any excuse for negotiations with the pompous old gentleman, the excuse vanished when his troops at Parral fired upon a band of our soldiers and took the lives of two of them. That moment the time for negotiations ceased, and the time came for the clearest declaration of our firm purpose to carry out the full aim of the expedition by the use of every means at command.

Not another word should be wasted upon anybody in Mexico. Every resource should be drawn upon to re-enforce the expedition, to strengthen its line of communication and to press rigorously on. There are other culprits now to be punished, too—those who killed our unarmed soldiers at Parral.

It will not do to underestimate the magnitude of the work that is before us. It was fatuously underestimated at the beginning, and, as a result, there is real danger that the original column may be cut off—danger that news of a terrible catastrophe may come at any time. The administration which sent our gallant men, inadequately supported, upon their hazardous enterprise owes it to them to do all it can to rectify its error. A real army should be assembled with the utmost speed that wit and energy can achieve and rushed to the relief of the little force over whose fate the country has too good reasons to hang in suspense.

Real Enlightenment.

[Pathfinder:] "Father," said the son, looking up from a book with a puzzled expression on his face, "what is pride?"

"Pride," returned the father, "pride! Why—a—O, sure you know what pride is. A sort of being stuck up, a kind of—well, proud, you know. Just get the dictionary; that's the thing to tell you exactly what it is. There's nothing like a dictionary, Johnny."

"Here it is," said the latter, after an exhausting search. "Pride—being proud." "Um—yes, that's it," replied the father.

"But——"

"Well, look at 'proud.' That's the way; you have got to hunt these things out, my lad."

"I've got it," answered Johnny. "Pre—pri—pro—why——"

"What does it say?"

"'Proud—having pride.'"

"That's it! There you are, as clear as day. I tell you, Johnny, there is nothing like a good dictionary when you are young. Take care of the binding, my son, as you put it back."

Phrenologists' Thesaurus.

[Richmond Times-Dispatch:] The American society of phrenologists, at a recent meeting in Philadelphia, put out a list of terms as synonymous for the expression "hit on the head." Believing that you are tired of the old way of saying it, we append the list:

Drubbed on the dome.
Bammed on the bean.
Tapped on the conk.
Bumped on the beeler.
Biffed on the coco.
Busted on the cranium.
Whiffed on the skull,
Cracked on the nut.
Nailed on the knob.
Slugged in the belfry.
Lammed on the beak.
Dinged on the brain-box.

A Modern Test.

[Judge:] "Are they influential?"

"Hardly. Their automobile is last year's model."

NOT FAR ENOUGH.

The result was that every time a man found himself in the fifteen di- vision on the score board—having fifteen breaks out of fifteen birds shot at, he found only about thirty- five other gents with the same score, and also in the split of the purse with him. Another result was that fifteens or "straights" paid as much as 20 cents if one were lucky. It was noted that Doc Packard got in a late squad so he could give the earlier scores the once over, a bit of wisdom in which others wished they'd shared. MORE GOOD ONES.

Joining him on the honor roll was O. N. Ford, one of the finest shots in the West, and Doc H. N. Fuller, with 146 per each. They being the second high amateurs over the pro- gramme, shot off for the second in- terstate cup, tying in the first shoot- off, and finally turning in Doc as the winner. Ford consoled himself with the B. H. Dyas prize.

The pleasant crowd assembled was the most efficient gang of robber shooters seen together for quite some period of time. The indifferent shots, alias donators, were away fishing, and those assembled were mostly the hard-bitten clay breakers. The poor shot was as safe as if on a battle- field. From Santa Barbara came Wolf Hunter, John Haese, sniffing for donator scalps, with a squad from San Diego, and several San Francisco persons.

GO-BUGGIES ENTERING FAST.

Gardena Race Promises Lots of Excitement.

Jap Driver may be Allowed to Compete.

One Fast Car Out Because it is a Truck.

Entries for the Gardena road race, scheduled for next Saturday after- noon, officially closed at midnight last night; but several post entries are expected and the list of en- trants will not be announced until tomorrow.

Official A.A.A. sanction No. 913 was received from Chairman Rich- ard Kennerdell of the contest board yesterday. This is the first small car road race ever run in the West except where the small car event has been a prelimnary to a free-for-all, such as at Santa Moinca in 1912 and the first Corona race.

OUTLAW RACE.

Last year a race was staged at Gardena on Strawberry Day but the event was an outlaw affair. Several such outlaw events have been held in this section but the drivers of the small cars have all been listed with the A.A.A. as registered drivers and they are not permitted to com- pete in outlaw events.

Among the Gardena entries is the fast little Grant Six which made its first appearance at the last Ascot meet, competing with the powerful speed monsters in the free-for-all class. There is a little Stearns in the lists also; Leigh Bacon has en- tered a little Flat and Whyte Wo- mack is entered with his La Canada Special.

TWO OF A KIND.

There is a little Chevrolet in the lists and it is possible that George Hill will be in with his Chevrolet also.

A Japanese driver named K. Sota applied for an A.A.A. driver's license yesterday, making a tentative entry with a Ford special. If the A.A.A. allows the young Japanese to regis- ter, he will compete in the seventy- five-mile road battle Saturday. This will be the first time that a Japa- nese driver has competed in an auto- mobile race anywhere in the world, under sanction of the American Automobile Association. Japanese drivers have raced under sanction of the Japanese-American Racing As- sociation but that is a minor or- ganization for Japanese drivers only.

WHY NOT?

There is nothing in the A.A.A. rules to keep a Japanese driver from becoming a registered speed merchant. All that is necessary is for the driver to demonstrate be- fore the contest board's representa- tive his ability to handle the car and he will be granted his driver's li- cense.

The Japanese are taking a great interest in the Strawberry Day cele- bration at Gardena. Before the automobile race there are to be Japanese sports, including wrestling, fencing and tumbling. There is to be a strawberry dance staged by the Japanese also.

The road race is to start at 2 o'clock. In the morning there is to be a parade. A strawberry dinner is to be served. Thousands of plates of strawberries are to be given away to the visitors to Gardena on Straw- berry Day. After the race there is to be a dance where the speed kings will have a chance to meet their admirers.

NO ADMISSION.

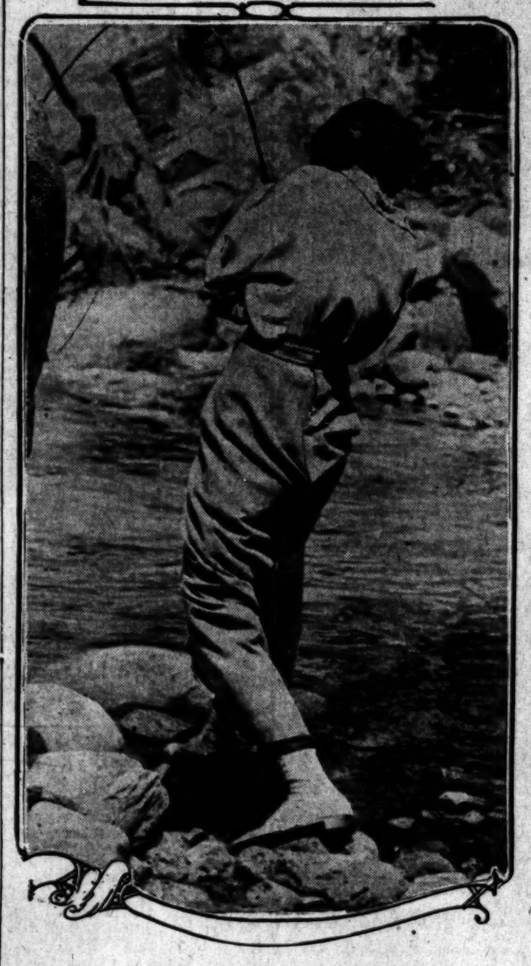
There is to be no admission fee charged at Gardena. The prize money and the Gardena Strawberry Day trophy are gifts of the direc- tors. It is purely a sporting event and the officials are donating their services for the good of the cause.

The members of the Gardena Road Race Committee, who are also directors of the Gardena Strawber- ry Day Association, are C. L. Tilly, chairman; C. M. Buck, Victor Car- son, W. S. Rosecranz, William Nie- man and D. N. Towne.

While the purse is not large, there are so few entries that it is almost an even break for the fast little cars which are all evenly matched. One fast machine has been eliminated. The Ford owned by Mahoney, the car which won two moneys at As- cot in the baby car class, has been built into a truck and is now doing heavy duty in an Arizona mining camp. With this car out of the run- ning, many other Ford owners are already counting the prize money.

CHESS AND CHECKERS.

In a recently completed tourna- ment, L. A. High walloped Normal School by a score of 7½ to 4½. The teachers were outclassed at every point by the Cliffmen and the rooting of Joe Dubin, a Hilltop sup- porter, rattled them badly.



Everybody's doin' it.

This lovely damsel was snapped yesterday while teasing the trout in the Upper San Gabriel. Needless to say she caught the limit.

THOUSANDS OF FISHERMEN WELCOME IN TROUT SEASON.

BY HOWAR ANGUS.

UP THE side of the San Gabriel's mouth in a mud hut among the rocks a hermit exists. He is so old that nobody knows his age. Even he himself has forgotten it. But back somewhere in the days of early California when this city was only a pueblo and the San Gabriel just a wild waste, he lived and was a somebody.

All day Sunday he looked down upon the fishermen hurrying up the canyon, little dots in a long strung- out line like ants carrying food. All day yesterday he watched them, scattered around in the valley, run- ning here and there and everywhere, some going and some coming. It was just as if somebody had up- turned an ant's nest.

ARGUING WITH HIMSELF.

"For twenty years I've watched them come up this valley to fish at the opening season," he mused. "Thousands have come and gone in those twenty long years. But never did so many come as now. The can- yon's black. How thick the human ants are getting in California."

And what the hermit saw at the mouth of the San Gabriel could have been seen in every other can- yon in Southern California where there are streams and trout. There never was such an opening as yes- terday. Never so many fishermen, never so perfect a day for an open- ing, never water so tranquil and clear, never so many trout.

They say 2000 fisherman threw lines into the San Gabriel and that old river was so full of trout that they were running out of the can- yon's mouth. The first limit to get back to this city was caught under the Pacific Electric bridge a mile down in the valley from the mouth.

ALL READY.

Saturday night 3000 fishermen were camped on the shores of the Little Bear. The camp fires were so close together the shore looked as if it had a string of electric beads run- ning around it. Around the creeks that led into it there was a fisherman every twenty feet.

1500 anglers took the hard, rough desert road around by Victorville and reached the Big Bear. Harold Holt, a Redlands' boy, who motor- cycled down from the Big Bear Sun- day night, counted 203 machines.

The Sespe and the Ventura to the north and all of the little streams nearer here have the same story to tell of the wild rush after trout. Along the Malibu alone were the streams lonely and deserted. The barred locks on the gates to the Rindge estate turned them back. A few fishermen even intruded into that forbidden region.

PLENTY OF FISH.

The best part about the opening day was that there were trout to catch. Usually the waters are tur- bulent and muddy and rushing so fast that they whip the lines onto the bank, or else the trout have just had breakfast and refuse to eat. Sometimes it has even rained. At other times there were few trout. All that was largely because the sea- son opened the first of April.

This postponing of the opening to May 1 worked like a charm. All the streams are clear and running quiet- ly. The Fish and Game Commission has stocked the streams well. The trout themselves have had time to grow into real fish and no longer re- semble minnows.

James Patterson caught fifty fish in the San Gabriel and was at Dyas store by 10:30 a.m. Dr. Kingsbury brought two fish back from the Malibu to Cline-Cline's that measured twenty-seven inches and twenty inches, respectively. F. W. Thacher had three limits of fifteen-inch beauties down from the Big Bear by noon. There was nothing small nor scarce about the trout of yes- terday.

The fishing on the Little Bear was spoiled more or less by the large number of fishermen and the day was saddened by the unfortunate death of four sportsmen.

Across the Big Bear a north wind was blowing and chopping the lake into whitecaps. Some of them ran as high as a table. But all winter the Big Bear has been slopping over the dam and in the creek just below was paradise and more for 1500 fish-

WEEGHMAN IS STANDING PAT.

Holds Twenty-five Players on Cub Team.

Joe Tinker Among List of Lucky Ball Men.

No-limit Agreement to Hold, Says Big Boss.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—President Weegh- man forwarded to President Tener of the National League today a list of twenty-five players eligible to compete as Cubs during the coming season. This was done in face of the opinion of Garry Herrmann and Secretary Heydler that Tinker's team will be allowed to carry only twenty- one men at a time. In the list tele- graphed to President Tener was the name of Joe Tinker.

NOT QUITE SURE.

President Weeghman was not en- tirely sure of his grounds until he had read the interview with Presi- dent B. B. Johnson of the American League. He then decided to take the bull by the horns, which, in this case, is represented by seven Nation- al League owners. The boss of the bruins first sent down the names of twenty-four players, but later in the day he added the name of Tinker.

"I think I am absolutely right in the contention that we can carry as many players as we please," said Weeghman, after dispatching the second telegram to Tener. "The 'no limit' rule for us was embodied in the agreement made at Cincinnati and it was recognized that we had to take care of two clubs. The same applied to the St. Louis Browns, and I notice that Mr. Johnson said that there would be no interference on that score with Mr. Ball. If the rule works for one it works for two.

NO ADVANTAGE.

"I do not figure that we are tak- ing any unfair advantage of any other club by carrying more than twenty-one players, as an unusual situation has confronted us here in Chicago. I voted to extend the time limit on the rule for the other owners, but this seems as if it has not carried."

From the National League offices in New York came the statement from Heydler that at no time dur- ing the season can the Chicago Club carry more than twenty-one players on its eligible list, and vice versa.

Hermann, in an interview at Cin- cinnati, agrees with Heydler as to the twenty-one players, and also as to the nonactive list, but he does not mention the ten-day clause.

LAWYERS TO PLAY SAN DIEGO HIGH.

The U.S.C. College of Law base- ball team is to play the fast San Diego High School nine Saturday. Pat Millikan is not going to take the regular varsity south, but is go- ing to use the "Million dollar in- field."

This "million-dollar" infield is the one that played against the Berkeley freshmen when the regulars failed to show up. Harry Hirsh will be stationed at first base. Pat Millikan, himself, will cover second. Clay Holloway will be shortstop, and "Shorty" Miller, third base.

Tracy will probably do the pitch- ing. Tracy is an old San Diego boy, but was never considered a wonder in his home town. Frank Mallette, another old San Diego boy, will play in the outfield.

San Diego High School has a fast baseball nine. It defeated Los An- geles High School 6 to 1 last Satur- day. Many think that it will win the championship.

The Lawyers have been loafing on the job lately and have only been on the diamond a couple of days a week. They will have to hustle to play up to their past reputation.

CHAMPION JERSEY MILKER IS DEAD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRANKLIN (Pa.) May 1.—"Pass- port," champion Jersey milker of the United States, owned by Former Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, is dead here. Her record was 19,694.8 pounds of milk a year.

SOFT PEDAL, PLEASE.

Wishing to prove beyond all doubt that it is a big league institu- tion, the Los Angeles Junior Col- lege has appointed an honest-to- goodness yell leader. He is known as "Doc" Goldberg and has already composed several unpronounceable combinations.

LEONARD AN EASY WINNER.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—Benny Leonard, New York's lightweight, made a chopping block out of Charley (Kid) Thomas of this city in their six-round fight at the Olympic A.A. tonight. Thomas was hopelessly outclassed by the New York marvel. Leonard showered him with volleys of rights and lefts with seldom a return and had Thomas bleeding from the second round on.

NORTHERN CREW MAY TAKE TRIP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE, May 1.—There is a strong and persistent rumor to the effect that the University of Wash- ington crew will journey across the continent and enter the Poughkeepsie intercollegiate regatta. It has been stated time and time again that the local eight would not be allowed to make the trip, but persistent reports have it that something different is bound to happen. The Washington crew should make a splendid show- ing in the big eastern event.

NEW ACT GOES ON, MAKING HIT.

A lively new show went on at Levy's Cafe last night. The large company headed by Ellen Godsey and Lou Davis have prepared sev- eral new acts that went with a dash that characterizes all the work of this new aggregation of talent.

Los Espanosos repeat their pop- ular Spanish number of last week but the girls are seen in new dances, new costumes and new songs.

Here's Hoping.

Stanford Students to Vote on Rugby Proposition.

American Adherents Claim They will Finally Win.

Faculty and President Seem to Favor Present Game.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 30.—Wednesday will probably de- cide the fate of Rugby football, at which time Stanford students will vote on the question of changing to the American game. President Wil- bur has the final decision in the matter, and, although he is in favor of Rugby, he is expected to ratify the choice of the student body.

BOTH SIDES.

American adherents firmly be- lieve that there will be a big game with California next fall, but Rugby supporters are equally confident that the balloting will retain the present sport by a big margin. Prominent alumni will present their views at an assembly held on Tuesday, in- cluding L. W. Cutler, president of the Alumni Association; J. F. Lana- gan, R. W. Barrett and C. M. Brad- ley, while the students will also be given a chance to express an opin- ion.

There is no doubt but that a large vote will be cast in favor of the old game in order to return to the re- lations with California, which were broken off a year ago, and which have now been resumed in every sport except football. The game with Santa Clara last fall, although a scrappy contest, by no means

CARDS HOPE TO CONQUER EAST.

Track and Crew Heroes Train for Summer Trip.

Skin Wilson Expected to Run the Race of His Life.

Westerners Slated to Put up Terrific Showing.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 29.—Stanford's invasion of the East in track and crew this summer will cause quite a stir in athletic circles if the Cardinal teams show their expected strength. Seven thousand dollars is now being raised by the students and alumni to pay the expenses of the trip.

Capt. Chick Orme of the eight is back in the boat after a breakdown following the disastrous Washington race, and is confident that his crew will make an even better showing at the Poughkeepsie regatta than last year, when they finished a close second to Cornell. There is good reason for this prediction, with six veterans back, and a gradual improvement in form since the beginning of the season.

ON THE TRACK.

On the cinder path the Farm school men expect to be no less successful, although probably not more than ten men will be taken. The announcement that freshmen will be eligible to compete in the I.C.A.A.A.A. meet at Cambridge and the dual clash with the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, will mean that Jud House of Riverside, who made twenty-three points in the freshman meet at California, will probably be among the chosen ones. This will give Stanford the most remarkable trio of hurdlers that ever competed for one team, Capt. Fez Murray, Johnny Norton and House. The three hold jointly the Pacific Coast record of :24 flat in the low hurdles, while Murray has tied the world's record of :15 flat in the high sticks. Murray and House are also sprinters of ability.

With three stars of this caliber the Cardinal should be able to grab a few points in the hurdles at least.

OLD SKIN WILSON.

Skin Wilson has never run his best mile yet, according to experts, and he will have a chance to better his time of 4:20 1-5. Aupperle, captain-elect, will undoubtedly show to advantage in either the mile, where he runs close behind Wilson, or in the half-mile. Schnell, winner of the half in the California meet, is also a possibility in this event. Of course Reg Caughey will be there, and if he can heave the shot forty-seven feet, as in the past, he will worry some of the eastern phenoms, few of whom have approached this distance. Bill Sisson, in the broad jump, is another man who is expected to place, as he seems to be able to beat twenty-three feet almost any old time.

Wright Lynn can step around the quarter mile in 50 flat, a fact that will probably give him free transportation eastward, and Harry Lachmund is a leading candidate in the high jump, which he negotiates at over six feet. Chapman's good record in the two-mile puts him among the more probable possibilities, while if a pole vaulter is taken Wilcox, the Long Beach freshman, seems to have the best chance.

Those eastern stars will have to step some to beat this bunch.

A pair of handball champions.

Joe Lacey, titled handballist of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, giving his son, Joe Lacey, Jr., some instructions in the game. The youngster is an ardent fan already and promises soon to rival his dad in the handball line. Inside of a year or so, according to Lacey, Sr., the boy will be able to handle Charlie Ruggles and such with ease. This will save the champion a needless amount of exertion and will be good exercise for the boy.

Stepping Out.

OXY BALL TEAM TO TOUR SOUTH

New Mexico and Arizona to be Taken in by Tigers.

Eight Games Scheduled for Two Weeks' Journey.

Ten Straight Wins Prove Class of Oxy Aggregation.

Having won so many baseball games that they couldn't be counted on the fingers of several hands, the Occidental Tigers feel called upon to take a trip. This is a sad feeling for the Tigers to have, as there is no trip scheduled for this season. However, Coach Orendorff has managed to save the day by arranging a journey through Arizona and New Mexico for his battling underlings.

The Oxy squad will leave immediately after the close of school and will spend a few weeks cleaning up the champions of our sister States. All of the men have agreed to keep in practice until the time for the journey. Most of them are so excited over the prospects that they are working their heads off already.

BELOW PAR.

At the first of the year Occidental baseball stock was way below par and falling rapidly. Games were lost on all sides, while a win was greeted with shouts of acclaim. Montijo, the Mexican sensation, looked like nothing as a pitcher and the rest of the team fell along in the same lines. The graduate manager offered up thanks that he hadn't landed a trip for his bunch, as they would be shot on sight anywhere out of Eagle Rock Valley.

When the conference games began to burst into view the Oxy Tigers took a new and firm grip on themselves and staged a come-back. Warren and Montijo cut loose with some awful speed, and showed more class than was really needed to win local ball games. The pitching staff enjoyed such a decided change that the other departments couldn't help doing likewise. Soon Capt. McIntosh's squad was sailing along under full steam with the "favorite of the league" sign nailed to the mast.

GETTING BETTER.

Ten straight wins came home to the Tigers in the short space of only a couple of weeks, and a yell was let out for a trip.

Orendorff seemed to have an idea that his bunch was not so bad all the time, for he announced that he already had a trip tucked up his sleeve. And he then sprang the New Mexico-Arizona proposition.

Eight games have been mapped out in the two adjoining States. Some of them are very bush league affairs, but ball games nevertheless. A few are with high-class college and all-star outfits, and should give the Oxy champs real competition.

MANUAL TO SCRAP CLIFFMEN'S TEAM.

L. A. High and Manual Arts will look in mortal combat on the baseball diamond this afternoon. Several of L. A.'s most consistent slammers are on the hospital list and Coach Clendenin's face wears a sorry expression.

Out at Manual the Artisans are looking for a much sought revenge. Ole Doc Cook has announced that he will wear his famous green tie that is said to be a sure jinx for Cliffdwellers. Pungo Funk of the Hilltoppers says that he will hunt up Cook before the game and remove the offending neckgear.

PAPA SIGNED BY VANCOUVER CLUB.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) May 1.—Manager Brown of Vancouver Northwestern League baseball club today signed Jules Papa, an outfielder, and announced that Altman, who was obtained Saturday, would not be with the Vancouver team when it leaves Spokane. Follman will be changed from right field to behind the bat.

WILLIAMS SENT BACK TO SPOKANE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI (O.) May 1.—Outfielder Williams was sent back to the Spokane (Wash.) club today by the Cincinnati Nationals. Williams was released in order to bring the club down to its allowed quota of twenty-one men.

Williams was obtained from Spokane under an optional agreement.

The Fallacy of Paraffine Ba

Eastern oil manufacturers have long extolled the superior virtues of paraffine-base motor oils. Of course! Paraffine-base crudes were nearest home and freight costs lower.

But Pacific Coast motorists have proved for themselves that Zerolene, an oil made from selected California crude—asphalt-base, gave best results.

Now their practical experience is supported by the testimony of international experts.

Lieut. Bryan, a U.S. government expert, stated before the American Society of Naval Engineers, at Washington, D. C.: "Oils made from the asphalt-base crudes have shown themselves better adapted to motor cylinders, as far as their carbon forming proclivities are concerned than are paraffine-base Pennsylvania oils."

Zerolene is the oil used by the majority of Pacific Coast motorists. Highest competitive awards, San Francisco and San Diego Expositions.

Next time you empty your crankcase refill with Zerolene.

How to find your sensible cigarette

The cigarette that you'll stick to when you find it must "make good" to you in three different ways.

It must delight your taste.

It must be cool and friendly to your throat and tongue.

It must leave you feeling as fit as a fiddle at the end of a hard-smoking day.

On the last two points we match Fatima against any cigarette in the world—it can't be beaten. You can prove that by these two tests.

But when it comes to taste, that's up to you.

There's no telling—until you try them—whether Fatimas will just suit your taste or not.

They are the biggest selling cigarette in the world costing over 5c. If so many thousands of men prefer Fatima's taste, it's pretty sure that you will, too.

Try them?

And if you do like their taste as well as most men, you'll agree that Fatimas are the most SENSIBLE cigarette you can buy.

BEEBE ELECTED, TROJAN LEADER.

GREAT MIDDLE DISTANCE RUNNER GETTING BETTER.

Will Enter A.A.U. Championships in Newark and is Expected to Win Title—Sprinting Adds Class to Runner's Form — Clarence Demonstrates His Ability.

Clarence Beebe will be captain of the 1917 U.S.C. track varsity. At a meeting held in the training quarters at Bovard Field the members of this year's squad cast a unanimous ballot for him.

Beebe, who is a student at the dentistry college, was ineligible this year to compete for U.S.C. He transferred from California after spending his freshman year in the northern university.

GREAT RUNNER.

Beebe is the greatest middle-distance runner that Southern California has produced with the exception of Mort Bonnett. The way Beebe is going now, he stands to surpass even the record of the famous Cardinal runner.

In the A.A.U. meet Beebe defeated Ray Adkinson and set up a new Southern California record in the half mile. His time was 1m. 56 4-5s. Beebe can also run a fast quarter mile, stepping around 50 seconds every time he starts. In the special meet he ran a 220 on the picked relay team and gained on his man. He was the man who started the spurt that beat Manual Arts.

Before entering California Beebe ran for Anaheim High School. Every year he cleaned up the south in the half and mile. At Stanford Berry of Redlands won the mile from him and set up a new interscholastic record. That was Beebe's last year in high school.

BAD EFFECT.

This defeat had a bad effect on him and for a time many believed that he was beginning to slip. At California last season he did not show his prep brilliance. But the change to Southern California made him better than ever.

Coach Cromwell gives the 440-yard dashes that Beebe ran this year credit for the remarkable change in him. Sprinting in these gave him speed. That was just what his remarkable stride and stamina needed.

Beebe is going back to the A.A.U. championships in Newark this summer. It would not surprise those who have been watching him lately if he defeated Dave Caldwell and won the title.

PASADENA HIGH MAY SEND FOUR CINDER STARS EAST.

THE pick of Southern California's wonderful high school track athletes will probably be seen in action once more this season, unfortunately not in Southern California. In addition to the six-man team which Manual Arts High School proposes to send back to Chicago, four men will in all probability be sent from Pasadena High. The Crown City rooters claim that their four men would have a fine chance to win the national prep title.

And Pasadena wouldn't be so far off, at that. Paddock, the sensational sprinter who cleaned up everything in the State in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard, would be able to roll up a bunch of points for his school. "Tite" Moore, Southern California and State champion in the high jump, has done about as good as the best of the prep jumpers this year.

The other two lucky lads to be picked for the trip are Cooper for the mile and Fuller for the high hurdles. Cooper's mark of 4m. 39⅘s. on the slow Y.M.C.A. track proves that he is some miler and worthy of a chance at the best of them in the national meet. Out at Pasadena they figure that Fuller has had to meet the toughest hurdler in the country in Lamport, and should it happen that the Tollers are not able to make the trip East they figure that Fuller should pull down five points in the high hurdles.

A campaign has been started out at the school, and those backing the project are certain that Pasadena will be represented when the championship meet rolls around.

filled the place of the big game with the Blue and Gold, and this is one of the chief reasons for the increasing sentiment for American. Stanford also draws a great many men from prep schools where the old game is played, and these will naturally vote for the sport they are used to.

FOR RUGBY.

On the other hand there is a very decided sentiment against giving in to the Blue and Gold after having made such a determined stand for a year. To abandon the Stanford system after it has proved successful is unthinkable in the minds of the Rugby men and the faculty.

However, it is claimed that the coaching evils which form the objectionable part of the American game have been largely eliminated, and that the increase in finances would more than make up any expense incurred in this line. Significant evidences of the changing opinion of the students is shown by the fact that two American teams are practicing daily on the Rugby turf, while in a college debate on the question the decision was given against Rugby.

SCHWARTZ ENTERS FOUR-ROUND GAME.

Heinie Schwartz, who has established quite a reputation as a L.A. A.C. boxer, has entered the four-round game. Schwartz will make his first public appearance at Venice some time in the very near future. He will be matched with the best of the four-round exponents, and may not make a terrific splash in his initial go. Schwartz is speedy and has lots of real boxing class.

SPEED MONSTERS FOR BIG EVEN

Eighteen Nominations Already Received by Officials.

Several More Expected Before Lists Finally Close.

Masked Marvel Car is Entered by Ohio Enthusiast.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

INDIANAPOLIS, May 1.—When the entries for the International Sweepstakes race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30, closed at midnight tonight eighteen nominations had been received. This number constituted the unofficial list as fully twenty-two speed creations are expected to face the starter May 30. The rules of the speedway officials is that all entries bearing the date of May 1 on the envelope shall be counted as on time and it is known that several prospective starters have taken advantage of this ruling.

MASKED MARVEL.

A late entry received today comes from Cleveland as a "mystery car," the owner, who is also the driver, requested the speedway officials to withhold his name and the make of his car until the last minute. He is said to be a prominent business man in the Ohio city and to have spent a small fortune perfecting his car.

The entry of Dario Resta was also received today, his nomination calling for a Peugeot, the same car with which he won most of the automobile classics of the country last year, and in which he was nipped out of a victory by the daring De Palma in last year's 500-mile race in the last twenty-five miles.

DISAPPOINTED.

Race fans were keenly disappointed in not seeing the name of De Palma in the list of starters for this year's race, but it is practically a certainty that the famous Italian pilot will be at the wheel of a Mercedes. It is believed by the speedway officials that his entry was mailed today. C. T. Duchesneau has become inoculated with the speed germ and has entered a special car, sending in his check along with the entry blank, which describes the new speed wonder which hme has had constructed.

The car is called The Duchesneau, because that gentleman built it himself. It is a four-cylinder car and weighs about 1900 pounds. The main point of interest in this car is that it has the smallest piston displacement of any car ever entered in a speedway classic. With a bore stroke of 3 3-4x5½ the car has a piston displacement of 242 cubic inches. This is thirty-two inches less than the smallest motor in the race last year. The car has a gear ratio of 3 1-5 to 1 and is said to be able to do better than ninety miles per hour.

The owner and builder will drive the car himself and he is expected to arrive in the city soon to begin practice.

Officials of the Southern California Interscholastic Athletic Association have fixed the date of that event as the evening of May 13. No plunge has been decided on as the moguls are holding off until they receive an attractive guarantee.

The State championship prep swimming meet will probably come off on Saturday, May 20, but has not been decided whether to make this a dual event between the northern and southern champions or allow all the athletes to enter. Berkeley High has captured the title of the northern division.

JOE CORBETT GETS THE AX.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Joe Corbett, veteran pitcher and brother of James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world, was released today from the San Francisco team of the Pacific Coast Baseball League. The release is made to bring the team to the eighteen-man limit, according to the announcement by Manager Harry Wolverton, but Corbett's retirement had been anticipated since his unsuccessful attempts to "come back" during the present season.

Corbett entered professional baseball from St. Mary's College, Oakland. In 1897 and 1898 he was pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles and in the latter year won for that team the Temple cup, the equivalent to the present world's championship pennant. In 1903 he pitched for Los Angeles and in 1904 for the St. Louis Nationals. Since then he has pitched intermittently for various teams.

BOWLING NOTES.

At a meeting held at the Majestic alleys, the first Baltimore Duck-pin Bowling League organized in the city was duly launched, with the following officers at the helm: Chairman, M. W. Bishop; treasurer, E. R. Adams; secretary, Alfred Mathetnie. The American Bowling Congress rules were adopted. Play commences Wednesday, May 3.

The schedule for the first week is as follows: Wednesday, L. Fay, White and Rose vs. Schubert, Pike and Rascher; Thursday, Young, C. Fay and Mount vs. Cox, Brimhall and Carr; Friday, Adams, Bishop and Reynolds vs. Pfaltz, Angle and Stromwell.

The new regulation duck-pin that has received the sanction of the American Bowling Congress has become very popular, and is now used by the eastern cracks in their league games. The small ball game requires considerable skill to place the 4 1/2-inch sphere in the "pocket."

For some unknown reason, Los Angeles has adopted duck-pins as a summer game. One hundred and fifteen is considered a good score.

The game is played with 4 1/4-inch ball. Each player is allowed two balls to the frame.

The rules of the new league required the consent of two-thirds of the members of teams scheduled to bowl to secure a postponement. The Prize Committee announces a very attractive prize list.

The first annual tournament of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Bowling League has passed into history. To the Royal Shoe Company falls the honor of winning the initial tournament and the Mackenzie trophy, which remains in their possession till won by some team in the second tournament.

Manager W. E. Brown is so elated over winning the trophy that he has it on display in his store window. J. Ward won the high individual average prize and Frank Gleeson the high game prize. The E. W. Reynolds Company won the high single team game prize with 606. Most all of the members of the M. & M. have entered the Majestic alleys' summer tenpin league. The complete standings follow:

Bees are Here.

SALT LAKE BOSS EXPLAINS SLUMP.

BLAMES COLD WEATHER FOR POOR SHOWING OF TEAM.

Admits Later on, However, that the Pitching Staff may be Responsible for Some of Trouble. Long Tom Hughes to be Used in Liberal Doses Against Tigers.

Cliff Blankenship, the biff-bang leader of the Bees, arrived in this city yesterday, followed by all the other Salt Lake players. Blankenship wore the sweetest smile imaginable and professed to be at peace with the world in spite of the fact that his club is resting benignly in fifth place.

Blankenship has faith in his club. He believes that it is the best in the league. At least he said that yesterday. The lowly position in the Pacific Coast League standings is attributed by him to a pesky start.

WEATHER BLAMED.

Cold weather is blamed for most of the mischief. The Bees opened on their home field and played two series there in the cold. One week played havoc with the Angels and Blank's Bees had just come from a warm spring training camp, too.

The Salt Lake manager when cornered admitted that his pitching staff needed strengthening and then with a wan smile pointed out that he was doing that very thing. Yesterday Doogan, late of the Reds, blew into this city and joined the Bees. If Blank has his way, Carroll Brown, Yankee, will drop in from New York in a couple of days. Jack Warhop, a former Yankee twirler, is already much on the job.

A WARM SPOT.

Long Tom Hughes at present holds a warm spot in the heart of the Bee boss. Long Tom has been going good in cold or hot weather and his now white locks will be familiar sights at Washington Park this week. The Tigers are to be given Long Tom Hughes in liberal doses.

The series with the Tigers does not open until tomorrow. That is because "Pa" Patterson and his Bengals could not get down from Portland in time to play.

The Bees will work out at Washington Park around noon today. They loafed all yesterday. Many of them rolled around in the sand and thawed out. All of them were watching the ice skating in the evening and keeping cool. Blankenship thinks these two days in warm and summery weather is just what his men needed. In the words of the politician, he's glad he's here.

COVELESKIE WINS IN RAINY GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT, May 1.—Stanley Coveleskie pitched Cleveland to a 2-to-0 victory over Detroit in a rain-swept game here today. The game was called while the sixth inning was being played and the score reverted to the end of the fifth. Graney's single, a pass to Turner and Smith's double in the first inning scored Cleveland's runs.

WASHINGTON JUMPS INTO FIRST PLACE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Washington went into the lead in the American League pennant race today by defeating Boston 5 to 3, while Detroit and New York were losing to Cleveland and Philadelphia, respectively. Ruth was unsteady and passed nine men. Boston hit Harper hard, but failed to make the hits count except in one inning. In the eighth, with the score 3 to 2 against Washington and one out, Ruth passed Rondeau, Williams and Morgan. Leonard appeared and Henry greeted him with a two-base hit which cleared the bases.

MITCHELL MASTERS PIRATE SITUATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI (O.) May 1.—Mitchell was master of the situation at all times here today, shutting out Pittsburgh 3 to 0. Neale tripled in the first inning and scored on a sacrifice fly. No more runs were made until the sixth, when Smith's error allowed Killifer to reach first, and he scored on Chase's double. Chase then scored on Griffith's single.

BROOKLYN TAKES ONE FROM GIANTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—Brooklyn again defeated New York here today, the visitors winning easily 8 to 5. Stengel placed Brooklyn in the lead in the third inning with a home run, coming with two on the bases, while Palmero also was hit hard in the fifth inning.

The veteran left-hander, Nap Rucker, started his first game of the season for Brooklyn, and was hit freely, retiring in favor of Coombs in the fourth inning. It was the eighth consecutive defeat for New York.

CATCHES BIG FISH IN BARE HANDS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEWPORT BEACH, May 1.—When the sporting contingent of this city returns from the mountains and hills whither they have journeyed in quest of the festive trout, Mrs. Glendora B. Terry will have a fish story to tell her neighbors that will rival their biggest one. Fishing on the wharf at Balboa for some time with little or no luck, Mrs. Terry noticed that a school of big fish were driving the bait close to the shore. Accordingly, she shifted her position and watched the little fish hurrying out of the path of the big school of barracuda that were driving them shoreward. At length when pursuers and pursued reached the breakers one big barracuda became stranded in the shallow water and before he could escape the ardent fisherwoman waded out into the surf and caught the big fish in her hands and carried it safely to shore. The barracuda measured over three feet in length and weighed eight pounds.

VENICE NINE IS A WINNER AGAIN.

Venice High School's baseball nine won its sixth straight victory yesterday afternoon, rambling away from the Redondo High team by a score of 9 to 1.

Heaver Schultz of the winners allowed only three hits and fanned twelve men. He also added to the general good time by whanging out a home run and a three-bagger. Coach Wiseman believes his team has a fine chance to win the pennant in their division, as this gives them a three-game margin.

BEAVERS HOPE TO MAKES A SHOWING.

THINK TEAM HAS A CHANCE TO WALLOP ANGELS.

First Appearance of Frank Chance at the Head of a Coast League Team is Hailed with Great Delight—Johnny Lush may Start Opening Game of Series.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 1.—Frank Chance tomorrow makes his initial bow to the Portland public and it looks as though he will carry off the series. Los Angele sis a favorite in the pennant race. Portland is in the cellar.

On form Portland will not be able to make much of a showing against the Angels, but with the pitchers rounding into form and the team having taken a general brace in the last two games, there may be a surprise in store for Chance and his crew.

That the Portland team is not as powerful a machine as it will be a little later is a fact recognized by every Portland fan. In addition to the present pitching staff, getting better, Bill Rodgers will either be here or some new infielder will be secured to play short, and there will be some semblance of team work developed in contrast to some of the work shown here against the Bees and Tigers.

The showing of Houck and Noyes with Sothoron also entitled to mention, was more than pleasing to McCredie, who had been sorely handicapped by the failure of Noyes, Higginbotham and Harstad to show winning form. Lush is rounding into shape and is scheduled to start the game tomorrow.

Tomorrow's game may start a little late as Los Angeles is making the long jump from the south and won't arrive in Portland until a short time before the game is scheduled to start.

The Women's Swimming Club of Indianapolis and the National Women's Life Saving League of New York may meet in a dual swimming carnival.

Beat It as One.

If those Lou hyphen Tellegens aren't the most sympathetic pair! Just because Geraldine Farrar got a sore throat and couldn't sing in Boston the other night, Mr. Lou-Tellegen, her husband, also became ill and failed to show up the other night for his performance of the "King of Nowhere."

Comes Up Smiling.

"Smiling" Billy Mason, who is playing the lead in his own company, and Peggy Coudray, appearing opposite him, were both injured a few days ago at Universal City in a leap from a brick wall while the photoplay, "Baseball Billy," was being filmed.

Mason landed on a stone, which injured his heel, but Miss Coudray was less fortunate, as she is on crutches nursing a torn ligament in her ankle. The director is able to go on with his work, but his ingenue is laid up for repairs.

Misplaced Key.

"Why don't you write a letter home?" is the query of the old song. But dash-darn it, what's the use if mother can't read it? That's the predicament in which Gilbert Warrenton's mother finds herself, with seven letters from son Gilbert on her hands. Reason? Before the dutiful Warrenton, cameraman for the Los Angeles Times-Universal Weekly, left for Mexico, he arranged a cipher code for with his mother. But the poor lady has mislaid her copy; so she doesn't know whether three dashes and a dot mean her son has sighted Villa, or whether it means he's being eaten alive with fleas.

It's Just Possible.

Carter de Haven declares he has discovered a fitting come-back to the ukulele. He has purchased a saxaphone and puts in his spare time in his dressing-room emulating the famous Blackie Daw of the Wallingford stories. He says the saxaphone, as he plays it, really is enabling him to revenge himself on the actors in adjoining dressing-rooms who play thier plaintive Hawaiian instrument.

Must Learn New Trade.

Fay Tincher of the Fine Arts Studio, famous for her stenographer characterizations on the screen, has to learn a new trade. She is to be featured in a new set of comedies, in which she will appear as a salesgirl. Eddie Dillon will direct, and she will be supported by Max Davidson, who played the same part in the Reliance series of "Busy Izzy" pictures. Eddie Dillon and Jack Cosgrove will also appear in the new series.

Jumps His Chrysalis.

Up to a few short weeks ago Jerry Morton was one of Hollywood's most efficient jitney bus drivers. Courtesy, speed and safe conduct were his by-words, and to one of the many seekers after fame whom he carried to Universal City realized that behind an exterior which cried to the world: "Let's go, room for two more!" there lurked a mind filled with the highest ambitions. Jerry wanted to be an actor—though not a poor player that struts and frets his time upon the stage, and is not heard at all, not the kind that he jitneyed to work every day, but an artist like Booth. The other day Raymond Wells issued a call for 1000 additional men to appear in "Julius Caesar."

Jerry's jitney bus lies now in the garage. During the day he helps the property department at the Beachwood natural theater, just to be in the atmosphere. At night he takes his newly-bought cane and sport shirt and parades the Rialto. He has calmed but one night, and that was when Frank Keenan, finding him idle, sent him in search of the best acoustic properties money could buy, charged to the Hollywood Board of Trade.

Wants to Gather Moss.

There have been many inquiries as to why Charlie Ruggles doesn't play the star role in "Rolling Stones," which is to follow "The Rink" at the Morosco Theater shortly. Ruggles starred on Broadway in the part for a year. The reason is this: Ruggles is desperately busy with a large part in the forthcoming production of "Canary Cottage" and will have his hands full. He does manage, however, to spare a few moments now and then to dash over to the Morosco and assist in rehearsing the company.

Will Try in "Cottage."

The Morin sisters, famous vaudeville dancers, have been engaged for "Canary Cottage."

Fishermen Welcome

ermen. The pools were black with trout. Just at the hour allowed for the opening of the season McConnors tossed his line into one of these and it flopped out with the first trout of the season.

PARADISE.

Few fishermen got back yesterday and those who did returned late at night. Most of them will come trailing in footsore today. Few of the streams are so close that the trip can be made all in one day.

The day was livened yesterday by two wild automobile rides down from the Big Bear. Louis Nikrent brought the first fish down in Cactus Kate. It was just 12:05 in the afternoon when he stopped in front of Dyas store. He made the wild trip in four hours and thirty minutes. But for a speed cop in Pomona it would have been much less.

STILL FASTER.

This was followed by a still wilder ride. Ted Beaudet in the Cadillac Conqueror rolled down in a fraction less than four hours, claiming records for the course all along the line. It was just 1:17 p.m., when he stopped in front of Tufts-Lyon.

Taking it all and all, yesterday was some opening.

THOSE PRESENT.

Among those who reported fishermen's luck and the limits were:

At Pine Knot Lodge, Big Bear—Bernal Dyas, Louis Nikrent, N. T. Powell, W. S. Wood, J. M. Bohanan, Hugh McDowell and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Lefferts, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burrage, Mont P. Chubb, Mrs. W. M. Merriam, Mrs. P. A. Rowe, A. S. (Duffy) Swartz, Walter Leeds, Fred W. Sewell and James L. Burley.

At Knight's Camp—T. J. Beaudet, E. T. McConnors, Fred Thatcher, J. H. Clayton, James J. Jeffries, Clarence Kolb, Mel Nordlinger, Dr. Moore, Si Myrick, Billy Cline, Mr. and Mrs. McGue, John Strosser, Joe Ingersoll, Charles Reed, Tom Nicholson, George Clarkson, W. H. Palmer, Don Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cathcart, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Monahan, Jack Lankershim, Mrs. C. N. Goodhue, Dr. George Holcomb, Will Gunnison, L. Holland, Charles Wagner, W. J. Hughes, William Algers, U. W. Hall.

At Follows Camp—Earnest Shipman, James Kirby, J. McKenzie.

On the San Gabriel—Al Swanson, E. E. Kirkby, Guy Z. Coira, J. E. Zhalborough, Harry Willows, Paul Blair, James Patterson, S. W. Aldridge.

On the Ventura River—Dr. W. W. Richardson, Dr. Clarence Moore, Dr. C. E. Smith.

At Henley's Camp on the Sespe—Sid Butler and Al Reed.

Up the Malibu—Dr. Kingsbury.

On Bear Creek on the Sturdevant Trail—T. P. Conley.

KAHLER SIGNS UP WITH TOLEDO CLUB.

George Kahler, former Portland and Cleveland pitcher, signed articles yesterday with the Toledo club of the American Association. Kahler will leave immediately to join his new team-mates. This young man has been playing semi-pro ball for the last several months, having refused to go to the Southern League.

EXTRA GOLF EVENT IN SOUTHERN MEET.

The annual supplementary event of the Southern California Golf Association will be staged Saturday on the course at Midwick. A large list of entires are already in sight and handsome prizes will be handed out. One prize will be given for the best score and four for the best handicap scores.

LADY SHOTS.

Mrs. Groat broke 134 of them out of 150 in the morning, with Mrs. Pfirrman second lady, total 113.

Fifty of them faced the traps in the morning, the places of the absentees from the Sunday list being filled by the newcomers. A far larger crowd is expected Tuesday when returned trout fishermen find that the stories of the fish crowding the streams of the Sierras are, like the story of the death of Mark Twain, considerably exaggerated.

As a slight indication of the sort of gents assembled Monday it may be noted that in the handicap, taking all sorts of distances, all of them more than sixteen yards, thirty out of thirty-seven entered broke 80 per cent. or more, and twenty-three of them broke 90 per cent., or better. Missing a bird with this gang of wolves at one's heels was as bad as missing the target in a thousand-yard match with the rifle at Camp Perry, and that was sudden death so far as prize money was concerned.

STILL MORE.

Tuesday there is again the 150-bird grind jack rabbit system, which means that one has as much chance as a jack rabbit to make a clean-up with the scattergun, and in the afternoon the grand 100-bird race for the silver Los Angeles handicap cup, which will go to some lucky dog with about 97 out of 100 shot at.

EDDIE BREWSTER GETS A CHANCE.

WILL BATTLE LOUIS REES AT VERNON TONIGHT.

New-comer has Polished off Every Opponent to Date in Rattling Style and has Yet to be Even Punched—Experience of Rees will Keep Brewster Busy.

The sensational Mr. E. Brewster will get a thorough tryout at Jack Doyle's this evening when he tackles Louis Rees, the toughest old bird of 'em all.

Brewster, who blew into town a few weeks ago, claiming to be a cousin of Mike Gibbons, has made a meteoric rise to fame, doing the same by licking three first-class battlers in a row at the Angeles A. C.

His first victim was the venerable but dangerous Mr. George Moss. Secondly, Lee Crooks, erstwhile amateur lightweight champion, was taken on and the referee had to stop the fight after Crooks had hit the floor about twenty times.

Last week they brought on Joe Lopez to try out Brewster and Joseph went the way of all the rest. Joe wasn't knocked out but was floored several times and Brewster won the decision by a wide margin.

Brewster is tall and fairly thin, very cool, fairly clever, and has a kick in his right hand that is a wonder. He brings his right over on all occasions and when it connects, it knocks 'em dead. His main defect is that he is a mark for a good left hand. Crooks discovered this fact but couldn't keep away from Eddie's thunderbolt right.

Rees is a crafty and hard-hitting lightweight who will give Brewster all the work he wants. If Brewster manages to lick Rees he will have "arrived" in every sense of the word.

The semi-windup of tonight's card will be staged by Mike Doll and Dick McManus, welterweights. Doll has twice beaten McManus, but the latter still believes he can come back. The first preliminary will start at 8:30 o'clock, with Tommy McFarland doing the refereeing. Women will be admitted. The preliminary programme:

John Brink vs. Freddie Barrett, 145 pounds; Billy Vaughn vs. Frank Garcia, 110 pounds; Perry Yantz vs. Billy Moore, 135 pounds, and Young Ketchell vs. Joe Nieto, 122 pounds.

GOLF A REGULAR SPORT UP NORTH

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE, May 1.—The faculty of the University of Washington has added the game of golf to the list of official sports for that institution. This pastime has been rapidly growing in popularity in that school and the women, as well as the men will take active part in the new scheduled sport. Regular credits will be awarded for golf in the department of physical culture.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR LAWN TENNIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—This will be the biggest year in the history of lawn tennis, according to announcements of the United States Lawn Tennis Association here today. There have been over 200 tournaments sanctioned and a quarter of them will be pulled off during the month of August.

Help Your Favorite School Increase Its Efficiency

With a Little Effort on the Part of Its Teachers, Pupils and Friends It Can Obtain Absolutely Free a $200 Pathescope Moving Picture Projecting Machine

Volunteer Your Assistance Now

At last the educational institutions of Los Angeles and Southern California are to have the opportunity of equipping themselves with the motion picture projecting machine and commencing with the ensuing year our school curriculums will contain such timely subjects as visualized history; visualized geography; visualized English; etc.

Although this new medium of expression has for some time past been indorsed by the foremost educators of our country as an indispensable adjunct to the instructor, it has remained for THE TIMES, which has always been a consistent advocate of education, in conjunction with the educators and parent-teachers of Southern California to inaugurate a campaign that will place the cinematograph within the schoolroom of every institution of learning in this part of the State.

In preparing this campaign of Visualized Education, THE TIMES enlisted the support of Pathe Freres, the only manufacturers of projecting machines especially adaptable for schoolroom purposes.

The Pathescope is so simple in construction and manipulation that any student can readily learn to operate it. Weighing but 30 pounds it can be easily conveyed from one room to another and placed at the disposal of all the departments. Thus enabling one machine to serve the needs of the entire school.

Only Acetate of Cellulose; non-inflammable film can be used in the Pathescope, and because of this all fire hazard is eliminated. At present this machine is in daily use in the Public Schools of New York City; Buffalo; Washington, D. C.; Louisville, Ky.; St. Louis, Mo.; Newark, N. J., and many others.

Not alone the children, but the parents are to be directly benefited by the installation of the Pathescope in the various schools. The buildings will become more than ever civic centers where old and young alike can congregate and enjoy the entertainment of the films and other student body activities.

Most of interest at the present time is just how each school in Southern California is going to secure one of these Pathescopes. In Sunday's and yesterday's issues of The Times announcement was made that this paper was to give away an unlimited number of the highest class and most practical motion picture machines ever designed for use in public schools, as prizes. This we are able to do through the co-operation of the educators and parent-teachers in this section of the State.

Any school in Southern California can obtain a Pathescope by merely securing one hundred new paid-in-advance subscriptions to The Times at the regular subscription rates. No subscription for a longer period than six months will be accepted in this campaign.

To secure these subscriptions organization and co-operation must be the slogan. With every member of the various faculties and parent-teacher associations working in harmony, and with a common purpose in view, there is no reason why the poorest and smallest of school districts can not possess a Pathescope before the commencement of the ensuing school year.

Rules and Regulations —How to Enter

Send name of the school or the name of the Parent-Teacher Association which is to be nominated as a participant to the Visual Educational Campaign Manager.

A nomination blank appears below which can be used for this purpose.

There are no obligations attached to entering this campaign, and it costs absolutely nothing to try.

After credit has been given for subscriptions, they cannot be transferred from one school or association to another.

Any questions or controversies that may arise are to be settled by the Campaign Manager, and his decision will be final and conclusive.

The campaign opens Monday, May 1st, 1916.

The closing date will be announced later.

All entrants are assured that they will have ample time in which to obtain a Pathescope provided an effort is made to do so.

The Pathescopes will be delivered at Los Angeles, California, immediately after the required 100 new six months' paid-in-advance subscriptions have been procured by successful participants.

All subscriptions must be paid in cash, and credit will be issued only on new subscriptions.

No agreements or promises, either written or verbal, made by solicitors, other than those published in The Times will be recognized.

All entries will be accepted subject to the foregoing conditions.

Plan Your Campaign

The principals and leaders of the different associations should immediately take the initiative in the organization of the campaign in their respective districts. Let every parent and teacher resolve to assist in securing these subscriptions. With such a resolution backed by so lofty a motive, there is little doubt as to the outcome of this campaign.

Below will be found a blank for entering the name of your school in this Visual Educational Campaign. Make sure that your interests are represented by filling out the same and mailing it to The Times. Don't wait for your neighbor to make this entry. The interest or disinterest you manifest is bound to react for good or bad in the securing of one of these machines for your school.

Parent-teacher associations and faculties should get together at once and appoint committees to devise ways and means for best accomplishing the work in their respective districts.

The Educational Department of this paper will be glad at all times to co-operate and lend its assistance in promoting the interests of the various participants in this worthy cause.

From Report of the U. S. Department of Education

"Within the next decade the Moving Picture will be the indispensable adjunct of every teacher and Educational Lecturer. On the public platform the cinematograph will inevitably have its recognized place, and it may even invade the pulpit. As the attention and interest of educators are more and more drawn to its merits, the future usefulness of the educational cinematograph bids fair to surpass the predictions of its most sanguine advocates."

Use this blank to enter name of school. Fill out as directed and bring or mail to Visual Education Campaign Manager.

Now in session here. Seated, left to r tion officer of Alameda county; Mi mento; Rev. M. J. Scanlan, S.T.L. Astredo, chief probation officer of of Social Agencies.

Charities and Corrections, opened its eighth annual meeting yesterday afternoon. Headquarters are at Hotel Clark, but the opening session was held at the Friday Morning Clubhouse.

Workers in municipal bureaus, boards of charities, psychopathis associations and probation committees in the East and Middle West as well as California and other Pacific Coast States, are in the city to take part in the numerous section meetings, round table conferences and general programmes arranged for every day of the week, except Saturday, when the delegates will go to San Diego to visit the exposition.

The keynote of the conference was struck at the opening session by Mrs. E. L. Baldwin of San Francisco, first vice-president, who replied to an address of welcome by Mayor Sebastian. The conference was made up, she said, of persons who had entered the high calling of personal service to humanity. They were there as earnest and patriotic Americans and "as students learning from each other and from your social enterprises the things that will make up the science of social welfare." She added that Dr. Carlson Parker, one of the best teachers, because one of the most earnest students of human life, had sent through her, the following message: "You are to help build the foundation for the great science of the future, the science of human welfare, the science of life and living for the coming decades."

The experience of Los Angeles in its experiment in the municipal control of charities was related at the evening session, held at Trinity Auditorium. It formed the subject of the presidential address of Dr. Hubank Johnson, head of the municipal charities. He said that, as far as he knew, Los Angeles was the first large city formally to attempt to regulate charitable societies by law.

Dr. Johnson told of the legal proceedings instituted by the Salvation Army, which, he said, resulted in the State Supreme Court handing down a ruling establishing the law that cities have power to exercise a reasonable measure of control and regulation aimed to prevent and correct abuses in charitable endeavor. He declared that both the stability and the necessity of municipal control of charities had been demonstrated. Speaking more particularly of the conference, Dr. Johnson said it was called to study problems which might benefit mankind.

Rabbi Martin A. Meyer, president of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, gave an address on "Public and Private Charities." Mayor Johnson, who was down on the programme for an address, failed to come, but sent Dr. John L. Haynes to represent him.

Judge Sidney R. Reeve of the Juvenile Court, who was to have joined with Mayor Sebastian in welcoming the conference, was detained at home, owing to serious eye trouble. Harold K. Vann, chief probation officer, read a statement from Judge Reeve calling attention to the need of a number of reforms in the juvenile court and also to the necessity for more care of those afflicted with epilepsy.

Judge Reeve also remarked on overlapping in charitable work, and said he knew of one home where one day seven visitors called at different times representing seven organizations. The little baby in the family was bathed four times and could have had a fifth bath but the fifth visitor knew just enough of the language spoken by the child's mother to realize that the baby was perfectly clean and had been washed enough for one day.

Today will begin the real business of the conference, which is to exchange ideas with others working in the same line of social service. The section meetings will start at 10 o'clock this morning, as follows: Care and training of feebleminded, at the Friday Morning Clubhouse; education for social work, Y.M.C.A.; health and sanita-

At noon a round table luncheon will be held at Hotel Clark, at which the topic will be, care and training of the feeble-minded. In the afternoon a visit will be paid to Universal City.

The evening meeting at Trinity Auditorium will be marked by addresses by two prominent visitors. Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal Courts, Chicago, will give an address on "Disease and Crime—an Analogy."

The Board of Education considers the meetings of this conference of such importance that it has made arrangements for the principals of all the schools to permit teachers to attend.

A reception for the delegates will be held at the Friday Morning Clubhouse Thursday, from 3 to 5 o'clock. Madame Ann Dare's Russian peasants will present a programme of national songs and dances.

TWO NABBED IN BUNGALOW RAID

Bogus Money Charge Involves a Father and Son.

Made the Stuff, but Tore it up, Youth Declares.

Mystery of "Indian Heads" Solved by Capture?

What is believed to be the solution of a question that has bothered Secret Service Agent Hazen for more than a year, involving the circulation of counterfeit $5 Indian-head silver certificates, was arrived at, yesterday morning, when Mr. Hazen, with Deputy United States Marshal Walton and Capt. W. P. Walsh, made a descent upon a pretty little bungalow at No. 211 West Forty-seventh place, and took into custody Edward de Zelle, aged 64, and his son, Charles E. de Zelle, aged 37, on a charge of having counterfeiting paraphernalia in their possession. The father and son were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hammack, and held in $5000 bond each.

No money was found, but negatives, plates, paper, printing press, acids, etc., usually found in a complete counterfeiting plant, are alleged to have been discovered, and will be marked "Exhibit A." If the case ever comes to trial. The men, it is claimed, admit that the stuff belonged to them and also that they were engaged in printing the $5 bills, but deny that they passed them. "We tore them up," the son is alleged to have said, when pressed to tell what they had done with the result of their labors.

The arrest of the De Zelles, father and son, comes after a campaign on the part of Mr. Hazen, covering several months. The $5 Indian-head silver certificates have been located at a number of points along the Coast, and merchants in this city have been getting their share of the spurious stuff. The accused men have been under suspicion for some time, but the evidence to convict was only secured, it is claimed, when the officers, led by Mr. Hazen, armed with a search-warrant issued by United States Commissioner Hammack, made a raid on the Forty-seventh place premises.

The elder De Zelle is a former resident of Troy, N. Y., where he was engaged at times as a millwright and also as an engineer on the New York Central. Father and son drifted to the Pacific Coast about three years ago, and previous to occupying the residence where they were arrested, lived at No. 621 Santa Monica boulevard, Santa Monica; No. 144 Claudine street, Anaheim; No. 721 North Wilson avenue, Pasadena, and No. 660 Ruth avenue, this city. They lived alone at all of these places, and it is believed prosecuted their alleged counterfeiting operations at all of these localities.

The last place they lived before locating on Forty-seventh place, was at No. 101 North Second street, Alhambra, where they are alleged to have left a lot of telltale evidence in the shape of torn-up negatives, etc. They did not linger long at Alhambra, but, it is claimed, were soon driven out by the curiosity of the neighbors who were interested in their mysterious comings and goings.

The younger De Zelle claims to have been employed by the Tom Furlong Detective Agency, in St. Louis, by the Thiel Agency here and in San Francisco, and a little while ago had an office on his own account in the Marsh-Strong Building. It is also claimed by the young man that until recently his father and himself were engaged in printing and selling lottery tickets, but the son says the scheme did not pay.

The counterfeit money in circulation in Los Angeles and other Coast cities, within the past year or two, according to information furnished by Mr. Hazen, is excellent as counterfeits go, and the makers had no difficulty in passing it. But not a single bill was found at their rendezvous, only the complete paraphernalia, it is said, for the manufacture of the stuff, coupled with the confession of the men that they did make a few bills, but only to destroy them.

First Hand.

TO VISIT OIL FIELDS.

Judge Bledsoe Will Make Personal Inspection of Lands Involved in Suits of Government Against the Southern Pacific Over Contested Grants.

Judge Bledsoe of the United States District Court, who has spent the most of his time the past six months hearing the suits of the government against the Southern Pacific company over valuable oil lands in the San Joaquin Valley, and in Kern county, will next week make a personal examination and inspection of the extensive oil fields involved in the various suits.

During the course of the hearing more than 200 maps and photographs of the various localities have been put in evidence, and the court proposes seeing them with his own eyes, and to discover if there are oil seepages in the territory, as has been alleged by the prosecution. The trip will begin at Coalinga and cover the entire Sunset and adjoining fields, commencing next Monday. A number of geologists and surveyors who have made a study of the land will accompany the party, that expects to spend at least a week "roughing it" in the oil country, in order that the court may have first-hand knowledge of conditions that have been set out by both sides to the contention.

The hearing of testimony in the case will be resumed in this city May 22, and continue for several days, when an adjournment will be had to San Francisco, in June, where additional evidence will be taken. Bakersfield, and possibly Houston, Tex., will follow.

Judge Bledsoe yesterday heard Judge Trippet's and his own calendars, and disposed of a number of matters. There will be no court at the Federal Building until May 15, unless Judge Trippet should dispose of his calendar in Fresno at a date earlier. It is expected the session there will continue at least two weeks.

MACHINES FOR POSTMEN.

Bids will be Asked to Furnish Fourteen Autos for Mail Service.

The arrangement for the use of their own automobiles by carriers of the Los Angeles postoffice, for the delivery of parcel post packages and the collection of mail, in vogue since the Brink Express Company relinquished the contract, has proved unsatisfactory, and within a short time bids will be taken by Postmaster Brown for furnishing fourteen machines for the service.

Under the old contract, the machine, driver and oil were furnished by the Brink Express Company, but it is intended the bidder under the new deal shall furnish only the machine and the gas. The contract will also be for only eight hours a day, instead of ten, as under the former contract.

NEW YORKERS TO MEET.

The New York State Society will meet in The Times Assembly Rooms next Friday evening for the regular monthly meeting. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Dr. Lyman B. Sperry will speak, and there will be a good literary and musical programme.

Notable figures in the Conference of Social Agencies, and sincere thanks to the donor of the magnificent gift.

Supervisor Woodley seconded the resolution and was unanimously indorsed by the board. In his brief remarks, he suggested that such a public-spirited action should eventually lead other wealthy men of the community to assist in beautifying the county and helping to greater eojoyment all classes who reside here.

Former Judge Stephens called attention to the fact that large sums of money had been offered for this small area because of its great research value. "All sorts of efforts have been made in the past five years to have the property turned over to private or quais-private institutions and individuals," he said. "Ever since his mother's death, Mr. Hancock has never faltered in his intention of presenting the place ultimately to the people of the county."

President Mitchell of the Chamber of Commerce declared that this park would in a very short time rank as one unique in all the world and would prove one of the best drawing cards of the Southwest. "Numerous European savants visited the pits prior to the breaking out of the war and studied them most carefully, showing what a widespread interest there has been in them ever since their discovery," he stated.

According to the present outlines for the park, the improvement work will be carried on in such a way as to emphasize the great significance of the pits. These will be left in their natural state, showing exposed masses of bones of the prehistoric animals.

Out of the skeletons of many that have been excavated, the animal in its primal nature will be reconstructed, the exterior being of durable material. Sculptors will be assisted in carrying out this work by noted osteologists so that every detail of the strange creatures residing in this land of everlasting sun will be brought out, enabling even the school child to understand and enjoy each one.

The park will be easily accessible, being located on Wilshire boulevard, just a short distance beyond the city line, and not far removed from the Santa Monica electric line. Work on the construction will be started as soon as the new tax budget for 1916-1917 has been passed upon, some time in July.

Dog Stands Off Four Policemen, Saving Master's Appearance in Court for Leaving Machine Standing in Violation of Traffic Rules.

A brown dog with a fiery and intense disposition saved his owner from appearing in Police Court this morning, to answer a charge of leaving his automobile standing on the street in violation of the traffic laws. The machine was parked on Broadway near Fourth street. Under it slept a medium-sized dog.

After the machine had stood for several hours, beyond the restricted line, Mounted Officer Kalem approached the machine to attach a tag notifying the owner to appear in Police Court. When Policeman Kalem reached out to tie the tag, the dog bounded from beneath the machine and gave heated dispute. So aggressive was the dog that Kalem retired, in search of reinforcements. He returned with the crossing policeman, the policeman on the beat, and another.

They approached the machine from four sides, and as each extended his arm towards the car, the dog leaped furiously, running around the car to protect it from the attack. After five minutes' maneuvering, the policemen retired, and the motorist found his machine unmarked by the censor of the traffic.

Suits Originally $30.00 Are Now $21.75

Not every suit included was originally $30.00, but none have been less than $25.00—and they were the best values the markets afford at the first-named prices, too! Now that they have done their duty as guides to what is best in fashion, we shall sell what remain at this little price, because they are styles which we cannot reorder upon:

Suits at $21.75

Are shown in navy, Copen, brown, reseda—serges and poplins and gabardines; checks in the much-desired wool velours in browns and greens; and novelty checks in blue, brown or green; your choice of these wonderfully good suits at $21.75.

Handsome Sports Suits

Are arriving daily; and certain very pretty models which have been in stock a little longer are reduced now—velours in plain and check materials; and wool Jerseys in dark shades, mixtures; variously reduced in price now; ask to see them.

"Home, James!" No Need To Look Further Vogue Hats Always Suffice

About the middle of every season the styles in garments, and more especially in Hats, become standardized, so to speak, so that we know what is fashionable to wear.

The Vogue Hat Company has waited for the last word, and now bring out, on May 1st, a dozen shapes that they know are absolutely correct.

The Coulter Dry Goods Company will be the distributing agents for this headwear in Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico.

A daintily illustrated booklet, showing these hats, with prices, will be mailed to any one interested, upon application.

WALL STREET MARKETS CONTINUE UPWARD TREND

Mercantile Marine Shares, Which Compose a Quarter of the Total Dealings, Lead in Activity, Pacific Mail Following Closely with a Three-point Gain—All Steels and Metals are up One to Four.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—Regardless of numerous week-end developments of an adverse character today's market continued its upward march. Mercantile Marine again was the dominant feature at new high records.

Combined dealings in Marine, preferred, and common amounted to 250,000 shares, or about one-quarter of the whole. Marine, preferred made an extreme gain of 7⅝ points at 98 and the common 4¼ at 29¼. Other shipping shares were strong, Pacific Mail gaining 3¼ and United Fruit 2 points.

Crucible Steel, Baldwin and American Locomotive, American Car, rubbers and metals and minor equipments and industrials rose 1 to 4 points. Mexicans were visibly improved. Mexican Petroleum rose 3½ and American Smelting's maximum gain was 2⅛.

Rails were again a negligible factor until the final hour when Reading led a general rise in that group.

Total sales of stocks amounted to 920,000 shares.

The international markets reflected a better tone.

Bonds were steady, but otherwise featureless. Total sales par value $2,990,000.

Panama coupon 2s were 1⅜ lower on call.

Grain.

A WET SPRING RETARDS SEEDING.

WHEAT PRICES ARE FORCED TO HIGHER LEVELS.

Gain of Nearly Three Cents is Made with no Attempt at a Reaction by the Bears, and the Market Closes Exceedingly Strong.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 1.—Unseasonably cold rainy weather that rendered certain a further curtailment of spring seeding led to sharply higher prices today in wheat. No important reactions took place, and the market closed strong, 1¾@1⅞ to 2⅜ net higher, with May at 1.16¾ and July at 1.17⅞. Corn finished unchanged to ⅛ higher, oats up ¼ to 1 and provisions with gains of 10 to 35.

Wheat opened sharply higher and a good deal more active than usual. Resulting sales on the advance in wheat attained a broad volume at times, but invariably met with enough new buying to prevent any lasting setback.

Corn responded to the wheat advance. Heavy profit taking by longs however, operated as a decided offset. Gains derived their strength chiefly from the action of other grain.

Provisions advanced to the highest level yet this season. Lower quotations on hogs were only a temporary influence.

GERMAN LOANS KEEP WITHIN LIMITS.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, May 1 (via Sayville.)—The report of the German loan issue for 1915 shows that, while the maximum limit for emissions had been fixed by law at the beginning of the war at 2,000,000,000 marks, the sum of 2,000,000,000 was reached only during three days. The highest level was touched on December 1, with 2,248,000,000 marks. The total amount on February 15, with 2,500,000,000. The principal borrowers were the municipalities which received large sums owing to the needs of the war.

HEAVY BUYING ON BULL SIDE.

PREDICTIONS OF FROST IN TEXAS SCARES SHORTS.

Private Acreage Estimates and the Strength in the Spot Situation also Accelerates the Demand—Export Business Shows a Steady Improvement.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 1.—This was a bull day in cotton from the start and public participation on the buying side was more spirited than for many months past. The news from a market viewpoint was as bullish as could be expected, and conservative interests who have for a long time been dormant were eager buyers throughout the session. Unseasonableness of the weather in Texas retarding germination, with predictions for heavy frost in the greater part of that section in the next twenty-four hours, combined with the bullishness of the spot advices, could not be ignored, and these influences, more than anything else, accelerated the demand. Private acreage estimates of last week, which were below the anticipated 10 per cent. increase in the cotton area, were thoroughly discussed over Sunday, and they had the desired effect of augmenting trade buying. Owing to the eagerness of the domestic mill demand, the statistical position is gradually growing stronger, and those who have until recently based their hopes for a declining market on heavy supplies, are less disposed to magnify the same. Export business in the last ten days has shown a fair improvement, and owing to the extremely small supplies held abroad, a movement of no mean proportion for the immediate future is likely. The curtailed use of fertilizer and the inferior quality of that being used, makes it imperative that ideal growing conditions, of which there has been a noticeable absence lately, be the order of things from now on to produce a quantity of cotton exceeding materially last year's out-turn.

Liverpool cables due ⅛ to 2¼ higher, came 3 lower than due on October, 1 lower on July and 2¼ lower on May. There was a fair demand for spot cotton; prices quiet; sales, 8000 bales; receipts, 2000 bales; middlings, 7.95; futures opened quiet.

ASKS BIG DAMAGES FOR IMPRISONMENT.

CONSTABLE HELD BLAMELESS FOR ARREST.

Court Hears Evidence in Action of Real Estate Man Against Pomona Woman, Whose Charge of Theft of a Deed was Dismissed by Justice Hinshaw.

The $50,000 suit of Ira Stubbs against Mrs. Mary Abercrombie of Pomona for alleged false imprisonment came before Judge Monroe yesterday. Justice Palmer and Constable Lyons were also named as defendants, but the court dismissed the complaint as to the constable.

The original charge against Mr. Stubbs was stealing a deed of Mrs. Abercrombie's. The warrant was issued by Justice Palmer and served by Constable Lyons. Holding that a deed is not a thing of value until it is delivered, Justice Hinshaw, who tried the case, dismissed it on the ground that the charge of larceny failed.

Yesterday Mrs. Abercrombie testified that last fall she arranged through Mr. Stubbs to exchange a lot in Culver City for a piece of property. She testified that after drawing up the deed it was decided to execute one in another form, and she supposed the first document was destroyed.

Subsequently Mrs. Abercrombie learned that the first deed had been recorded. She said that Mr. Stubbs admitted he had done wrong and agreed to transfer the property back to her.

The court declined to hear evidence as to the good faith of the defendants in causing Mr. Stubbs to be arrested. The trial will be concluded Wednesday.

COLONIZATION CHARGE.
VENICE SUIT DROPPED.

This suit bristling with sensational allegations brought by Joseph Mesmer and others against County Clerk Lelande and Registrar of Voters McAleer, involving the charge of the colonization of voters in Venice, was dismissed by stipulation before Judge Price yesterday. It was agreed that fifty names of men, charged with being illegally on the voting list, should be stricken off.

The original complaint, represented legally by former Judge Moss, alleged the men named as defendants were not entitled to vote at the election, and the court was asked to cancel the registrations. An amended complaint was filed after strong opposition, alleging that these men were employed at picayune jobs, herded in a camp and paid for the trifling work they did by the city. City officials were brought in as alleged parties to this alleged colonization.

One of the alleged objects of the colonization was to control the election for annexation of Ocean Park Heights, which project was opposed by Mr. Mesmer and other property owners, on the ground that much of the land sought to be taken in was swamp and the benefit would not be in proportion to the taxes demanded.

HORTON INSURANCE.
DEMURRER SUSTAINED.

Meeting the demand of Mrs. Jessie Balch Horton, widow of G. Ray Horton, attorney, for $6500 under a policy of insurance taken out in the Travelers' Insurance Company, with the objections that Mr. Horton's death was not effected by external, violent or accidental means, the demurrer of the insurance company to the complaint was sustained by Judge Taft yesterday, which may, unless an appeal is taken, throw the case out of court.

Mr. Horton died January 4, 1915. It was alleged in the complaint that he received bodily injuries by the introduction of virulent germs through an operation on his teeth. The policy of insurance of his life had been in force since February 14, 1914. A demand was made for the payment of the policy and refused on the ground that Mr. Horton's death was not the result of accidental means.

Attorney Walter K. Tuller, counsel for the company, made the argument some time ago. Yesterday the court handed down his decision. If the complaint is amended and the case goes to trial, the trial will be watched with interest by insurance people.

CONTRIBUTORY.
DAMAGES DENIED.

Evidence which tended to show contributory negligence on the part of the driver of the automobile which contained Harold Snyder, 20 years old, of Alhambra; Earl H. Drain, George L. Chrisope and Eugene and Ward Scott, brought judgment in favor of Thomas J. Fleming, who was sued for the death of Harold and injuries to his four friends. The case, tried several days ago by Judge Curtis of San Bernardino county, sitting in Judge Finlayson's court, was decided yesterday.

The accident occurred on the Valley boulevard August 15, last. Mr. Fleming was driving one car and his chauffeur was driving a second, containing Mrs. Fleming, a daughter and a friend. The second auto collided with the machine the young men were in. Harold was thrown to the ground, receiving concussion of the brain. He died the following day.

Negligence was alleged against the driver of the second car, but the trial developed that the car the young men were in was on the wrong side of the road and that the accident would have been avoided by proper driving. J. H. Snyder, Harold's father, asked $20,000 damages. Damages for injuries were demanded by the other young men in the car.

IN AND OUT ABOUT THE COURTS.

BRIEF WILL. John Adams Clark disposed of his $26,000 estate in a four-line will, filed yesterday. He died March 31, last, leaving cash, notes and insurance. The will was executed August 27, 1913, and briefly gives the estate to his daughters, Lelia Sabin McCarthy and Elizabeth Booth, the latter of Pomona. Mrs. McCarthy resides in Minnesota.

INJUNCTION SUIT. A wedge-shaped piece of land varying from one to nine inches in width and 150 feet long will be the subject of expert testimony in Judge Wellborn's court tomorrow. The suit was brought by Mrs. Isabella Strait against Gurton G. Adams. She asks the court to grant an injunction restraining Mr. Adams from proceeding with the construction of an apartment-house at Witmer and Ingraham streets, alleging that the excavation encroaches on land she owns adjoining Mr. Adams's lot. Damages are demanded in the sum of $5000.

TUCKER ESTATE. Included in the separate property of George Rollin Tucker, who died February 16, last, are two shares of Pennsylvania Railroad and three shares of stock of the New York, New Haven and Hudson River Railroad. Other stock is listed in the petition for letters of administration filed yesterday by the widow, Laura V. Tucker of No. 1027 North Figueroa street. The heirs are the widow and the children, the latter Edgar and John Tucker.

INCORPORATORS. The Keeley Institute Company, incorporators A. F. Johnson, W. M. Brown, A. H. Naftzger, A. P. Johnson, Jr., and Roy E. Naftzger, capital stock $10,000, subscribed $10,000; the Southern California Society for the Advancement of Medical Research, incorporators H. O. White, C. F. Charlton, A. T. Charlton, Walter F. Wessels and Lyman B. Stookey; the A. C. Vroman, Incorporated, incorporators A. C. Vroman, George F. Howell and A. A. Dilworth, capital stock $50,000, subscribed $50,000; the California Oil and Asphalt Company, incorporators Fred P. Sheather, Regina M. Sheather and Winfield B. Sheather, capital stock $50,000, subscribed $200.

PLAN TO REJECT POWER OFFERS.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER REPORT IN EXECUTIVE SESSION.

President Betkouski Says He will Favor a Reply to the Owners of Distributing Lines that will Insist upon Immediate Transfer of Property, or Nothing.

Rejection of the offer of the power companies to sell their distributing lines to the city at the end of five or ten years, at the city's option, is to be discussed by the Council in executive session as a committee of the whole next Wednesday. This meeting was set yesterday by President Betkouski after the Council received formally the tentative answer to the offer as prepared and adopted by the Public Service Commission.

Councilman Betkouski said yesterday that he will urge upon the Council that the offer of the power companies, transmitted through the Chamber of Commerce, should be rejected. A reply will be presented, he said, and this will indicate that the only proposition that the Council will consider must be an offer to sell the distributing systems immediately and at a price which the Public Service Commission regards as reasonable.

The resolutions promulgated by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association urging the Council to accept the proposition made by the power companies was also received by the Council yesterday, and Col. W. H. Holabird, chairman of the Business Men's Committee, submitted 140 post cards from prominent taxpayers urging the Council to accept the offer. Both matters were referred to the committee of the whole.

BUILDING CODE.
NEW ORDINANCE READY.

Copies of the city's proposed complete revision and codification of building ordinances as prepared by the special commission appointed in 1913 were presented to members of the Council yesterday. In preparing the new ordinance the commission has endeavored to meet present-day conditions in the matter of specifications and materials used and to provide more strict regulation with reference to fire protection. In many instances, the framers of the ordinance say, the cost of construction will be lessened by permitting the adoption of new materials and combinations. The commission which drew the ordinance includes J. J. Backus, chief inspector of buildings; Julius F. Hall, Mark C. Cohn, assistant building inspector; City Attorney Stephens, George C. Sutton, Albert C. Martin, George E. Bergstrom, C. E. Richards, C. L. Peck and Edward Mayberry.

The new ordinance will likely be referred to the Public Safety Committee and also to the Council committee of the whole before it is formally presented for passage.

FRANCHISE DENIED.
UTILITIES BOARD REPORTS.

An adverse report on the Industrial Terminal Railway Company's application for a franchise for a steam road across Macy street was adopted yesterday by the Public Utilities Board, and the company's application for spur track franchises in Lyons and Ramirez streets was also denied. President Lane in his report said that inasmuch as the proposition is not a public utility, but, rather, simply an attempt to connect with the private property of L. E. Hanchett, there is no justification for permitting another grade crossing in Macy street. Regarding the spur tracks proposed in the other streets, Mr. Lane suggests that if any permit is issued it should be for electrically operated lines rather than a steam road. The property in question comprises a large part of old Chinatown, east of the Plaza.

Against Lumber Yard.

Property owners in the vicinity of Vermont and McClintock avenues filed with the Council yesterday a protest against permitting the Holder Lumber Company to remain in that part of the city by creating a special industrial district. In this instance, members of the Council say that when the Holder company gave the city a strip of land for street purposes, there was a "gentlemen's agreement" that the company should be allowed to operate in that locality. The protestants suggest that the city should now pay the company for the land in question and then require the removal of the company from the residence district.

Sewer Work Postponed.

As the result of a protest from property owners in Bairdstown, the City Council yesterday postponed for eighteen months further action on the question of ordering a sewer system under special assessments. Councilman Wheeler explained that the residents of Bairdstown are "good fellows" in the matter of improvements, but they were saddled with a lot of special assessments before annexation and an opportunity should be given to clear these up before any more are made.

NET TIGHTENS ABOUT CAPLAN.

Damaging Evidence Uncovered Against Accused Man.

Tip Given by Slighted Woman Clears up Mystery.

Witnesses Connect Defendant as Schmidt's Companion.

Inability of several of the most important witnesses for the defense to be present at the trial of David Caplan, alleged dynamiter, yesterday afternoon or today, is the cause for an unexpected delay in the proceedings. The case will go on tomorrow morning and at that time some of the principal sensations of the trial are expected.

According to the prosecution, Caplan will be shown, beyond question of a doubt, to have purchased some of the explosives used in The Times tragedy. The five-year mystery of the one low per cent. box of dynamite found with the nine boxes of the 80 per cent. explosive, was cleared up yesterday.

Malcolm McLaren, a county investigator, has unearthed all the clews to this box of explosive and is alleged to be ready to prove that it was purchased by Caplan. During the trial of Schmidt and in the investigation of the operations of the McNamara brothers, the identification of the bulk of the explosive was made easy through officials of the Giant Powder Company.

A woman telephoned the District Attorney's office recently, giving the tip as to where the last box of the dynamite had been bought. Intimating that she was done with the union labor crowd because several officials of the organization implicated in the local crime had in some way slighted her. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine declared that the investigation had brought results and it would be positively proven that Caplan bought this explosive on or about September 15, 1910.

DEFENSE WILL ADMIT IT.

Defense Attorney Coghlan was not at all surprised that this damaging evidence had been uncovered and stated that his witnesses would admit that Caplan bought the dynamite, but intended it for legitimate purposes. He asserted that at the time of the blowing up of The Times building here, Caplan was farming in a country denuded of its trees by lumbermen and that the dynamite he had purchased was for use in blowing out stumps in order to make the soil tillable.

This statement of the defense attorney adds to the weight of belief that the fight of Caplan will be entirely along the lines of proving an alibi.

This will be difficult after the testimony of witnesses on the stand yesterday, several of whom identified him as a close associate of Schmidt, the McNamaras, Olaf Tveitmoe, Anton Johannsen and Eric Morton, the latter trio being labor bosses of San Francisco.

W. H. Brown, who lived at the rooming-house of Mrs. Belle Lavin in San Francisco, identified Caplan as an associate of these conspirators, removing even the question of a doubt which he expressed during his testimony in the trial of the convicted Matthew A. Schmidt. It was while leading up to a question that might have resolved itself into an effort to impeach the witness, that the fishing season entered into the discussion.

FISHING NOT ALLOWED.

Attorney Coghlan begged the court to permit him to do some fishing. Deputy District Attorney Keyes having objected to the nature of the question put to Mr. Brown. "You're merely fishing in order to try and entangle the witness," said Prosecutor Keyes. "You've been fishing now for five years, and caught some fish, too, I'll admit." said Coghlan. "I should certainly be granted some of the same angling privileges that the court has allowed you," he pleaded. Judge Willis, however, ruled against him.

Mrs. May Duran, a visitor at the home of Mrs. Lavin, also testified seeing Caplan there and of having talked to him on one occasion. "I was just leaving the house when Mr. Caplan came in," she said. "He thought I was connected with the house and asked me whether I had seen 'Schmitty.' When I assured him I had not, he requested that I tell Mr. Schmidt when he came that he, Caplan, had been to call on him."

Dr. E. Ashworth testified that he had seen the defendant at the Lavin rooming-house. Fred Benke was not positive in his identification, but stated that a man who resembled Caplan in practically every contour purchased a tarpaulin for use in covering supplies aboard ship in 1910, prior to the time of the explosion. This covering is alleged to have been used in covering the dynamite carried aboard the Peerless.

Harrison M. Nutter, a clerk at a marine supply shop in San Francisco, testified that Schmidt was accompanied by a man who closely resembled the defendant, Caplan, when the letters, spelling the word "Peerless," were sold by him to the two conspirators.

lot without stating their party affiliation is obvious. There are 242,562 voters in California, who are registered under the "Not Stated" column. The majority of them refused to state their affiliation because they did not think it was any one's business. This is not denied and is considered as un-American as most of the provisions of the silly primary law, but the law must be obeyed and the law says that the voter who will not state the party with which he intends to affiliate at the next ensuing November election shall not be given a ballot. And the law is to be strictly enforced.

Precinct workers will be found at all of the polls today. Hundreds of volunteers applied at Republican headquarters yesterday and they were assigned to various polls. Many offered their automobiles to be used in taking voters to the polls and they were gladly accepted.

Chairman Bartlett said last night that reports from different parts of the county and throughout the State were most encouraging. He expects the straight ticket to be victorious north and south of the Tehachepi.

ELEPHANT PARADE.

Yesterday afternoon loyal Republicans were given a real thrill when they saw a couple of massive elephants from Bostock's jungle parading the principal thoroughfares. Streamers on their sides bore the words, "Save me from my enemies." A calliope, playing lively airs led the parade.

The following letter was received by The Times from C. Cole, the oldest Republican voter in the county:

"Age and experience may justify a few words from me to my Republican friends.

"The ticket dubbed "United-Republicans" is not of the Republican party at all; least of all, is it calculated to unite Republicans. Just the reverse is its manifest purpose. It is a fraudulent and wicked scheme, hatched by Hiram Johnson, the head of the Progressive party, to defeat the Republicans. He has put up a ticket exclusively of his own party and given it the name Republican to beguile Republicans in voting for it in the belief that it is Republican. His namesake, Andrew Johnson, for a much less flagrant political offense, nearly lost the high office of President of the United States and clearly Gov. Johnson ought to be impeached for his crime.

"But this is not the first offense of its nature that Hiram Johnson is guilty of. Four years ago he defrauded the entire Republican party of California of their God-given right to vote for their Presidential candidate, William H. Taft.

"There is nothing so sacred in a republic as the will of the people and no crime more henious than to thwart it. It is of the same character practically as ballot-box stuffing, which led to the vigilante committee in San Francisco. Gov. Johnson lately wrote a letter to a banquet in Los Angeles and out of his own mouth he stands convicted of all that he is charged with; he is undeniably particeps criminis in this great ballot offense.

into the boat. The men began to complain, but no attention was given the objection. No one was fishing or attempting to fish.

"Finally I stood up and asked Mr. Pierson to cut down the speed. Almost before my demand was spoken I fell overboard. Then the boat turned and others slid into the water. In a moment all were floundering in the icy lake, and the boat completely disappeared, the engine still running.

"When I first was able to take note of anything I found Tharp swimming near me, about twenty feet away. He saw the boat come to the surface and called to me to go and get it. I swam toward the boat and the struggling men. I heard Tharp call for help and when I turned to look he had disappeared. I reached the launch, clambered on it, and picked up four men. Boats from the shore came out and picked up the others."

When boats from shore arrived they found four men clinging to the launch almost dead from cold, and four had disappeared, while three others were still in the water.

As soon as he could change clothing, Mr. Henderson returned to the lake and assisted in directing the search for the four missing men. The weeds that helped drag the four to their death prevented the bodies from sinking to the bottom.

George E. Wearne, a San Francisco mail clerk, brother of one of the victims, read of the accident here yesterday. He hastened to the home of his sister, Mrs. D. G. Henderson, to inform her of the sad news, but she had already had a telephone message from her husband, telling of the drowning.

Harry Tharp was the only child of C. M. Tharp of No. 1244 East Twenty-first street.

Dr. Clyde M. Trumpower, aged 31 years, a dentist, formerly resided with his wife at No. 622 East Seventh street, Long Beach. He was prominent as a clubman, belonged to the Elks and was a thirty-second degree Mason. He carried a large insurance, having recently taken out an additional $10,000 policy from Ben M. Rapp of Long Beach, another victim of the accident. Dr. Trumpower resided in Long Beach six years prior to his death. He graduated from the Starling Ohio Medical College in 1908, and after coming to California settled at Long Beach. The funeral will be under the auspices of the Masons.

Ben M. Rapp, aged 37 years, lived at No. 2105 Lime avenue in Long Beach. He was prominent in business, having one of the largest insurance agencies in the community. He also carried a large insurance policy, believed to have been in excess of $15,000. He leaves a widow and three small children. A prominent member of the Elks, he will be buried under the ritual of that order and also with services by the Christian Science minister of Long Beach.

Late last evening Mr. Pierson was still in a critical condition and grave fears were expressed for his recovery. He was unconscious when rescued and at frequent intervals relapsed. Others of the party who were rescued were to all appearances quite recovered last night and were able to appear at the inquest.

The bodies were taken to Los Angeles and Long Beach last night. Attorney G. M. Spicer of Long Beach, a member of the party, but not in the boat, requested on behalf of the relatives of the dead men that the inquest be held as soon as possible so that the remains could be taken home.

DANCE ON THE LAWN.

Graceful Girls, Lithe of Limb, are Features of Brilliant Fete in Pasadena that Marks Opening of Summer Season Which will be Gay.

Attended by fully 500 persons, a brilliant May Day garden fete was given yesterday afternoon at the Maryland Hotel, opening the summer season of gaiety in Pasadena. A spring-time garden furnished the setting for a programme of dancing and singing seldom equaled here.

One of the big features was the appearance of dainty Margaret McKee, the Los Angeles girl whistler. From a bird cage suspended in the garden she made her appearance, garbed as a canary bird, and whistled "The Mocking Bird," sextette from "Lucia de Lammermoor," "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" and the "Song of a Bird."

The Maryland orchestra played for the entire programme and a bevy of dancing girls composed of Misses Una Fleming, Consuelo Henley, Lillian Harris, Marguerite Eaton, Helen Higgins, Marjorie O'Neil and Olga Waite opened the programme. A dainty Greek garden dance was staged on the lawn, while the girls also gave the "Moment Musicale," "A Spring Song," and closed the programme with a May-pole dance.

Dorothy Smoller furnished several of the most charming numbers on the programme and proved exceedingly graceful and lithe of limb in her interpretation of "The Coming of Spring" and "The Geisha." Una Fleming was one of the big features of the afternoon's programme and presented the "Old French Polka" and "Morning" from the Peer Gynt suite.

The programme was open to the public and, at its conclusion, tea was served in the beautiful gardens of the Maryland.

8th Annual Buyers Sale

—The Buyers Sale is unusual—it's a big event every year—the name tells you why. The Buyer is the man of the hour. Each year he tries to outdo last year's record and that makes each sale better than the last.

—But wait—that's the smallest part of the reason why this Buyers Sale will stand alone as a record of achievement. To be brief, the war in Europe has done more than make history—it has said "No" to commerce. How big that "No" is, most of us have yet to learn—but our Buyers are finding out daily.

—In the face of the simplest things going up, up, up in price—and many of the more expensive lines of merchandise not to be had at any price—the special offerings in our 8th Annual Buyers Sale are most phenomenal.

Today, the 2nd Day

—Today, the second day of the Greatest Buyers Sale in our history, and we predict for it the same high enthusiasm, the same great throngs of economy-wise shoppers, the same instantaneous success that greeted it when the doors opened Monday morning—it is a Sale that is unique in the commercial annals of the Great Southwest—greater quantities, greater values than will be possible again, perhaps for years, in fact, when many lots of merchandise in the Sale are gone, there'll be none to be had again until after the import troubles are over—buy now, and buy for seasons to come, for the more you buy the more you'll save!

The SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER, the most successful Hearst newspaper, in its issue of Sunday, March 5th, gave its readers and advertisers capital advice in the following words:

"When in doubt as to which of two mediums to use, choose the one with the greater amount of classified advertising.

"The small and mighty want ad., in dominating numbers, is the best associate for the advertiser who would be successful."

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES prints more "Want Ads" than all other local newspapers combined; and, having used in Los Angeles for many years the same argument employed by its San Francisco contemporary, it welcomes this approval of its judgment in the matter.

LONDON, May 2.—Heavy fighting which has been in progress about Verdun for the past three days continues without abatement. The French are continuing their counter-attacks, launched with the failure of the Germans' assaults on Le Mort Homme yesterday.

At the latter position Gen. Petain has won back first-line trenches over a distance of nearly a mile, with a depth of between 300 and 600 meters. Another drive launched east of the Meuse about Douaumont was
